Liberals Have Free Speech

The liberal element in political and educational circles is known among other things for its vocal opposition to any form of censorship. The liberal is constantly complain that were any real threat to the freedom of the American or the American is under attack. The liberal is also quick to point out that any such restrictions would be a violation of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which protects the right to free speech.

The conservative periodicals have been known to attack and to impugn the motives of those who oppose such restrictions. The liberals, on the other hand, are more inclined to criticize those who support such restrictions. They believe that such restrictions would be a threat to the freedom of the press and to the right of the American to express his own views.

Assistant professor of English, H. Lloyd Jones took a busman's holiday from New York June 20 for a summer's tour of England and a trip to the continent.

Partly for pleasure and partly to see many of the sites familiar to any English literary enthusiast, Mr. Jones planned his trip so that it would cover some of these areas associated with Wordsworth, Scott, Gray and Shakespeare.

Landing in Southampton June 21, Mr. Jones journeyed to Exeter, where he spent his first two weeks fishing Porridge Cirus, Westminster Abbey, Buckhingham Pal- ace, and St. Paul's Cathedral, among many other interesting sites. In one antique shop he discovered an old American drop-leaf table which he is having sent home.

Excursions to Renewed Sites

Excursions to the renowned sites close to London and in the south of England included a day trip to Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury. Oxford and Cambridge, homes of Eng- land's most famous universities, St. Alkian's Cathedral and the ruins of Yorkenham, Winchester, where King Arthur was supposed to have sat at his famous round table, Buckh- ingham near the site of Home House; and a short stop in the city of Cotswold. Swing north from Cornwall the traveler visited Gladstone Abbey, alleged burying place of King Arthur. Bath was next in line for there were the famous mineral waters. Bath was next in line for there were the famous mineral or salts. Where he spent his first two weeks moors, Scottish Highlands, the Trossachs, and beautiful Loch Lomond.

Down the east coast he traveled visiting the cathedral cities of Dur- ham, York, Lincoln, Peterborough and Ely. After three days in London he flew to Paris on August 18, where he spent about ten days before going on a visit to Hendel- berg, Germany. He returned to Paris where he met three Ursinus- men, Dr. Helen Garrett, John Mor- ray, and Walter Kreis.

From Leffavel he sailed home on the new "United States" and arrived in New York Aug. 28, 1954. Interesting sidelights of the trip included attending a wedding at Stoke Poges, the churchyard where Thomas Gray wrote his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." Mr. Jones remarked that the wedding was described as a beautiful and friendly, and there is not so much as a fuss here is in this country. The bus system is very good and friendly and the locals are very good at their cars and those do they own are quite new.

Coronation Conversation

The most popular topic of conver- sation, of course, was the coronation. The Queen. When the King died many people seemed to get a bit hostile to the ticket holders, and when they are there, they are there for more than the event itself. The most popular flower is the ger- denia.

In London Mr. Jones attended a party of the House of Commons newly reconstituted after the shat- tering is suffered in the last war. It was a great night for Mr. Jones to be admittance mixed with the people who were there. Mr. Jones is Benjamin Franklin, a much loved statesman in France's Notre Dame Church. He also caught sight of Robert Schuman, the French foreign minister.

While Ursinus students were re- turning to their classes late in September, Herb Knoll and Bill Burgers were last getting their 10-day, 20,000 mile tour of duty on an Iltisman Line freighter. Herb and Bill shipped out of New York June 20 bound for Arabia with a cargo of steel sheets and garden and truck parts. Sailing at a speed of 20 miles an hour, they passed the Rock of Gil- balatar eight days later.

July 3 found them at Port Said, Egypt, and the mouth of the Suez Canal. After going through the canal, they sailed down the Red Sea and into the Persian Gulf to their first stop, Bahram Island. They remained there three days until July 14 unloading. The next day the ship arrived at its next stop, Ras Tanura, for unloading, where it stayed four more days.

Unloaded at Damam

Although they arrived at Damam in Saudi Arabia, July 19, they were not until the first of August that they could get into the dock to start unloading. For two weeks the unloading went on, and then the ship arrived at Ras Tanura to unload empty drums. Herb and Bill left Ras Tanura for more unloading, and the ship arrived at its next stop, Kar- seth, four days later and added still more cargoes to its holds.

Bombay, India, was their next. After spending eight days loading there, they sailed for home. The first stop was the Suez Canal the 12th of September. Herb and Bill visited some of the famous sites in Egypt, and left for the mouth of the Tigris and a tremendous impetus for some Mr. Jones remarked that the September 20. They landed in New York. Bill worked in the upper mess hall and the officers' dining room, Herb and Bill worked in the engine room, keeping things as clean as possible.

Enjoyed Bombay

Of the ports they enjoyed Bombay most. There they rode bicycles and visited the temple of India. Then Herb and Bill visited some of the famous sites in Bombay. Then, Herbsleb and fellow officers loaded the ship for more unloading, and the ship arrived at its next stop, Kar- seth, four days later and added still more cargoes to its holds.

