

3-29-2001

The Grizzly, March 29, 2001

Lauren Cyrsky
Ursinus College

Dan Reimold
Ursinus College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/grizzlynews>

Part of the Cultural History Commons, Higher Education Commons, Liberal Studies Commons, Social History Commons, and the United States History Commons

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Cyrsky, Lauren and Reimold, Dan, "The Grizzly, March 29, 2001" (2001). Ursinus College Grizzly Newspaper. 486.

<https://digitalcommons.ursinus.edu/grizzlynews/486>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Newspapers at Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. It has been accepted for inclusion in Ursinus College Grizzly Newspaper by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Ursinus College. For more information, please contact aprock@ursinus.edu.

Armageddon

Asteroid scheduled to hit earth, end mankind's existence the way it began with a big freakin' bang.

Dan Reimold
Goofly Editor-in-Chief

An asteroid the size of Uranus is scheduled to enter earth's atmosphere and smash into the Ursinus campus within the next ten minutes, according to scientists and conspiracy theorists in Washington, D.C.

"By the time you're through reading this article," Ursinus senior Yura Gonadie said, "you'll already be dead."

The explosion upon impact will level Collegeville and all surrounding counties. Toxic radiation levels will spread to every living soul within hours, signaling the abrupt end of all mankind.

Efforts made by NASA astronauts and oilmen Wednesday to demolish the giant rock using nuclear explosives proved unsuccessful.

"Basically, we suck," Fellatio Alger said via satellite from the Apollo 11 spacecraft. "Now, all hope is lost."

Throughout the day, the Ursinus cable access television station informed viewers of their imminent demise with a prerecorded message, which stated repeatedly, "This is NOT a test of the emergency broadcast system. This is the real mother-freakin' thing. All y'all are gonna be toast."

Scientists are calling the asteroid 'Strassburger', in honor of Ursinus President John Strassburger, who made the first reported sighting of the space demon while stargazing late last week.

Strassburger, the man behind the massive rock, is elated at the publicity his namesake has generated.

"How often does something you've discovered result in a day of reckoning for all mankind?" Strassburger asked. "I'm proud as hell. It's a grand, earth-shattering, apocalyptic achievement. It's going to put tiny Ursinus College on the map and blow it off at the same time."

One member of the Strassburger family disagrees.

"Honestly, I think it's all a big

"Strassburger is one spaced-out son of a bitch if he thinks he can come into our atmosphere and push us around."

---Shaggy Clamer,
Ursinus freshman

crook," Trudy Strassburger said. "I've slept next to the man for 30 years and I can assure everyone he is not flaming, huge, or rock-hard and neither is his asteroid."

An organization begun at the start of spring semester, Students Together Against Massive Asteroid Attacks on Campus (STAMAAC), is also skeptical and extremely angry over the world-ending announcement.

"Strassburger is one spaced-out son of a bitch if he thinks he can come into our atmosphere and push us around," Ursinus freshman STAMAAC member Shaggy Clamer said. "It's celestial bodies like him who ruin life for the rest of us."

An Ursinus student dons a cape and blue body paint before entering a campus fall-out shelter Wednesday.

"I hope Strassburger burns in hell," UC junior Joel Billy said. "That agro-crag is barking up the wrong tree if he thinks he can obliterate our planet."

STAMAAC is planning a "Take Back the Earth" awareness program on the eve of mankind's destruction.

"We're holding the event to let Ursinus students know we will not be taking this Armageddon lying down," STAMAAC president Joanie Bon Jovi said. "We will be kicking, screaming, crying, praying, looting, and hiding, as our charred flesh is eaten away and all oxygen is sucked into a vacuum, leaving us to asphyxiate on the ashes of our own remains."

In light of such horrors, Ursinus dean of students Judith Levy has declared a special, campus-wide "End of the World Day".

"My advice in this hour of need: Get the hell outta dodge," Levy stated in a school-wide e-mail. "Or be prepared to kiss your sorry ass good-bye."

With less than a minute remaining until mankind's extinction, Strassburger is confident his asteroid's descent toward Collegeville is truly destiny in the making.

"I knew Strassburger would be the death of us all one day," Strassburger said, smiling wickedly. "Strassburger. Strassburger! Ahahahaha."

Residence Life director also a gambling kingpin

Res. Life director McNulty raking in profits from underground gambling casino in Wismer Center.

Tammy Scherer
Goofly News Editor

Residence Life director Stephanie McNulty is currently under investigation for illegal gambling on the Ursinus College Campus.

Police officers report that there have been several alleged incidents involving staff, administration, and students gambling at a club called, "The McNulty Underground."

The incidents are documented as occurring in the Wismer Lower Lounge and involving the exchange of money in return for the opportunity to participate in games of chance.

Residence Life refuses to comment on the situation, saying only that they have no idea what is going on and they deny the charges.

One member of the Residence Life staff, however, is reported to having said that the Residence Life staff does not gamble with the law, only money, before being pulled away by her supervisor.

One student, a junior who wished to remain anonymous, claims to have participated in the illegal gambling.

"I played blackjack," she said. "Wismer was rolling that night. I even won $50. I was thrilled. I mean, I'm a poor college kid, I have to do what I have to do to get money, you know? Who cares if it's illegal, it's money!"

Another student, sophomore James Peterson, also claims to have taken part in the alleged gambling ring.

"So many kids were down there. We had slots, roulette, and everyone was betting their money. Some kids even went as far as to wager next semester's tuition! At first I couldn't believe that the school would authorize such a thing and now I know that they didn't. It's a shame that Residence Life got busted like this and I guess I should have probably kept my mouth shut. There goes my shot at getting a single next year."

Collegeville Police Chief Andrew Schmit says that the investigation into the incident is on going.

"We can't have these college kids thinking it's okay to gamble their money. It's simply illegal. I'm going to get to the bottom of this."

Amy Hampton did not attend the event but had to console her roommate after a terrible loss.

"Kelly, my roommate, came

"We had slots, roulette, and everyone was betting money. Some kids even went as far as to wager next semester's tuition!"

---James Peterson,
Ursinus sophomore

home broke. Residence Life took all her money. The poor girl, I think she has a real problem. She wakes up in the middle of the night now mumbling about red sevens and royal flushes. I don't know what to do for her."

President John Strassburger is outraged by the alleged incident but vows to help the college get past the issue.

"If our students and staff have a gambling problem, we're going to combat it and make sure that they can get help."

Strassburger, along with several concerned students will bring up a proposal at next week's USGA meeting to create a new organization for students with gambling addiction.

