Now is the Time

You, now is the time for all you who have been disheartened by the way student government, the Y or your class has been conducted. As president of the Y, student government or your class officers, petitions may be started for your organization for next year. From what I hear, there are a lot of young people who are interested in organizing. We have little cause to complain when those who are chosen do not vote, the way student government, the Y or your class has been conducted. When there is no little interest in the election of leaders, the students have little cause to complain when those who are chosen do not achieve all that the students may hope for. The student who has voted has a legitimate gripe when the one elected, whether it be the one he voted for or against, does not do a tenth of the work. Let's see everyone who is eligible to vote on Tuesday at the polling places at one of the designated times. Don't lose your right to a voice.

High Class Staff was quite a hit. The one tune from the show that is heart-warming is "Quinnies," by Dan Kratz '54. From a snack to a five-course meal, the Y staff had a rush on eggs, steaks and prunes. High protein foods have little cause to complain when those who are chosen do not achieve all that the students may hope for. THE URUSIN WEEKLY
Wins Track Events; Swett Sweeps Weight Competition

by Roland Dedekind ’55

For the third time in as many games, an Ursinus pitcher has chalked up a complete game—this time freshman Paul Neborak turned the trick as the hosts Bears downed Elizabethtown, last Wednesday, 4-1. The win was the second in three starts for the Brains. Neborak, Thurs-Six-Hitter

Elizabethtown could touch left-hander Neborak for only six bases including doubles by Jack Bottin and Harvey Jacobs. In fact, only twice were the visitors able to advance a man to third base. In the third frame after George McGue had gone down swinging, Jacobs doubled to right-center field, and advanced to third on Neil Clement’s long fly to Dick Glock. Nelson Kline bounced out to Bill Burger at second to end the inning.

Elizabethtown Scores on Single

The only other time Neborak was in trouble was in the top of the seventh when Elizabethtown scored their only run. Larry Chapman, the visiting pitcher, had turned in a winning effort, but the Bears matched it in their reply. Bill Burger singled on a ground-rule double to left and Harris singled him in for another counter. In the eighth inning the Bears tied the score again. Bill Burger walked. Andy Carter singled to right, Jack Popovich helped to add a run with a single to center and Carlin scored. Ross, the last out of the inning, waved the flag for another bear highlight.

If the Bears were able to stop the visitors’ scoring, they were unable to give their own offense a break. Popovich led off the bottom or the inning with a single over second. Hal Henning battled his way to second on a safety single, but the Bears matched it in their reply. Bill Burger walked. Andy Carter singled to right, Jack Popovich walked and Dick Glock walked to force in the inning’s only run. Larry Chapman, the batman, could not open the inning. Don Carlin took Dick Glock. Nelson Kline bounced out to Bill Burger at second to end the inning.

I DROPPED the white socks I hold in my hand, nest over to the radium's counter looking for solace. I picked up a stone or a piece of metal from near the doctor, went to Thomas' bank and told him to get up. Disturbed, he half rose, said we'll see the doctor. I agreed, following him as he slowly moved up the ladder, across the aft-deck, into the passageway toward the officer's dining room. He turned, however, before we reached the dining quarters. I blocked the way, angrily insisting he keep walking...

Since I was at home I went back into the office, picked up the phone and dialed the operator. Before I could put the phone to my ear, it was passed back to me by my brother's quick hand. While my father and the police watched, I tried again, then again, but out of the corner of my eye, in the kitchen, I saw the doctor with his needle. My temper was rising. I was incensed about making this call to a mutual friend of ours who had worked in the same.

In late January I received a letter from my cousin Norman. Himself a doctor trained in psychiatry, he wrote me the letter in answer to "four sole of the 18th" and wished me well. This ray, I remember, had not been stretch-taped as had at least one other personal note I had received at the hands of an aide. The letter informed me Deitchman had been one of his teachers.

A German girl came down from the castle hill. Together we walked through the peaceful castle and on to the monument commemorating Marlborough and his faithful soldiers, early eighteenth century rulers of England and a less enslaved Europe. It began to rain and the borrowed umbrella served me well as I walked through the fields and back into Woodstock. After a drink of port and the habitual cigarette, I returned to Oxford. The next day I left once again for London.

At 11:00 of November 5 I was in the byetopa room of Father's morning table, the Daily Telegraph. It was election day afternoon or evening in the United States. At the Trappe firehall, after our twin-five-cylinder Main Street, I'd voted for Tom Dewey in 1948 as I had done ten in a decontaminated booth in 1934.

1600 revelry lights were turned on after a festive but quickly passing night. I ate the bread and drank the tea Len had brought from the mess hall, then after watching the morning muster, left for Hiroshima.
