In Indianola the impression seems to be current that the speculative species has served as an incentive to the landlord for the export of land. But so far as we are able to judge, the prices paid are not very valuable in their estimation, and the speculators are not free from anxiety. The cotton market seems to have shown a very marked change in the course of the week, the prices remaining about the same. It is not known whether the bills being both introduced must be passed.

Mills bill, the parties go before the Judge Weand, but nevertheless we assert a partisan judiciary under certain conditions. With his usual persistency preaching supply and demand. In regard to the market, the prices are very steady.

We are not to be deceived, but must be permitted to make some profit on the sale of the property. The decrease in the market is not as great as we expected it to be. We have a large supply of sales on hand, and are happy to report that the prices are not as low as we anticipated.

The gratitude of the State Department to the President is expressed in a letter from Mr. Cleveland. The President is now in Washington, and will be present at the opening of Congress. The President'sCircular is placed in a silly corner of the newspaper, and as far as possible it is not noticed.

The Work of the October session of Congress will be a long time in progress. The Railroad bill will not be introduced until next month. The taxes are expected to be increased this year.

The readers of this paper are doubtless thinking of the accident that occurred on the bank of the Yellow river. The reporters are at full stretch to report the details of the accident. They report that the waters are pouring through the entrance of the river, and that the public assistance is $52,000.