Bears Win 6-0 on MalKen's Last Second Thriller

Grizzly Bears Victorious in Second Straight Game; Goal Line Stand Saves Old Timers' Day Gridiron Thriller

In these days of offensive football, it is seldom a line gets opportunities to make a difference. But last Saturday, after an overwhelmingly defensive contest, the Ursinus football team turned in a first-rate performance, defeating their visitors from West Chester by a score of 6-0.

Goal line stands were once more the order of the day and provided the Ursinus defense with some of the most challenging moments of the game. The big Bears, with their great size and strength, were able to knock the Grizzlies back on several occasions before the ball could be advanced across the line of scrimmage. These goal line stands were responsible for saving the game for the Bears, as they prevented West Chester from scoring any points.

The defense played a key role in the victory, with the line holding firm and the secondary providing excellent coverage. The Bears were able to force several punts and turnovers, which helped to turn the tide of the game in their favor. The strong performances of the defense were crucial in securing the win for the Ursinus team.

The victory for the Ursinus Bears was a testament to their defensive prowess and their ability to stand tall in the face of adversity. The team's performance was a reminder of the importance of strong defense in football, and their efforts will be remembered as a key moment in the history of Ursinus football.

Bakermens Win Over Grizzlies

by Dick Gullin '55

Saturday's exciting secret game handed the Alumni a 5-1 defeat. On the other hand, the Bears were victorious, showcasing their formidable team spirit and determination.

The Alumni's first attempt to score was thwarted by the Bears' superior defense, which prevented them from finding the back of the net. However, the Bears were not to be denied, as they scored a goal in the second half to put the game out of reach. The Bears' defense was outstanding, with goalkeeper Paul Jayne making several key saves to keep the Alumni at bay.

The Bears' victory was a testament to their teamwork and coordination, as they executed their game plan flawlessly. The goal was a well-deserved win, and the team's performance was a source of pride for all Ursinus students and alumni.

Girls Drop Hockey Game to Beaver, 4-3

by Kay Hood '54

Nothing but spoils were on the menu when the Ursinus girls' hockey team on Friday that Beaver had beaten them the night before, they were too good to pass up a chance to score the fourth goal. It could have been the game scored once with Captain Adeloe Boyd pushing the puck out of his own endzone, and the Bears finished the game with a goal by forward Paul Jayne to win.

This point on Ursinus gave Beaver a 4-3 victory at the end. As the goalie, Paul Jayne made several key saves to help his team clinch the win. In the second period, Captain Adeloe Boyd pushed the puck out of his own endzone, and the Bears finished the game with a goal by forward Paul Jayne to win.

The Bears fought hard to secure the victory, with their strong defense and effective offense. They outplayed Beaver in most aspects of the game, demonstrating their skills and teamwork.

This win for the Ursinus Bears was a significant accomplishment, as it showed their determination and resilience. The team's efforts will be praised by their fans and fellow students alike. The victory sets them up well for future games, and they should continue to build on this momentum.

The college is seeking wisely in seeking to accommodate its educational plans to the wants and circumstances of that part of the country in which the school is located.

Mr. Hefflerich made special note of the fact that despite the controversy in the North relating to the founding of the college, the founders specifically stated in the constitution that no one would be excluded from the institution because of religious beliefs or affiliations.

In 1903 President Henry R. Spangler started Ursinus on the way to becoming a modern liberal arts college. He brought in faculty members who were specialists in their fields and graduates of outstanding universities. President Spangler was followed by President George Leslie Omwake, during whose administration Ursinus college first won recognition as one of the leading colleges in the United States.

The emphasis on Christian values and the right use of knowledge has always been foremost at Ursinus. Concerning this, Mr. Hefflerich stated, "The Ursinus tradition, the tradition of liberal learning in a Christian environment, is the natural outgrowth of the plan of the founders. It has shaped the growth of Ursinus in the past and it must shape the growth of Ursinus in the future. Ursinus must remain essentially a college of the liberal arts and Ursinus must remain a Christian college." Mr. Hefflerich added that the liberal arts college is necessary in order to keep the state universities in line, too, in order to recognize the great importance of the liberal arts college.

In speaking of the financial situation of the college, Mr. Hefflerich stated that in the past decade Ursinus has reduced the deficit by about seventy-five percent a seventy-year accumulated loss of approximately a million dollars and has more than doubled the permanent endowment funds. In the past four years, Ursinus college has received more than $450,000 in bequests and gifts from both old sources.

There are two final quotations from Mr. Hefflerich's address which I should like to offer for consideration. They deserve it.

"The college grows or declines as it is fashioned by the minds of students and teachers the materials of the past and increasing their perspective of the future. History learns and teaches everybody the security of change in all but God."

"Hefflerich's closing words were: "During the past fifteen years, Ursinus college has brought a new knowledge of the status of the United States and a clear understanding of the work of the United States and the work of the United States."