"The new group will be called Ursinus Students Joined Against Gambling, or USJAG," he said.

Residence Life director Stephanie McNulty smiles in delight as she hobknobs with UC undergrads at "The McNulty Underground", an illegal gambling casino run out of Wismer Center.

Reimert condemned

Surprised students cope with loss after favorite party house condemned for unruly St. Patrick's Day party. News, Pg. 3

Is it something in the water?

Goofly undercover reporter looks into mystery of Ursinus College students' high intermarriage rate. News, Pg. 2

Inside The Goofly

'I hate you all'

Renowned Grizzly opinion columnist Patty O'Furniture sounds off on Rod Stewart, Mir Spaceships, and GW Bush. Opinion, Pg. 4

It's Pat!

Gender-ambiguous singer leaves Ursinus students sexually confused, aroused. A&E, Pg. 6

Worth a thousand words

The happenings and personalities of Ursinus College over the past week are captured on camera for all to see and laugh at. Picture Page, Pg. 7

Lazy, drunk & looking to score

The Ursinus Beer Pong squad is ready, willing, and able to consume mad amounts of alcohol, all for the good of the team. Sports, Pg. 8

Is it something in the water?

Yes. Mystery of UC's high intermarriage rate linked to school's water supply.

Will you...
Marry Me?

Scientists from California's University of Berkeley confirm that Ursinus College's water supply is contaminated.

Suspicious arose when the Wellness Center had an overwhelming influx of students every day for the past few years under Phyllis Osisek's care.

Many students complained of butterflies in their stomachs, a rise in heart rate, as well as an inability to control staring at certain individuals.

Unable to find a diagnosis, Phyllis Osisek called the FBI in hopes they could come up with some sort of investigation.

"Every single day students come into the center and complain about the same, mysterious symptoms," she said.

"The strangest aspect of this complex situation is the fact that every single one of these students ends up graduating from Ursinus and marrying one another. How do you explain that?"

FBI agent Sergeant Kissalot was called to the scene where even more, startling evidence was found.

It seems that in the Ursinus archives, a number of student's records indicate that 80 percent of students who have graduated from the institution in the past 100 years have been diagnosed with the same medical problems.

"It is astounding," Sergeant Kissalot screamed.

"Students feel sick and then they marry one another. It just does not add up."

It was Sergeant Kissalot who called Dr. Lovebird from the University of Berkeley to the small town of Collegeville, PA.

Dr. Lovebird, an esteemed and highly accredited professor and researcher arrived on campus while students were at home for five weeks for their winter breaks.

Since then, Dr. Lovebird has been working day in and day out on no sleep in the confines of Ursinus' underground system.

Most students never even knew he was here.

One student reacted by saying, "Who the HELL is Dr. Lovebird? Do you smoke crack? Why the HELL are you asking me anyway?"

Last night, Dr. Lovebird and President Strassburger were in front of a live audience full of information hungry reporters in what could be considered a very hectic, and unsettling press conference.

"Through extensive testing and research I have come to find that Ursinus' water supply is in fact contaminated," he said.

After a glass of cold, refreshing of Ursinus water, a giddy sophomore student checks out the warm bodies in Wismer Wednesday afternoon. She was married the next day.

"This contamination will not harm anyone, but does have a strange affect on those who drink it under the age of 22.

"It seems that the water stimulates the brain, particularly the medulla which controls feelings such as like, love, and lust. It seems that when a student drinks this water, they automatically fall in love with the first person they see."

President Strassburger spoke in hopes of comforting some worried parents.

"This situation concerns all of us here at Ursinus College," he said. "This could potentially be a very serious situation.

"At this point we can consider ourselves very lucky for we have never had an incestuous couple graduate from Ursinus.

"We have many students here who are from the same family: brothers and sisters, even cousins.

"We can count our lucky stars that none of these family members have laid eyes on one another immediately after sipping the Ursinus water for the first time.

"We are doing everything in our power to control the situation at the present time."

So next time you go to grab that bottled Ursinus water from Zack's, or drink from one of the water fountains, think about the consequences.

Over the past 100 years it is a proven fact that 80 percent of Ursinus graduates marry another Ursinus graduate.

"We are even stated in the Guinness Book of World records for this very reason.

Next time you have butterflies in your stomach, your heart starts to beat just a bit faster, and you just can't help but stare at that certain individual, don't run to Wellness, just start planning your wedding a little early.

Wismer's solution to rising meat prices: Squirrels!

Hans Trebe
Goofly Meatman

Due to rising meat prices, Wismer has been forced to take somewhat drastic measures to avoid rising prices while at the same time attempting to deal with the squirrel overpopulation at Ursinus.

The squirrel overpopulation problem on campus at the current time is the most logical source of cheap meat to avoid rising prices for the Ursinus population.

According to Dr. Dawley, professor of Biology, "Squirrels would be the ideal source of cheap meat for Wismer because they will reproduce like rabbits given the copious amount of acorns and berries on the trees at Ursinus.

Basically we just let them breed on their own and then harvest them on a weekly basis. As an additional bonus, Wismer will let the Biology department dissect them first if we promise to deliver Wismer weans its squirrels on a strict beer and nuts regimen, fattening them for the slaughter to come.

to them the usable meat - a win, win situation because we get the pleasure of dissecting them and the Wismer cooks do not have to butcher the squirrels."

Realizing that the majority of the student population will object to being served squirrel, the Wismer Student Restaurant will proceed with caution.

The plan is for the main part only to serve squirrel at Saturday morning brunch because most of the student population will still be somewhat out of it from their heavy consumption of alcohol the previous night.

The Wismer staff will then bribe the alert students with chocolate bars to not tell the vast majority of the students that do drink what is going on as the perfect cover-up.

Officials hope this will result in large savings to Wismer after the bribes are taken into consideration.

The chefs at Wismer are looking forward to the new menu.

"I can't wait until they let us cook the squirrels. Just think about all of the ways I could cook squirrels; I could prepare: roasted squirrel, baked squirrel, squirrel tail soup, squirrel broil, squirrel steak, squirrel stew, squirrel tacos, squirrel sandwiches, squirrel pie, squirrel sausages, squirrel pot roast, deep fried squirrel, squirrel Caesar salad, squirrel casserole, squirrel jerky...the list goes on and on," commented a Wismer chef as he paused to talk to me before resuming chasing squirrels with a meat cleaver.

So the next time you are eating in Wismer and the meat does not seem to taste like chicken or it seems to be a bit on the furry side then chances are you are eating squirrel.

