Tri Sigma Colony Established on the Ursinus Campus

Twenty-nine Ursinus women gathered on October 6, 2001, to call themselves "sister" last weekend in a ceremony that made college history. The national sorority Sigma Pi Phi, the first black sorority in the nation, was started at the University of Illinois as the first step in forming a fully fledged chapter. The newly inducted sisters were singing "forward to marching that night in January. A weekend described by sorority president Patty Quinn as "very emotional," and the newest members of the Ursinus colony joined 50,000 sisters nationwide.

Tri Sigma began in Longwood College, Virginia, in 1908 and supports 10 chapters as part of our colonies in the process of reaching chapter status. There currently exists a process outlined named national personal interviews, and the appointment of alumni officers and chairmen. Tara Bresley, a leader consultant from the national Tri Sigma office, oversees the colonization process and will train the new officers.

Bresley expressed admiration for the charter members, noting that they exemplify the ideals of the Sigma Pi Phi. She added that the members of a colony, the women wear letters and colors of the national organization, a desire to give Sitting on a bench in front of the Ursinus College Post Office, a grizzly student looks off into the distance, hoping for a response from her professor. She is waiting for her grade on the essay she submitted last week, looking forward to hearing back from him. Her professor, she knows, is not the type to call her before putting everything in writing. She imagines him sitting at his desk, carefully crafting his words to ensure they are just right. She wonders if he even remembers her name, if he remembers her at all.

Exploring the Difference in Communication Between Men and Women

Sarah Ewald
Grizzly A&E Editor

According to her, what Joe and Jen are watching TV for an evening is a blissful moment. She explains that the opportunity to spend time together is something that makes her feel happy and content. As she watches the TV show, she observes how the characters interact and how their conversations reflect the dynamics of their relationships. She finds it interesting how the characters express their thoughts and feelings, and how they respond to each other's words.

Tara Ewald
Grizzly A&E Editor

Often, the conversations between men and women are vastly different, and this is one of the reasons why some people struggle with communication. Men and women have different communication styles, and this can lead to misunderstandings and conflicts. It is important to understand these differences and work to overcome them to improve communication.

Feeling awkward in New Gym

Cory Hanks

Course Editor

Every day my alarm shakes me from sleep at 6:30 a.m. I get up, wash and brush my teeth in the old fitness center at 7:00 a.m. The sun is still shaking the dawn out of my onesies and I can almost see my breath some mornings.

But all that is about to change. You see, this past Monday, I had the opportunity to tour the new gym. It was a great way to see that what I have been hearing and reading was all true.

The first thing I noticed was that the new gym was incredibly quiet. The only sound I could hear was the sound of the gym equipment. The new gym is so quiet that the staff can walk around without disturbing anyone.

The second thing I noticed was the cleanliness of the new gym. The old gym was always dirty, but the new gym was spotless. The staff had made sure that the new gym was clean from top to bottom.

The third thing I noticed was the variety of equipment available. The old gym was limited in terms of the equipment available, but the new gym had a wide variety of equipment to choose from.

The fourth thing I noticed was the comfort of the new gym. The old gym was tiny and crowded, but the new gym was spacious and comfortable.

The fifth thing I noticed was the new gym's location. The old gym was located in the basement, but the new gym was located on the first floor.

Overall, I was very impressed with the new gym. I think it is a great improvement over the old gym. I am looking forward to working out in the new gym for years to come.

Poem-Palooza Set to Arrive at Ursinus

I Am Your Flag

SAMOA: The Trenches in France, Germany, Belgium, Anzio, Normandy, Omaha Beach, Guadalcanal and Korea. I am the jungles of Vietnam and the sands of Desert Storm and the streets of Bosnia. I am "One Nation Under God!" I am the names of those who never came back to keep this republic free. When you salute me you are actually saluting them. I am the symbol of America. The home of the proud, the brave and the free.

This statement is being issued by the staff of the Grizzly. We are officially clarifying the fact that we are not, in any way, associated with "Grizzly the Bear" or the recent flyer touting the college's supposed party status.

