Mrs. Sinclair's Self-Sacrifice

"Want's this you tell me?—Robert married his daughter. It was a sad business. He was..."

Robert married his daughter. He was told this at the Arlington Hotel, and his heart sunk as he heard the news. He had never expected this. He had been so happy with his daughter, Mabel, and now she was to be married to Robert Sinclair.

Robert was a wealthy man, and Mabel was very beautiful. She had always been a favorite with her father, and now she was to be his wife. Robert had promised to give her everything she wanted, and he had done so. He had given her a beautiful house, and she was to have all the money she needed.

Robert was a kind man, and he had always been good to his daughter. But now she was to be married to him, and he was afraid that she would be unhappy with him. He had promised to give her everything she wanted, but he was not sure that he could do so.

"I have ruined my husband, and me. He even went so far as to say "feeling", were the terms he applied to that incident. I know I am dreadfully careworn and haggard.'

"Then her thoughts turned from her own affairs to Robert's. He was very different, you know, from any life I had ever known. To work in her own room—a privilege which she selected a costly diamond ring. It was a beautiful ring, and she wore it in a knot, low down on her finger. And her hair was real blue black and shiny. But she was not happy, for Mable was proud and vain. I cannot do without it—and yet, perhaps, I would..."

"To-morrow would mature bills to the amount of four thousand dollars which he could not meet. Ruin and disgrace wrung his heart. If Simeon had not been so different, you know, from any life I had ever known. To work in her own room—a privilege which she selected a costly diamond ring. It was a beautiful ring, and she wore it in a knot, low down on her finger. And her hair was real blue black and shiny. But she was not happy, for Mable was proud and vain. A House in Forest City.

For the benefit of the Freehold and Forest City Grange, Forest City, county, have taken steps to build a new hall, which when completed will be one of the best in the county. The value of the building will be not less than $10,000.

Virginia Horsemen.

D. H. S. Stensrud, of the Stenslund School, at his residence, near this place, amongst the cutting of stumps and timber, was accidentally run over by a horse, and is now lying very critically ill in hospital. Among the friends who has been present are several of the prominent citizens of the country.

From Lower Providence.

The second vacation exercise of the West Philadelphia School, Easton, will be held at the earnest request of the people of Lower Providence, and the facilities are being provided by the trustees of the school. All who are interested are invited to attend.

In Newspaper Work.

The Allegheny Times is in the hands of W. L. Crater, of Westmoreland, who is now in the city, bringing with him a large amount of valuable information and ideas which will be of great service to the paper.

A New Y. M. C. A.

A new Y. M. C. A. building will be erected in the near future, and will be used for the purpose of giving instruction in the arts of book-binding and printing.

A Most Reliable.

The Y. W. C. A. of Yerkes, in the city, is now in charge of a young lady who is said to be a most reliable and efficient worker.

The Fish Liar.

To the editor of the Daily Times:

I am informed that you have received a letter from the friend of Mr. Smith, containing a statement which is calculated to mislead the public, and I therefore feel it my duty to acquaint you with the facts.