If you find your self in this situation, submit a suggestion in the box with complaints telling Wismer to stop trying to pass off squirrel as regular meat.

On the bright side, at the current rate squirrels will become an endangered species within the next year or so if Wismer keeps this up. Sooner or later the government will intervene and stop this sick money saving scheme.

But until then, pay careful attention to what you eat in Wismer.

Decline of UC Greeks causes rise of Romans

General Maximus
Goofly Roman Writer

It is a slow process but the hard work under the strong leadership of emperor Strassburgus is starting to pay off as his efforts strive to make Ursinus Collegium a proper Roman providence.

His imperial standard of a golden grizzly bear eating an eagle is becoming a symbol of hope as the emperor strives to lead us out of the barbaric Hellenistic Age, with his many public works projects.

The most obvious improvement has been the extension of the providence to the other as a sign of our growing prosperity.

Almost everyone is anxiously awaiting the completion of the public bath which is currently being constructed near the Pfahler Villa where Strassburgus's alchemists are hard at work attempting to turn lead into gold.

When completed not only will the public bath greatly increase the personal hygiene standards but it will also serve as a social gathering place for the Patricians of Ursinus under the twin fountains within the bath.

"I can't wait until this providence finally has a proper Roman bath so we can bathe with our friends like the civilized Patricians that we are," Lucius Cornelius commented while attempting to keep his toga up in a dignified position.

The other major works project is the construction of a Colosseum located next to the Helfferich military academy.

The Colosseum will greatly supplement the current entertainment provided by the Ritterium Amphitheater, with gladiator and animal fights.

"Not only will we offer the traditional gladiator and animal fights involving lions and bears and gladiator, but we will also feed Plebeians to the lions and bears for everyone's amusement" commented Gregorius Sergius the chief gladiator of the arena.

As in any other proper Roman providence the Colosseum will be free to all with the exception of the criminals that are fed to the animals.

It is fun to watch their humorously petty attempts to subdue the animals with sticks.

Security is still an important issue for the providence.

The emperor's prefects in their red tunics are always out on patrol looking for disorderly Plebeians to feed to the lions and bears in the Colosseum.

At the same time the providence is threatened by some of the Greeks that still refuse to adapt to the civilized Roman life, located within the Reimert district of the providence.

Though there are not any signs of any threat immediate revolt against us should be expected sometime in the near future.

News in Brief...

Tattooing course to be offered as part of UC Art Department

The Art Department at Ursinus College is expanding for Fall 2001 by offering students a new course option.

"The new course that is being offered is tattooing," Art Professor Xaras said.

"We felt we needed to get in touch with the mainstream student population and by offering this new class, I hope that many students who otherwise wouldn't consider a course in the Art Department, will join us."

The class will feature a section on special drawing.

After that, students will then cover health issues related to tattooing before beginning to use the equipment.

President Strassburger is excited about the new course.

"I think it gives students what they really want. Ursinus College wants all of the courses to be innovative and fresh. We want our students to get a charge out of going to class. I think the new art course in tattooing will be just that. Students will finally be eager to learn about the arts."

Students are excited about the new offering.

Sophomore Angela Hopkins said, "I can't wait to take tattooing next year. This class alone will give me experience to expand my career options after college.

"Granted, my mom and dad probably won't be thrilled if I pursue a career in tattooing, but if I don't try it out, how will I ever know if it's my secret calling or not?"

Students are encouraged by the Art Department and the Registrar to sign up for the new class when selecting courses for the Fall 2001 semester.

Students aroused after 'satisfying' internship at Adult World

Ursinus students Wendy "Wonder Woman" Scheaffer and Conan "The Barbarian" Rosen saw their respective post-graduate porn careers take off after internships at Collegeville's Adult World.

Joanna Jameson
Goofly Porn Correspondent

Career Services has announced a new program designed for students who want an internship with an "up and coming" business in the area.

Adult World has had a reputation of just another porn shop in the Collegeville area.

However, it has recently come to the attention of the college that Adult World offers many opportunities for students with interests in economic and business areas, as well as public relations and communications.

Students who participate in this program will be offered full time positions after they graduate and opportunities for promotions within six months.

These students will receive a stipend for their work with the adult entertainment establishment.

Adult World has served as a springboard for young graduates interested in becoming involved in the many facets of the adult entertainment industry.

A few parents of Ursinus students have voiced their opposition to this program.

One father said, "I am not paying twenty thousand dollars a year so my son can lie around some windowless store looking at girlie mags all day. That's my job."

In response to this outrage, President Strassburger said, "Ursinus College is trying to shed its conservative image for prospective freshman. Internships at Adult World will help to raise the numbers of interested high school graduates."

"I am not paying twenty thousand dollars a year so my son can lay around some windowless store looking at girlie mags all day. That's my job."

---Father of student

Students who are at risk for academic failure will be given priority choice for the internship positions.

The manager of the Collegeville store said, "We have a rigorous application process for our interns. Because positions here are in such high demand, we can afford to select only the cream of the crop from the applicant pool."

Reimert condemned; Partygoers left homeless

Zacharias Ursinus
F off.

A sudden inspection the first weekend after Spring Break caught the residents of Reimert off guard as belated St. Patrick's Day festivities led to 147 health code violations.

By Sunday morning, all 250 residents were forced to move from their suites into the already overflowing Quad until improvements could be made. As the exodus left their suites, many Reimert residents wonder about the future of their "home away from home."

An anonymous phone call to local authorities persuaded health inspectors to come on campus. In the words of one member of the team, "The scene was appalling. In all my years on the Health Board I have never seen such filth."

Inside the complex, some of the inspectors were mistaken as partygoers and exposed to the classic Reimert party, complete with various beverages and wild dancing.

Even when the inspectors explained their true identities and purpose, the parties continued.

In response to such crazy behavior, 147 violations were filed against over 75 percent of the residents as an extensive investigation took place. Beer cans were found in 99 percent of the suites and beer pong tournaments raged in at least ten separate locations.

Over 85 percent of the suites were cited for loud and distasteful music. Trash littered the courtyard, toilet paper covered the trees, and graffiti adorned most areas. A mix of cigarette butts and spilled beer coated many of the common room floors and the cleaning staff was interviewed to establish a pattern of arrogant disregard for cleanliness.

One of the cleaning ladies reported, "You cannot imagine the dirt and trash I have to clean up every day. These kids are so spoiled. Maybe living away from their suites will give them time to respect their environment."

A few residents protested their removal, claiming to be well behaved and respectful.