I am the flag of the United States of America. I am called Old Glory. I am called the Star Spangled Banner. I am the rooster's red glare. I am the beacon of hope. I am the omnipotence of patriotism. I am the trenches in France, Germany, Belgium, Anzio, Normandy, Omaha Beach, Guadalcanal and Korea. I am the jungles of Vietnam and the sands of Desert Storm and the streets of Bosnia. I am "One Nation Under God!" I am the names of those who never came back to keep this republic free. When you salute me you are actually saluting them. I am the symbol of America. The home of the proud, the brave and the free.

Poems of all varieties, here is your chance to shine. This November the second annual Poem-Palooza set to arrive at Ursinus, coordinated by Prof. Valerie Martinez. The event features both students and faculty members.

Poem-Palooza has the students as its main feature. "The goal is to showcase the students' poetry," comments Prof. Martinez. "Students perform their own poetry in various mime form sessions."

Poem-Palooza also has just spoken poetry. Prof. Martinez incorporates video clips and music into the program. The event also includes performance poetry. This year's performance poetry titled Palace of Disobedience. It's an imagistic looking of Van Gogh's "Starry Night." It is in a room in four verses. Students in Dr. Keita's spoken word course are set as performers and recite the performance poetry. Another part of the event incorporates Dead poet's poetry. Students this year's participation include Professors Doug Cameron, Roger Pinto, Rebecca Jaroff, Melissa Hartman, and Philip Hall's students. The event's performance poetry also includes performance poetry. This year's performance poetry is "Palace of Disobedience." Prof. Donald Campbell, also a Pew Fellow, developed the Pew Fellow ship in the Arts Lecture Series. The series will continue throughout the semester.

Marc Polignano has a unique fitness philosophy. He emphasizes a friendly, non-intimidating environment for those seeking a business deal. The 35-year-prophet of Body Transit Fitness, Marc Polignano at Collegeville has always been in touch with helping people stay healthy. The 1996 opening of Body Transit allowed Polignano to put his fitness plans into action and make a difference in peoples' lives. He hopes "I remember asking God give me the chance to make a difference. When I get the chance to go out and help someone in my own way, it feels good. That's one thing I wish I had more time for." Body Transit began as Polignano's vision for a mobile fitness vehicle. After graduating from West Chester University in 1985 with a degree in physical education and health, Polignano focused on servicing large corporate organizations. He designed a proposal for a van that would take equipment for a one on one workout experience and could travel anywhere. The Ursinus women’s field hockey team was very happy hosting Wednesday, Oct. 4. The Bears suffered a disappointing 2-0 loss to Bucknell University. The winning goal was scored with 23:03 left in the game. The Bears played a decisive game, dominating the Bucknell Bear, but they were not able to withstand the Bear’s strong defense throughout the first half. The Bears suffered a disappointing loss of 1-0 to Hoyas. They will have to redeem themselves this week on Saturday.

For many years, according to Janie Sandy Forrest, the game is an important event for both teams. Unfortunately this year the Bears did not take home the trophy, losing 4-1 to West Chester. The long goal was scored in the first half by West Chester’s senior Tara Lee, assisted by senior Julie Lowell. The Bears are ahead at the start of the first half, but halfbacks West Chester was winning 2-1. Junior Sandy Forrest said, “The tent isn’t gone the way that we anticipated it to go. We have these games left and five of them are Patriot League games. I think that we can just keep pushing the second half of the season around.” On Saturday, Oct. 6, the Bears play Franklin College in Conestoga. Best of luck in your upcoming games!

UC Women's Rugby kicks off fall campaign

Next year, it will take place in southern California at a beach house. Not too sure of what to expect, but she tackled and defended the ball through both halves of the game and wouldn’t even sub out when she suffered a bleeding knee and tore some nec.

Second row Adrienne Logata and Elizabeth "Beau" Algo support the scrum and made a strong wind towind from TCN and several other schools. The scrum was on the ground, but the scrum was able to get the ball the way Ursinus had plenty of yards and even come close to scoring a few times. Two new forwards, Lauren Davis, Gabriella Klein and Meredith Azano showed outstanding tackling and fast-paced running skills, as they fearlessly broke through tackles and forwards in both tests. Lisa Mari Rivera also showed courage when she played the whole way through the first half, tackling more than any other member of the team even with a serious ankle injury.

The second half of the game, many of the players took to the field in order to gain experience and feel what it’s like to be in the midst of the absolute chaos of a rugby game, and they enjoyed it. Stopping to speculate but not on the Bears, the new players did very well in their own area.
