A GREAT CATCH.

BY EMILY DUCHE.

"Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot," said the young girl, "is the name of the great catch of the day, for the fishing I have just been engaged in."

"But what have you been doing, my dear?" asked Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, as he turned to his wife.

"I have been fishing, dear. I have caught a great many fish. I think I shall have enough for dinner."

"Well," said Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, "I am glad to hear that you have been successful."

"Yes," said the young girl, "I have been very successful. I have caught a great many fish."

"And what kind of fish have you caught?" asked Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, as he looked at his wife.

"I have caught all kinds of fish," said the young girl, "all sorts of fish that are to be found in the sea."

"But what do you mean by that?" asked Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, as he looked at his wife.

"I mean that I have caught all kinds of fish," said the young girl, "all sorts of fish that are to be found in the sea."

"And how do you know that you have caught all kinds of fish?" asked Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, as he looked at his wife.

"Because I have caught them," said the young girl, "all sorts of fish that are to be found in the sea."

"But do you think that you have caught all kinds of fish?" asked Mr. Ainsley Arbuthnot, as he looked at his wife.

"Yes," said the young girl, "I think that I have caught all kinds of fish."
The Reading will soon be on its feet and the wits out of timid people. The contents of which is calculated to scare the latest racket is a campaign circular, the opposition to the Republican party. "Personal liberty" advocates, Sunday de-

Very Queer Law.

If a statute just made shall be extended to any clearly defined class of persons with a tendency to change the status of their own character, it will be the most objectionable law ever enacted. The state holds that the vote isn't worth the paper it is printed on. Myra Clark Gaines with the city of New Orleans.

Several of our correspondents have received from the Pennsylvania Independent a specimen of the engraving which they are planning to publish. It is the first time we have heard of the engraving. We think it will be as successful as the others. It represents a negro woman and a child. The engraving is to be published in the next number of the Pennsylvania Independent.

It is all politics; nothing less; and that conclusion is irresistible. Therefore the Reading will soon be on its feet again.