Katie Smith complained, "I have a 4.0 GPA and my suite is spotless. The worst part about living in Reimert isn't the dirt and loud parties. It's that everyone assumes we act as a collective group. I shouldn't be held responsible for the actions of immature rebels."

Those "rebels" are equally as upset about their displacement. Mark Green expressed, "I work hard all week and the weekends are my time to relax. If I want to party, I have every right. I pay $30,000 to call Reimert home and

Sophomore student Katie Smith hasn't showered, eaten, or bought new glasses since Reimert was condemned this past Sunday.

I will fight anyone trying to move me!"

The overcrowding in the Quad as Reimert residents moved in has caused an air of tension all over campus as water and heat both ran out before 7 in the morning at the start of Monday classes.

The administration is scrambling to fumigate and bleach Reimert to meet safety and health codes but they also released this statement:

"We are disappointed that Reimert residents allowed their homes to disintegrate to this embarrassing level.

"We trusted them to take care of the building and now we must step in to ensure our hopes will be achieved when students move back in."

For most of the campus, the renovations in Reimert have caused them precious relaxation time in the upcoming weekends. It seems that the partygoers, as well as the residents, are homeless. Jennifer Doe whined, "I can't wait three weeks to party. I miss Reimert!"

Doe and the rest of the campus might have to wait awhile before inspectors will even dream of letting residents back into the building.

The residents of Reimert have tremendous concerns as they evaluate their behavior and remember the good old days in Ursinus' famous courtyard. Sara Richards tearfully confessed, "I promise to be good, behave myself next weekend, and clean everyday. Please let me come home to Reimert!"

Pledging required as part of Ursinus admissions process

Phi Beta Zeta
Goofly Greek

The trend of increasing freshmen class sizes every year has left administration wondering, how can this problem be controlled?

Since the campus can not fit the growing numbers, a meeting was conducted last week in order to come up with a solution.

The administration came to an agreement that the requirements for admittance into Ursinus need to become more selective, and this would control the large class numbers.

Along with having good grades, good SAT scores, and involvement in activities, prospective students will also have to pledge for a three week period.

Pledging, or "new student education," will take place in January when all the Ursinus students are on winter break.

President Strassburger, various members of the administration, and some students will be conducting the pledging.

"When we first thought of the idea, many people were not sure how pledging is relevant to getting a college education," President Strassburger said.

"We feel that we need students that are mentally strong in areas other than academics.

"Anyone can get good grades and do well on SAT's, but making students endure three weeks of pledging will make being accepted at Ursinus a little more difficult."

When some prospective students were asked about their opinions on this matter, most seemed to be opposed to it.

"I don't think I should have to pledge to go to college," Jim Smith, a high school senior from Philadelphia said.

"I have a 4.0 GPA and I'm valedictorian of my class, and I don't think Ursinus can turn me away because I'm not going to pledge for three weeks."

Pledging will be difficult and many are not expected to last for the entire three weeks.

Specific information about what pledging will entail is being kept secret.

Strassburger did say that all students will wear a pledging uniform, which will be a bear suit.

He also assured that they will keep the students' health in mind, but, in the event of any accidental incidences, paramedics will be on call.

Ursinus is the first college in the nation to develop this new requirement, but Strassburger predicts that many other colleges around the country will soon adopt the idea as well.

"The point is to weed out people by seeing how much they can endure," Strassburger said.

"Students who are at the top of their high school classes are not good enough anymore.

"Some people many not agree with our ideas, but we feel that in the end it will be for the best."

WHERE SMART STUDENTS GO.

Your single source for tips on staying out - or getting out - of debt easily, quickly, painlessly and responsibly. Plus everything else you need to make real-life decisions in the real world.

youcandealwithit.com

PHEAA
Creating Access to Education

To write a great paper, all you need is Questia.
To be a great lover, you have to be French.
And 298 years old!

The Questia Magazine

Goofly OPINION

Page 4

Satirical Opinion

Thursday March 29, 2001

No tomorrow? No problem!

Humanity needs to take advantage of cosmic "do-over"

Patty O'Furniture
Is the Fifth Horseman

So the apocalypse is finally upon us and I for one say that it's about time.

We should be thanking our lucky stars that we finally get a chance to start over -- maybe we will get it right this time.

No one can deny that we have royally screwed up just about every promising aspect of this "mortal coil."

Sure, things used to be good, but our society is and has been deteriorating like an old sock for some time.

I mean, come on people, how long did we expect the cosmic powers of the universe that so awesomely breathed life into us to sit back and let us ruin this thing called "humanity"?

As fire and brimstone rain death upon mortal men, it is quite clear that in this eternal game of Survivor, God has voted us off the island and now our torch is being extinguished -- no appeal, no immunity, just eternal damnation for us all.

And should we the open, festering, stinking cultural sewer of the universe be surprised at this sudden twist of fate?

No. All one needed to do was to take a look around -- all signs began pointing to annihilation by Satan's fiery death legions a long time ago.

Consider: Judge Judy, the Olsen twins (there's two of them so it's twice as bad), just about every show on Fox (except "The Simpsons" of course), Orrin Hatch, global warming, people who don't know how to turn off their wrist-watch alarms (even if it really old watch), 'N Sync (sorry Megan, but I had to -- again), O-town ("Making the Band"?)

How bout ABC does us all a favor and unmakes it!), 98 degrees, Backstreet Boys, LFO (screw summer, fall girls are really the best), any movie starring Steven

"As fire and brimstone rain death upon mortal men, it is quite clear that in this eternal game of Survivor, God has voted us off the island."

---Patty O'Furniture

Seagal, grad schools who charge you a $60 dollar application fee and then have the balls to send you notification of your rejection via e-mail rather than taking the time to send a letter.

ALL reality-based TV shows (especially Temptation Island and Boot Camp) poisonous scorpions, Natty Lite in a bottle (why?!), the space station that did not land on the Taco Bell target, Carson Daly, TRL and any other show on MTV that claims to know what good music is.

Ebola, people who don't know what they don't like, Nathan Rosen, meteorologists who can't forecast the weather, George Bush, George Bush, George Bush, George Bush, George Bush, George Bush, (are you detecting a theme here?) George Bush, George Bush, Dick Cheney (fooled ya, didn't I), Presidents who steal elections -- last name Bush, Vice-Presidents who have more heart attacks than the "Super Fans" (DA' BEARS).

Rod Stewart and Patrick Stewart: Just two reasons mankind needs to be destroyed, according to O'Furniture.

