Fidelity to duty and his honorable conduct had been shown every year. The modern conception of men has been that of the never-newer, the never-affected, the never-improving. The modern thing is to be as it was before. The modern thing is to be old. The modern thing is to be used up. The modern thing is to be thrown away. The modern thing is to be discarded.

A Serious Assault.

The Annual Thanksgiving Meeting of the Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania was held at the Masonic Temple, Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pa., on Monday, November 25, 1889. The Rev. J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., Ph. D., President, was in the chair.

The Rev. Dr. C. R. Reynolds, of蛾, Pa., gave an address on "The Masonic坞t of the Future," in which he said that the Masonic order was a true brotherhood, and that it was the duty of every Mason to do his part in making it a better world. He also said that the Masons should be united in their efforts to promote the interests of the order, and that they should be willing to give up their time and money in the cause of charity.

The Rev. Dr. J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., Ph. D., then read a paper on "The Masonic坞t of the Past," in which he said that the Masons had done much for the advancement of human knowledge, and that they had been instrumental in the discovery of many of the greatest scientific truths.

The Rev. Dr. C. R. Reynolds, of蛾, Pa., then read a paper on "The Masonic坞t of the Present," in which he said that the Masons were doing much for the promotion of peace and harmony, and that they were working diligently for the welfare of mankind.
