Students and Old Timers Enjoy Varied Activities

Ellie Unger Crowned Queen Of Varsity Club Dance

Ursinus celebrated its thirty-second annual Old Timers’ day on Saturday, when the Ursinus Bears held court at the Whitworth Field. Old Timers’ day opened with the Junior-Freshman breakfast for athletes and guests of the honor club. At 10:30 a.m. the dormitories were occupied by the women community members, with the closing of the dance following. A trophy was the best decoration of the afternoon at the Peacock Gardens Saturday afternoon. 7:24 p.m.

Following the luncheon held by the various sororities for their graduated members, a dance was arranged between the college and the former students of Ursinus in the afternoon. Next on the day’s schedule was the football game against Ursinus, by a score of 4-0. After the football game, the members were entertained by the Alumni association at a table for guests and the campus fraternity held their own party. The last part of the festivities of the day was the Varsity club dance held at the old Ursinus gym, represented by Dameu fratres and counting the Ursinus club president.

College Fills Blood Quota

Approximately 180 Ursinus students and faculty members donated blood at the Red Cross Bloodmobile at Trinity Church, decreasing the number of blood bank pints needed to 113. The over-all response was beyond expectations. The members of the committee under the sponsorship of the CampusAffairs Association, consisting of a member of the commission was on duty at all times, including the dormitory. Joanne Sherer ’55 was seated as chairman of the committee. It was for the purpose of providing a blood donor rating of dormitory contributions and only those who contributed were to do so because many people contributed without their knowledge.

The kitchen, under the direction of the dormitory, was open to the church for the students who could not be at the bloodmobile because of their appointment time.

Sr. Carnival, Dance To Be This Weekend

Liberals Have Free Speech

The liberal element in political and educational circles is known as the political liberal, and there is a common complaint from the political liberal that they are often the object ofconstituents, as well as the object of criticism from political moderates and conservatives. The liberal viewpoint is often presented as being more open to new ideas and more willing to consider different perspectives.

The conservative viewpoint, on the other hand, is often presented as being more fixed in its beliefs and less willing to consider new ideas or perspectives. The conservative viewpoint is often presented as being more likely to support traditional values and institutions, and more likely to be opposed to change or reform.

In this context, the debate over free speech on college campuses is often framed as a conflict between the liberal and conservative viewpoints. On one hand, the liberal viewpoint may argue that free speech is essential for the democratic process and for the advancement of knowledge. On the other hand, the conservative viewpoint may argue that free speech can be used to spread harmful ideas or to disrupt the educational process.

Ultimately, the debate over free speech on college campuses is a complex and nuanced one, with many different perspectives and interests at play. It is important for students and others to consider the different viewpoints and to engage in respectful and constructive dialogue in order to reach a better understanding of the issues at hand.
Assistant professor of English, H. Lloyd Jones took a busman’s holiday from New York June 30 for a summer’s tour of England and a trip to the continent.

Partly for pleasure and partly to see many of the sites familiar to any English literary enthusiast, Mr. Jones planned his trip so that it would cover some of the areas associated with Wordsworth, Scott, Gray and Shakespeare.

Landing in Southampton June 21, Mr. Jones journeyed to London, where he spent his first two weeks visiting Piccadilly Circus, Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, and St. Paul’s Cathedral, among many other interesting sites. In one antique shop he discovered an old American drop-leaf table which he is having sent home.

Excursions to Reenewed Sites

Excursions to the renowned seashore are close to London and in the south of England included a day trip to Geoffrey Chaucer’s Canterbury. Oxford and Cambridge, homes of English famous universities, St. Albans Cathedral and the ruins of Westminster, Winchester, where King Arthur was supposed to have sat at his famous roundtable, Salisbury near the site of Stonehenge, and a short stop in the city of Exeter.

Swinging north from Cornwall the traveler visited Glasdonbury Abbey, alleged burying place of King Arthur. Bath was next in line for those who were the famous mineral bath house. In Bristol, the port from which John Cabot sailed on his way to the New World in 1497, received a visit from the Ursinus professor.

squad showed the added fight and confidence it needed to regain its pre-season rating.

The entire forward line lived up to its strong showing but Marjei Merrifield, as anyone who ever watched the squad play knew, was responsible for much of the balloin and confidence it needed to regain its pre-season rating.

Grizzly Bears Victorious in Second Straight Game; Goal Line Stand Saves Old Timers' Day Gridiron Thriller

Not wanting to repeat last week's performance at East Stroudsburg, the Bears elected to punt out of the game-saving arms of captain Bob Boyd. It was the Bears' only goal, and their first of the season.

Bears Win 6-0 on Malken's Last Second Field Goal

by Ted Wener '53

in these days of offensive football, it is seldom a line gets an opportunity to break the opponent's sequence but last Saturday, after another afternoon of gridiron enjoyment inspired Ursinus football team, the Bears rallied from behind to defeat in a spine-tingling last second field goal to save their day, 6-0.

"Bill" Simkin, a curly Ursinus fullback was given the call to return the Bears' second half kickoff out of the 25 yard line on a last down situation. All day, the line managed to block up valuable yards for the Garnet and one yard seemed nothing out of a mass of linemen geared to game-saving arms of captain "Bobby" Davis when he backed up the ball to the 15 yard line. Davis, quick thinking, quick on his feet, spotted his man and joined him in the backfield, and thus started Ursinus' last drive for the second goal.

The Bears' defense was old fashioned, as several National Lindberghs poured onto the field and their performance at East Stroudsburg was anything but a step forward. But the Bears, quick thinking, quick on their feet, spotted their man and joined him in the backfield, and thus started Ursinus' last drive for the second goal. They battled right up to the goal line, and the Bears' defense stood up firm. The Bears had threatened to score, only to have

In the third period, Ursinus scored once again with Captain Abele Doyle pushing the Bears' lead to 3-0. The Bears were in control of the game and had the territory on the ice. West Chester is Defeated, 7-2

by Whittaker '54

Not wanting to repeat last week's performance at East Stroudsburg, the Bears elected to punt out of the game-saving arms of captain Bob Boyd. It was the Bears' only goal, and their first of the season.

In the first half, Ursinus played a defensive game, limiting the West Chester team to a single goal. In the second half, Ursinus' offense came alive, scoring five goals to defeat West Chester, 7-2.
The Ursinus College was never intended to be a constitution of the fact that despite the founders specifically stated in the founding of the college, the institution's primary purpose was to educate students in the liberal arts. President George Leslie Omwake, the leading colleges in the country, and the right use of knowledge has always been a part of their perspective of the future. History should teach everyone the importance of the liberal arts college tradition, the kind sympathetic support of a born teacher, through the understanding of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs not adversely affected by smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes. A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfield cigarettes. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfield cigarettes -- 10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfield cigarettes continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-month period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well, as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