All guys, all girls (wait a minute, that's everyone -- except for armadillos), armadillos (uh oh now we are screwed), Rod Stewart, Allison Stewart, Patrick Stewart, people who don't tip, people who think that because they don't have a cigarette everyday that they are not "smokers."

Gladiator, the fact that certain so-called "movie critics" gave Save the Last Dance a higher rating than The Patriot just because they are dirty commie bastards and hate the USA, Frank Stallone, bad haircuts, cheap socks, people who say they can understand Japanese and bug you to speak with them and then don't understand what you are saying because they are really, really dumb and don't really know any Japanese at all, "The Full-back," people who have bananas for heads, long-haired hippies who give noogies and vote for Ralph Nader because they are "too cool" for Gore and don't want to "sell out to the man," people who overturn desks at 6:30 AM after a night of heavy drinking creating general havoc and littering the floor with pistachio shells, creative writing magazines that only accept 10 percent of their submissions, the Physical Plant smokestack (it's a phallic symbol ya know), guys who wear white socks with tuxedos, people who wear shorts no matter what the weather or season, people who live ten minutes from home but don't go home for Spring break, those stick in the mud auto makers in Detroit who REFUSE to build flying cars.

Seriously people, these are just a few minor things on the long long, long, long, long, list of why our society has gone down the crapper and why we need to embrace the clean slate that the apocalypse represents with open and loving arms.

Its not too often that we get a "do-over" of this magnitude -- we must take the fullest advantage of this opportunity and recast humanity into the type of society that we all know it can be a society free of these evils.

CARTOON CORNER

Letter to editor: Are hard nipples art?

Carol Seitz
Regular Person

Okay, so like, I was walking out of my class the other day and I ran right the hell into this giant looming thing that looked like someone had taken a chainsaw to one of those creepy things from Tremors.

Now I have this massive black and blue mark on my face.

What I am like, wanting to say is, what is up with all these hideous lumps of crap Ursinus is trying to call statues??

Like, all the ones that are people have hard nipples, you know, packin' raisins, HN, and the one is totally pro-rape.

There is like, this girl sitting on a bench reading and shit and these two guys are leaning over freakin' ARGUING about who gets to have her first.

Dude its soooo not cool.

Plus when it snows on them it looks like they have dandruff and I thought Ursinus was all for hygiene.

Yesterday I was trying to walk from the library to Bomberger and there was this giant rock

"I am so sick of seeing bronze nipples and phallic-looking structures on campus that my sex life is taking a nose-dive."

---Carol Seitz,
Ursinus sophomore

sitting there and I am like, "Woah, holy Great Wall of China Batman", and I thought they were like, building something, you know?

So I couldn't get to my class.

I know that like, art is important and everything, but when it starts injuring innocent students don't you think it's time to take a stand?

I am so sick of seeing bronze nipples and phallic-looking structures that my sex life is taking a nose-dive.

So like, please do something about these potential hazards that are threatening my grades, health, and sex drive before I am forced to transfer to a pasture-like campus and graze there like a dairy cow to rebuild the damage that has been done.

Ooops, wrong nipples.

Want to be heard?

Go somewhere else.

If we want your opinion, we'll ask you for it.

GOOFLY CROSSFIRE

Is your mom a dirty whore?

Absolutely

Patty O'Furniture is a graduate with honors from the school of hard knocks here in Collegeville. He and his ridiculous banana-shaped head are currently employed at the Guinness Brewery in Ireland as a "quality control" inspector, where he bides his time in hopes of one day raising enough money to take over the world from the forces of evil.

Now I realize that you may think your vast experience in paying for sexual pleasure qualifies you as an expert in the field, but let me just say right off the bat—you are wrong.

Your mother is in fact a dirty, dirty whore.

That's right, she's not a regular whore, she's not a two dollar whore, she's not even a singular dirty whore, she's a dirty, dirty whore.

As much as you try to deny it, I know that I speak the truth and deep down in places that you don't talk about at parties I think that you know that she is a dirty, dirty whore too.

She's the garbage woman of Whoreville, the sewer rat of Sluttown—in short, she's a dirty, dirty, whore—and she's your mom.

I'm the one tellin' you how it is, and she's a dirty, dirty, whore.

But at least she's not dirty

U. Bastard who has been known to utter the periodic barbaric yalp is at the top of his class here at UC and hopes to get accepted into a grad school program sometime before he is 75. He is currently a delusional hermit who wanders the desert pondering the "important" questions in life while being stung by poisonous scorpions.

Is Your Mom a Ho? Yes, but at least she is not a dirty ho.

Your mom is definitely a ho though.

Face it bro.

You know, I know, your daddy knows and so do half of the College Admissions office staff.

I hate to reveal this to you, as I know how much you love and respect your mom for her bedtime stories during the many sleepless nights in the crack house and for her warmth on the street corner.

But I will not budge on this—your mom is cheap ho.

However, she is not a dirty ho by any means.

She got tested last week.

That's about it.

I am sorry to be so blunt, rude, and obvious, but I felt you must know the truth.

Yo' mama a skank.

Your mom won for dirty ho of the year. Julia Roberts would be proud.

See President Strassburger pucker up to a pig

Krista Bailey
A moment of truth

(Editor's Note: The following article is, gasp! shriek! yawn!, true. Airband is coming up. Haven't heard about it yet? Read Krista's article and get the lowdown.)

Do you ever wish you could see President Strassburger pucker up to a pig?

Do you ever wonder what your professors would look like breaking it down on stage?

Maybe you would love to see the guys down the hall lip-syncing to a boy band? Or maybe you want to be in the spotlight doing your best Milli Vanilli impression?

On Friday, April 6th, all these events are taking place at 8 pm in Wismer as part of the 18th Annual Airband!

Tickets for the evening will be on sale in Wismer during the week of April 2nd and cost $5 in advance, $6 at the door, and $3 for participants.

This year's Airband has set high goals, both for entertainment and for charity. Airband 2001 aspires to raise $15,000 for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and a memorial fund to be set up in loving memory of Joey deLaurentis.

Breast cancer is the leading cause of death amongst women aged 35-54 and it is estimated that in 1999 43,300 women died from breast cancer.

At this very moment there are an estimated 1.5 million breast cancer survivors in the United States, many of these courageous women may be your mothers, family members, friends, teachers, or role models.

The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation was founded in 1982 in loving memory of Susan G. Komen, a 36-year-old mother of two who died from breast cancer.

Today the Komen Foundation sponsors the Race for the Cure and raises money for cancer research that directly helps women right here in the Delaware Valley.

