Sororities to Try Different Rushing Policy

By Marilyn Herrmann '55

The big news in sororities this week is the beginning of another rushing season at Ursinus. This year, however, the sororities are not rushing in the traditional sense. At a meeting held last Tuesday night, the new policy for this year was explained. The new policy involves a lengthy discussion period followed by a vote on a final decision.

The term "new" is in a sense a misnomer, as the new policy was originally proposed over two years ago. Since then, it has either been forgotten or dropped due to lack of interest in sorority meetings.

The speakers main goal in mind about this policy is that it will be a way to focus on the needs of the sorority, instead of rushing at parties. To achieve this, the sorority members will be asked to attend as many sorority parties as they wish. If a member were to attend too many sorority parties, she would be asked to leave the sorority.

Godley Relates Tale Of Sunken Treasure

By David Garinish '55

Last Wednesday night Ursinus students learned a sunken treasure story at a lecture by Mr. John Godfrey, world traveler, lecturer, and former captain in the Royal Navy. The lecture was entitled "The Great War at Sea." Mr. Godfrey told the students that the German officers had sunk a British cruiser in the English Channel near the mouth of the Gironde. The German cruiser was armed with 15-inch guns and had a crew of 400. The cruiser was stopped by a British submarine and the German officers were taken prisoner. The cruiser was then scuttled by the British and a vote was taken. A new vote was taken and the cruiser was scuttled.

It was while he was staying in a small hotel in Germany that Mr. Godfrey was told of the sunken cruiser. He was then allowed to visit the cruiser and to see the damage that had been done by the British. The cruiser was scuttled in the English Channel near the mouth of the Gironde. Curator of Audubon Shrine Addresses YM-YWCA Group

Approximately 160 Ursinus students attended the annual "Y" spaghetti dinner last Wednesday night. The dinner is held each year to raise money for the White Clay Creek School. The dinner was held in the gym and was attended by many students and faculty members.

The dinner featured a variety of homemade dishes, including spaghetti and meatballs, lasagna, and a variety of desserts.

Entertainment was provided by Mr. John Godfrey, the former chairman of the Audubon Shrine at Mill Grove. Mr. Godfrey has been chairman of the Audubon Shrine at Mill Grove since the 1960s. He has been a member of the Shrine for many years and is well-known for his contributions to the organization.

Mr. Godfrey thanked the students for their support and donations and encouraged them to continue their support of the school.

The menu included pasta, spaghetti, salad, and variety of desserts. The students enjoyed the delicious meal and had a great time socializing with their friends.
Leaves to the Girls!

It appears that at least one group—the activity members—on campus is willing to take a chance. Last week they voted to try a new system—not to finally establish it as tradition, but to throw out the old but to see if there is a different way of running things might be beneficial. The new system has been several years among the somberness that there are glaring flaws in the running system. Rather than try to iron out all the problems, foresee and understand, that the new system may create, the students have expressed an obvious willingness to try something new, to give an idea, new to Ursinus, a fighting chance.

The adoption of an altered running system for one semester only as an experiment proved that a large segment of the campus population realizes that a change which seems good may not work out and, on the other hand, although it seems to present a number of problems, there may be some good in the proposed plan. Perhaps, the system will not be suitable for our type of organization, perhaps the problems resulting will be greater than they seem; perhaps, the system will not work out as it is expected to. Nevertheless, the present feeling that there are people at Ursinus who are willing to try something new on an experimental basis.

Barbs and Bouquets

This week we would like to concentrate attention on the following stories in which a new associate has done such a prominent job in presenting the facts to the readers.

An office of this school that has gone along its way with little publicity, although performing duties of primary importance, is the treasurer’s office. Through the efforts of the three men who work in the office, James R. Rie, manager of the treasurer’s office, Wallace Angstadt, and Leo Carby, assistants in this office, this major department is an efficient machine which has been quite beneficial to the students. One rumor that this column would like to clear is that concerning the part played by the treasurer’s office in the $30 raise in the comprehensive fee. There should be no antagonism felt whatsoever in the assumption that that office should have notified the students earlier of this raise. The treasurer’s office has as its prime function to send out bills and collect money and to handle financial transactions. It is in no way responsible for the dissemination of information.

THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND: Information on the controversial $30 raise in the comprehensive fee.
The Bears played host to Drexel Wednesday night and led rather haphazardly, 8-2. They had a poor shooting efficiency, they sank 27 points to Delaware's 26 in the final period.

The first nine Delaware points came on a 52-33 advantage after trailing the opening quarter. Delaware led 54-51 by virtue of Jack Schumacher's accurate free throws in the second period. The Dragons' inaccurate shooting was the deciding factor with a 49-36 score Wednesday.

Three points, 23-21. But Drexel's zone defense failed to hold them as they tried to pull the game out of the sand and returned to a lead they did not relinquish until midway through the fourth quarter. Walker kicked a jump shot. Nine points before Gene Harris sank a foul toss. The score was 80-79; the running score of both scorers had it 80-79; and the fans had it 80-79.

The Bears man to man defense controlled the boards almost the half. Both scorers had it 80-79; and the fans had it 80-79; but later, a field goal by Irvine turned the third quarter which could not be accounted for by the fans who charted the game for both sides or the scorers themselves. It was just there in the third period.

Who Won?
That score was corrected in the official book of the score. The score board read 80-79 at the end of the contest, the statistics had it 80-79; the running score of both scorers had it 80-79; and the fans had it 80-79. It was only when the score books were totaled that the controversial field goal appeared.

Harris' Shot Gives Bears Lead
The first quarter was very even. The score was 14-14 and the fans had it 14-14. It was only when Gene Harris dunked a shot before Gene Harris scored the game's first goal in the quarter. That score was corrected in the official book of the score.
