It is a fortunate occurrence that the official New Year comes at a time which is just about halfway through the college year. The good fortune lies in the fact that with the New Year bringing renewed vigor to the student and a new lease of life to the old, there has a half of the year to put to work.

One of the year’s progress is measured by external accomplishments; one of the ways we determine a “good year” is by certain events we can point to and declare that they helped bring about what ever end we were working toward.

Here at Ursinus the progress we want is comparable to that of a small community. We want better educational, social, and recreational facilities; in fact, we want everything which will work for the betterment of our community and our students.

At Ursinus, unlike on the outside, we students have most of these benefits handed to us on a silver platter. There is no problem. Very likely, as yet enough—to be done by us students.

At this time of the year we can look both behind and ahead and see what this year has brought and what it can bring to Ursinus in important accomplishments by student activities, above and beyond normal functions.

The events associated with the first half of the year which particularly strike us as important in the community are: The establishment of new clubs and organizations, the increase in the student-faculty relationship, the appointment of a Registrar and Dean of Women, the election of the Society of Phi Kappa Psi, to name but a few.

These (there were undoubtedly a few others) have made us impressively aware that already in the first half of the year, certain things have happened in 1951 and predicting what is going to happen in 1952. This, as we have said, is a most encouraging sign and we are certain that the year to come will also be a fortunate one, because it is generally agreed that the year to come is better than the year behind it. The hope, the spirit of the fact that East-West relations will not improve very much, will drift further and further apart, we have become more and more sure; no fear of war will not happen in it, either.

The problems of the day, the seemingly irreconcilable forces—while all of them have been faced with practical solutions. These solutions have been and will be quite difficult, but we have not been afraid to face them. We are going to work, work and work even more so in the year to come, as we have been this year.

We would like to see more of this type of activity done in the second half of the year. We would like to see the whole Ursinus Union become more than an idea. We would like to have the Professor’s Panel of last year continue. We have already expressed hope that fraternity and sorority activities will engage us even more so than they have been in the past, and we have hoped that more of these activities will take place even more than we have been hoping for.

AMIDST THE MADDING CROWD

New Year Topic Is War
by Richard Richler ’53

As the New Year begins, observers and commentators are recalling what has happened in 1951 and predicting what is likely to happen in the coming 12 months.

The items they are most concerned about is war—war, all war between the Communist and the Western allies. The past year has been a fortunate one, it is said, because a major war was averted. This, in a way is not true, for if the war had not been averted, the outcome would have been a fortunate one, because it is generally agreed that the year to come is better than the year behind it. The hope, the spirit of the fact that East-West relations will not improve very much.

The major concern—of the observer is steeped fitting, for ever since World War II finished the world has meticulously gone about the business of war. The hopes and plans, brief honeymoon between the United States and the U.S.S.R. during 1941, has been floundered into a bitter, more or less, general, and, finally, a perpetual state.

DAILY LIFE MUST THE SAME

But, while we have been occupied with doubts and fear of the potentialities of a new war, we have been occupied with our work and we have, in turn, accused it of this and of that; while our statements have piled up, very much like a sea, trying desperately to create some semblance of world sanity; while the world has split itself into two opposing companies; when the U.S.A. has long since been one, what has happened you and I have continued attending classes, businessemen have continued on the jobs they have chosen. The laborers have continued laboring for a weekly pay check, and, in brief, the daily life of the country has gone on very much the same as it has always done.

In which brings us to the inevitable Prediction for 1952: People in the U.S. will learn to live in a world with a permanent war. We will all go on with our daily work, whatever it might be, with more hope and enthusiasm and less apprehension and foreboding than they had in 1951.

Delaware Favored in Court Race

by Ted Wenner ’53

With the coming of a new year, so also comes the opening of the 1953 edition of the Middle Atlantic Conference basketball season. It would do us well now to take a quick-over-all look at the gathering of the teams the Bears will be facing this year in league competition.

The campus of Delaware university is chiming with the cry, “This is it!” The Blue Hen court squad this season is a very powerful and rangy one that figures to be running rough-shod over all league opponents. Such is the condition that Delaware has scheduling non-league opponents such formidable teams as Lafayette, Penn, Villanova, and Muhlenberg.

Fred Emmerson has five senior returners as a base for his new “tower of power.” This veteran five is led by captain Bill Utter, last year’s leading scorer. But this isn’t cause they still sport classy Joe Carroll who at present averages 22 points a game more often. Besides he’s a fine ball handler, retrieving more than 14, and Bob Marks ended up with 12 counters.

In the 137 pound class Muhlenberg’s Adams joined teammate Al Pauline in 2:27 with a reverse half-pinch to give the losers their first point. Muhlenberg added three more points by winning the 147 pound bout. Co-Captain Ted Miller, who was noticeably weakened by a severe chest cold, was decided on by Billy. The victor had a 4-3 lead in points and a 2:14 time advantage.

Dick Grill won a decision over Peters in 137 pound class to put the Bears back in the winning mood. Ursinus’ Bernie Orseni was beaten by Creaman, but Top Webb came back to decision Batt in the 177 pound match.

Although the contest was already won, Bob Daris, in the heavyweight division, took no chances and pin- ned Stover who outweighed the local grappler. A half-nelson was the hold that did the trick and the time read 9:08.

The locals will travel to Lafayette on Wednesday in search of their second victory and then on January 11 will meet Swarthmore on the home mat.

Ursinus started an unsuccessful bid for the Middle Atlantic crown as they lost an unexciting game to Pennsylvania Military College 83-49 to inaugurate conference play. It was a dull game for the fans because the Bears never got closer than nine points after the first quarter.

In recent years PMC has had a fast-moving, high-scoring aggregate. They usually relied on a full-court press defensively and a fast-break offensively. This year PMC played a smart, deliberate game knowing they had a slower, more experienced squad. They worked the ball as long as they saw fit to slow them down. They had a man clear comparably near the basket. Then, and only then, did they shoot. This paid off in a high accuracy percentage. Four men for PMC this time. Larry Lowenthal had 27, Ralph Wenzel 18, Jim Cul- mer 14, and Bob Marks ended up with 12 counters.

For Ursinus Bob Swett played an amazingly good game in a losing cause. He hit for 8 field goals and 7 fouls for a 23 point total. He thought they were trying to make him the butt-end (T for Throat, T for Taste), you’ll see why.

Another. The fancy foot-work didn’t dazzle him! He knew that the pinnacle of pleasure comes from using the chin. He had to counteract and that it was.

He thought they were trying to make him the butt-end of a joke when he was asked to judge cigarette mildness with a mere puff of one brand and a quick sniff of another. He knew that the pinnacle of pleasure comes from steady smoking . . . and that there is only one test that you give through the palate, to let a new smoke from this country . . . and the only test that you give through a cigarette.

He’s the sensible test . . . the 30-Cam Card Mildness.”

Pharmacy Hands Bears Third Loss, 70-53

Led by center Lou Schessler, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy defeated the Ursinus varsity basketball squad 70-53. Thursday evening on the local court. The visitors came from behind to lead 16-9 at the end of the first quarter. They steadily increased their lead to the final 15 points except during two brief rallies by the Bears.

Herb Knull gave the local count-men a 2-0 lead with a layup shot. The Pharmacy team promptly tied it up; then took the lead with a foul shot 5-2. They retained the lead for the rest of the game. After an unsuccessful foul try by an opponent Herb Knull seized the rebound and accidentally shot the ball through the opponents hoop. Poor control of the backboard on the part of the Bears aided the Pharmacy club to get a 16-9 edge at the quarter.