The Komen Foundation also helps to sponsor support groups for women with breast cancer, their families, survivors; the group helps fund screening for underprivileged women and works to increase education on the subject.

Airband is an opportunity to not only participate in an evening of fun and excitement but to help two causes which hit very close to home.

In the next two weeks several events will take place in conjunction with Airband.

RA's are selling hoagies to help raise money for the charities; instead of running to Wawa when you need a late night snack, see your RA and order a hoagie.

Wismer will be the scene for Penny Wars, where you can help your class earn the right to hand President Strassburger an adorable pig to kiss.

Together our goal is to raise $1,000 through Penny Wars and if we meet this goal, the class with the highest contribution will get the honor of handing that pig over to the President.

Bring all your extra pennies and fill your classes jug and then bring larger change and bills to sabotage the jugs of other classes and the faculty; every penny earns a point and larger change and bills take away that number of points from whichever jug you choose to place them in.

If hoagies or Penny Wars don't catch your interest, you can still contribute to Airband by participating in the greatest 3 on 3 Basketball Tourney of all time!

The cost is $40 per team and the winner takes home great prizes.

Strassburger (above) can't wait to kiss a pig. He was seen Tuesday rolling in mud and oinking hysterically.

THE GOOFLY

THE SATIRICAL NEWSPAPER OF URSINUS COLLEGE
25TH YEAR OF PUBLICATION

DAN REIMOLD
LAUREN CYRSKY
EDITORS-IN-CHIEF

DR. LYNNE EDWARDS
FACULTY ADVISOR

TAMMY SCHERER
CARA NAGELI
NEWS EDITORS

ANN ANTANAVAGE
BRIAN BERG
OPINION EDITORS

JEFF CHURCH
SARAH NAPOLITAN
A+E EDITORS

MEGHAN BECK
HEALTH + FITNESS EDITOR

JOE LASKAS
PHOTOGRAPHY EDITOR

SUSAN GOLL
CORNOTA HARKINS
SUSAN PATTON
COPY EDITORS

SEAN KILLEEN
BUSINESS MANAGER

Unsigned editorials appearing in this section represent the opinion of The Grizzly. All other articles represent the opinions of their authors and are not necessarily representative of the school's and/or this paper's position.

Submissions

E-mail submissions/articles/letters/guest opinions to Grizzly@ursinus.edu. Deadline for all submissions is Monday at Noon. The Grizzly editorial board reserves the right to edit and/or not publish any submission without prior notification to the author for grammatical, legal, and/or spatial purposes.

Subscriptions/Advertising

To receive a subscription to The Grizzly at a cost of $25 per academic year or if you are interested in advertising within our paper, please e-mail us at Grizzly@ursinus.edu or send mail to: The Grizzly, Ursinus College, PO Box 1000, Collegeville, PA 19426-1000. Please allow four to six weeks for a reply.

The Grizzly is produced by and for the students at Ursinus College. The Grizzly is supported by advertising and subscription revenues and student fees, and is published weekly throughout the academic year. Direct any questions, complaints, and/or comments via e-mail to Grizzly@ursinus.edu.

URSINUS BOOKSTORE SPRING CLEANING SALE!

HELP US CLEAR OUT THE STUFF
WE HAVE TOO MUCH OF THROUGH APRIL 6TH!

--all non-text HARDCOVER BOOKS: 40% OFF AT REGISTER!

--all WHITE HATS: 40% OFF AT REGISTER!

--all SOCKS: 40% OFF AT REGISTER!

JUST ANOTHER DAY AT THE OFFICE.

JOIN US FOR AN OPEN HOUSE AT ONE OF THE NATION'S TOP-RANKED NURSING SCHOOLS.

Through innovative teaching, clinical practice, and research experience, the University of Maryland School of Nursing prepares students for the adventures that lie ahead. Come learn about the school that U.S. News & World Report ranks among the top 10 nursing schools in the nation. And get ready for some action.

UNDERGRADUATE OPEN HOUSE - SAT., MARCH 31, 2001, 10 A.M.-2 P.M.
GRADUATE OPEN HOUSE - WED., MARCH 28, 2001, 5 P.M.-9 P.M.
(Open Houses located in the School of Nursing Building)

RSVP ON OR BEFORE MARCH 21 - Call toll free 1-866-NURSE-UM or email admission@son.umaryland.edu

655 West Lombard Street | Baltimore, MD 21201
1-866-NURSE-UM | www.nursing.umaryland.edu

University of Maryland
School of Nursing

What: Airband
When: April 6th
Where: Wismer
Cost: $5 in advance
$6 at the door
$3 for participants

The men's bracket will play on Saturday, March 31st and the women will play on Sunday, April 1st.

If you have any questions or would like to sign up please contact Mike Ottey at x3513.

If you have any questions or would like to make a contribution to Airband, please see your RA or contact the Residence Life Office.

$15,000 is a very lofty goal, but if we all work together we can achieve this goal and help to make a difference in the lives of many people.

See you on April 6th!

Bearded singer with breasts makes Ursinus debut

He-she crooner leaves students sexually aroused, confused

L.M. Nadaman
Goofly Sex Therapist

Pat Kisnay, a man-woman aberration of modern biological science, performed songs from her upcoming debut album before 60 bewildered Ursinus students on Wednesday evening.

Kisnay began with cover hits, such as Shania Twain's "Man, I Feel Like a Woman" and later moved on to stirring renditions of "It's Raining Men" and Billy Joel's "You're Always a Woman to Me."

The crowd at UC had mixed reactions to the gender-ambiguous vocalist.

"I think he's a man," Ursinus freshman Callie Oppenheimer said. "His breasts are the size of balloons, but the facial hair is a dead giveaway."

Senior student Polly Wannacracker was less sure of Kisnay's orientation.

"My first instinct screamed male," Wannacracker said. "But as I listened to him hit those high notes, I began to think he may lack genitals. I'm going with woman."

Backstage in between sets, Kisnay expressed delight at the sex debate.

"I've got the hips. I've got the lips. I'm packed, stacked, and full of spunk," Kisnay related, beginning to gyrate his-her pelvis wildly while speaking. "I'm anything at any given moment. Just ask my girlfriend Tito and my boyfriend Jean-Michelle."

At the close of the performance, excited students threw flower bouquets, panties, boxers, jockstraps, bras, and a razor on to the stage and screamed loudly.

"I've got the hips. I've got the lips. I'm packed, stacked, and full of spunk. I'm anything at any given moment."

---Pat Kisnay,
He-she singer

"I love you, I love you all," Kisnay shouted while exiting.

"This is more than one man or woman could ever ask for."

Singer Pat Kisnay performed songs from her upcoming album in Wismer, impressing the crowd with her well-kept goattee and boo-yah cleavage.

Painting the campus with porn

Museum plans spring "exhibition"

General Napoleon
Goofly Porn Star

Due to the wild success of the painting, "The School of Ursinus" (a spin off of "The School of Athens" done with faces of students and teachers here at Ursinus College last semester), The Berman Museum of Art is now sponsoring to have artist Barnaby Ruhe come back to paint "The Naked School of Ursinus."

The painting will be the featured work in an upcoming exhibit "Bare Bears: Homemade UC Porn".

The painting will depict selected faculty and students who either have mullets or breast implants, are extremely greasy, have massive amounts of chest hair (applicable to men only), or have been featured in magazines such as Penises Bigger Than Yours! Or, Watermelons In Strange Places.

Students and faculty are invited to apply for the several modeling positions offered in the painting by sending homemade pornographic films to Berman so they can be evaluated, judged, or possibly laughed at.

All films will be put on display in Berman in the future exhibit, along with a genitalia collage made out of Natty Ice Light cans and broken beer bottles.

Creations from Wismer such as wieners on a stick will also be included, along with their special horny goatweed soup.

Performances by the "Let's Get it On" Band and a special tribute to Barry White, Ron Jeremy, and Roller Girl, all hosted by Chef from South Park.

Should you submit a film, you will be notified if your submission qualifies you for that special position in "The Naked School of Ursinus."

If you're selected, you must report to the front of Olin completely nude, recline on the stone stairs, and be painted.

This should take approximately five hours so you might want to come drunk because of the cold weather.

The completed painting and exhibit will open on April 20, 2001.

Admission is free if you dress like your favorite porn star, or if you are your favorite porn star.

"Bare Bears" will be followed by a nude coed football game of faculty versus students on the lawn in front of Berman, with the Ursinus College Naked Bear mascot of the day being President Strassburger himself.

So come out and support your favorite naked teacher, your roommate's homemade porn, or—who knows, maybe you'll even see yourself in a place you didn't even know you were!

Whassup? Einstein looks forward to the nude exhibition at Berman.

Goofly Poetry Corner

Blackness

Heart attackness, lonely lonely
What ever happened to Alf and Punky Brewster?
Sometimes they dance around my head.
I reach out for them, but they are not there.
So I cry and cry.
Teletubbies.
Barney.
You are no replacements, you are just gay, deal with it.
Snorkels and Smurfs visit me in my dreams
And I cry out "I love you! Come to me"
But no answer. And then it is black.
Sometimes when I am photocopying things in Corson
Mr. Rodgers and his puppets make me happy
And he gives me lots of snap bracelets,
But then he goes away.
I have to stop taking crack.
The end.

PHONE

I told you to call me but you never do
And I am so so so blue
I miss you so much it hurts so bad
My love for you is not that glad
Because you left me all alone
You never call or use the phone
You never look me in the eye
And so I cry and cry and cry
I am alone, alone, alone
Why won't you call me on the phone??
I have a phone and it is right there
But you don't seem to be anywhere
I just sit and look at my lonely phone
But it won't ring and so I moan
And I think of sun and fun and you
But now it's death and dark and gloom
And quiet phones that won't &&$ ring
And little birdies do not sing
Because I shot them, cause I was so damn pissed Cause you won't call you $%#^&* $*^%(
And so I cry and take my drugs
Oh wait, the telephone's unplugged.

Oscar Recap

Best Picture: Get Carter
Best Actor: Sylvester Stallone, Get Carter
Best Actress: Sylvester Stallone, Get Carter
Best Supporting Actor: Frank Stallone, Any Movie
Best Supporting Actress: Sylvester Stallone, Get Carter
Best Director: Whoever that guy was who directed Get Carter, Get Carter
Best Screenplay: Monkeys typing on typewriters, Get Carter
Best Visual Effects: Get Carter, for resurrecting Sylvester Stallone and Mickey Rourke from the dead

Honorary Oscar for Lifetime Achievement: Sylvester Stallone, Over the Top, Rocky 4 (the one with the robot—not Dolph Lungren), Oscar, Daylight, Stop! Or My Mom Will Shoot, Get Carter

When Armadillos Attack 7

They can leap 31/2 feet into the air!
They breathe fire!
Their testicles constitute 40% of their body weight!

When Armadillos ATTACK!

Watch as innocent armadillo-loving bystanders are viciously throttled by these enormously-balled beasts!

When Armadillos Attack
7...Coming Soon...

Courtesy of Discovery Online

Goofy PICTURES

Thursday March 29, 2001

Worth a thousand words

Page 7

Ursinus student Phil Cooke can't get enough of freshman superstar Dicky Martin, his tight Levi jeans, and his vintage sweat-soaked T-shirt in Wismer Lower Lounge Wednesday night.

Three female Ursinus students practice hard in preparation for their role in the upcoming movie sequel, "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon 2".

"One hit with this whacking stick across the back of his head and Ursinus and the presidency will be mine. Go on Strassburger, smile, just smile."

Ursinus cross-gender crooner John Pomenti entertained the Wismer audience Tuesday with his hit single, "I am my own bitch!"

The only student to survive Dr. Anderson's hour-long Communications lecture Wednesday will remain forever scarred.

Popular and heavily-involved senior Jeff Church (left) enjoys the sound of his own voice after making an interesting point about society late last week.

Men are pigs. Or maybe just this man, who while puckering up to this stuffed hog, has his six girlfriends pose for a picture before their date Sunday night. He later sowed some wild oats.

"Go on, sleep human, sleep. By the time you wake, you will be the one who is caged."

Ursinus administrator Rick Guilmette led a protest against himself Wednesday for being a coward.

Lazy, drunk, and looking to score

Co-ed Naked Beer Pong team debuts at Ursinus

Miller Tyme
Goofly Beer Guzzler

When questioned why only 60% of Ursinus College students are currently involved in athletics, President - responded rather defensively.

"Well, duh, because some of these students are lazy as crap."

After close evaluation of the circumstances and handing out various surveys to students, college administrators came to a description of what type of physical activity would best suit the apathetic percentage of the campus population. The "sport" would have to:

1.) Involve little physical exertion

- 2.) Involve alcoholic beverage(s)
- 3.) Be played at night
- 4.) Have competitions that were limited to the weekends
- 5.) Required no traveling
- 6.) And lastly, practice or not, you'd still play.

Only one sport meets these requirements, and you guessed it - that sport is beer pong.

Through various exchanges with other division III schools, UC will now compete in the very competitive league with other centennial conference teams.

"I think it's great that UC is finally addressing the interests of its students," Joe Bloe said. "I mean, it's about time. All the other schools are already moving on to making attending classes optional for graduation."

The budget is the only aspect of this new sport that is still up in the air. Funding may get to be expensive if the team feels they need to practice outside of competing on the weekends.

Depending on the amount of students who chose to join the team, it will remain coed for the duration of the semester. Besides, when you're drunk can you really tell anyway?

Two Ursinus students sport their Beer Pong uniforms during a practice on Paisley Beach Wednesday.

A coach has still not officially been named, mostly because of the enormous amount of applications that have to be sorted through before the best applicant is named. Thankfully, for now the assistant athletic director and baseball coach has decided to serve as a temporary mentor for the pong team.

We hope to see you drunk and happy next weekend to cheer on your favorite team.

Bets will be taken an hour before the first toss.

Football is bad

Authorities say ballet is better, but some students disagree

Billy Elliot
Goofly Playa-Hater

After careful observation, local sports authorities have come to the conclusion that football is bad.

The only proper replacement for football is ballet, since the latter completely contradicts the uncoordinated, abrupt movements that the rough and tough rumble sport of football thrives off.

Grade point averages are expected to soar, while the career of the cheering squad is still up in the air.

Student reaction was mixed at the introduction of this dramatic change.

"What the heck?! How am I supposed to adjust to that switch? There are no BALLS in ballet!" All-American captain Jim Doe said. "Football takes real balls, of the testicular and pigskin variety."

Although debatable, ballet is a very versatile and useful outlet.

It improves coordination and may actually encourage the bussing of tables during dinner hours in Wismer.

Although future student enrollment is expected to drop and the football field will soon be completely useless, college administrators are staunch about their decision.

"As long as the students here are graduating this college with more poise and the longer, leaner muscles that the art of ballet demands, I will feel more at ease with the job I'm doing in supporting a truly liberal arts institution," President John Strassburger stated.

Requests to transfer will be handled in the same timely fashion as when calls are made to the physical plant concerning caving ceilings and leaky heaters in the residence halls.

Ideas for use of the football field

"What the heck?! There are no BALLS in ballet! Football takes real balls, of the testicular and pigskin variety."

---Harry Sax,
All-American football captain

can be e-mailed to nomoF-ball@ursinus.edu.

For now, it will continue to do its job as a makeshift lacrosse/track&field/baseball inclement-weather-field.

Sam "Twinkle Toes" Hirosaki isn't adapting well to his new sport. "I have to wear a tu-tu, slippers, and tights," Hirosaki said. "It is ridiculous. Where is Billy Elliot? If I see him, I will eat him."

Goofly Health & Fitness Hole

Get built like a brick shithouse with Big Papa Wismer

Big Papa Wismer
Yummm...donuts

So, it's after a long spring break and you are looking for ways to burn off those beer pounds. Well, here is the answer you are looking for! These ideas are from a collection of reliable studies done on diet, exercise, and proper nutrition. You might not think that they are derived from there...but they are! All of these suggestions are the direct opposite of nutritional advice. Who wants to eat healthy all the time...where is the fun in that? And isn't it easier just to watch the Price is Right all day then to go outside and actually exercise?

Proper nutrition is overrated. Who needs fruits and vegetables...chocolate was invented for a reason. And so was the remote control. Here is a list of daily food items you should include in at least every meal.

5). Donuts. Hey...they work for Homer Simpson and he can still function...somewhat. Donuts provide a high amount of sugar, carbohydrates and fat that really make your taste buds soar. They are also filling, so after eating four or five you won't want to eat anything else.

4). Fast Food. Yeah...it can be a bit on the greasy and salty side...but there is a plus. It's cheap!!! And you can never pass up cheap food. Besides, you know you are tired of constantly going to the salad bar at Wismer...variety is the spice of life!!! Stop at McDonalds and order an Extra Value Meal, Super-sized - and see how inexpensive eating can be.

3). Pound Cake. Don't let the name scare you. Lots of butter and sugar and good fatty stuff. Oooh and icing. Throw someone a birthday party so you can gorge yourself.

2). Cheesesteaks. You are right near Philly for god sake...you have to treat yourself to this local delicacy.

Here is some advice: don't think about what kind of animal the meat comes from and you will be fine. If you are daring, throw an order of cheese fries along with it and ignore the fact that your arteries are as backed up as rush hour traffic on the Schuylkill.

1). Wismer!!!! Just close your eyes and dig in...and hope the chicken is cooked all the way through.

After all of this hearty eating...you may feel the urge to move. Don't do anything strenuous like running or getting up off the floor to walk to the bathroom. Just sit down on the couch...grab your remote control and start clicking away.

Feel those calories burn!!! If you feel like you really need to something...do 10 or 20 cheese curls and watch your biceps grow.

Wismer not mad about cow disease...

Beau Vine
Got Milk?

Although the United States government is shipping back imports of European meats and candies made with gelatin to avoid an epidemic of Mad Cow Disease, Wismer has not abided to these guidelines and is thus infected with bovine spongiform encephalopathy. You thought the meat tasted weird before, now you are in for an adventure.

Because of the sudden arrival of this unwanted guest, the Wismer staff is unable to tell which food is infected with the disease and which isn't. It is the luck of the draw. London officials have found that mad cow could be spread from the butchers' knives at slaughterhouses.

When they went to remove the brains, they would ooze out like the blob and contaminate knives and other tools used in such vocations. Whether or not this was going on in Wismer is still questionable. No reports have come from the Quad as to hearing strange barnyard animal noises in the middle of the night (except those that were man-made imitations) so this suggestion is unlikely. Unfortunately, US federal officials have seized two flocks of sheep from Vermont that could be infected with the Mad Cow Disease. Hopefully, that won't spread here too. If anyone sees any sheep acting strangely around the cafeteria at frozen yogurt machines or anywhere, please report it because the lives of the Ursinus community are at stake. To keep mad cow disease from spreading, Wismer staff members will now be spraying students' feet when they enter the dining hall. They aren't sure how this will help but they have seen people do it on television so it must work. Wismer assures the campus that they have this disease under wraps and there won't be any moo or more problems after this.

Ursinus sophomore Hans Trebe tries his hand at milking the old moo cow Tuesday during his shift at Wismer.