VOLUME 28 ISSUE 1

Class of 2007 Largest in Ursinus History

Quinn Dinsmore
Grizzly News Editor

"I'm looking forward toward a change, meeting new people, having fun, and everything that comes with moving out. I'm looking forward to freedom," said Carrie O'Connor.

Four hundred and fifty freshmen like Carrie arrived at Ursinus College on Thursday, ready to leave home and experience everything college has to offer.

Parents and students formed long lines in Helfferich at 10:00 AM during freshmen registration as cars lined the lawns in front of BWC and behind the Quad. Staff and orientation assistants were on hand to make the transition into college life a little easier. The Ursinus football team helped many new students carry clothes, televisions, air conditioners and refrigerators up the stairs to their new rooms.

From the moment they arrived on campus, the freshmen were busy with activities planned by the Office of Leadership Development and Student Activities. Before classes started, the freshmen experienced a fun-packed weekend, including a wide variety of activities ranging from small group discussions and faculty advisor meetings to a formal dinner dance, a trip to the prestigious Philadelphia Museum of Art, and weekend social gatherings complete with a popular comedian, Tiny Glover.

Incoming students also had the opportunity to meet with their advisors for lunch, attend class with their CIE course instructor and begin group discussions on this summer's reading, the ancient epic poem, Gilgamesh.

According to Director of Admissions Paul Cramer, the Class of 2007 has a strong academic background. Their average SAT score was 1214, a record 10 points higher than last year's group. Admissions also reports 44% of the incoming freshmen were in the top ten percent of their class. The class also reflects a change in the admissions philosophy.

"Admissions relied on Ursinus' reputation to bring students to us more than we ever have in the past and it worked. They are a big, bright class and the quality of the group shows how the world looks at Ursinus," Cramer said.

It seems like everyone has advice for the new class as they adjust to college life. "I hope they hit the ground running. They know and expect some of the programs that make Ursinus unique and I hope they will feel like it's natural to participate and excel in those areas," Cramer said.

Orientation Assistant Brad Laskowski said, "I hope this class will get the same experience we had only better. I hope they take advantage of all the facilities and clubs."

Alexis Howell, one of two Orientation Interns who planned Orientation weekend, encourages the freshmen to get involved because the "more activities you are in the better your experience will be. The more people you meet, the happier you'll be."

Many of the freshmen echoed that sentiment as they stood in line during registration. Daniel Lamxon looks forward to "learning a lot of stuff, getting a laptop, getting more life experience and learning how to live better by meeting new people."

For many students, their excitement is tinged with anxiety as they leave everything familiar at home. Many parents said moving their children into the dorms at Ursinus was a bittersweet moment.

Brian Cleary hopes his daughter Caitlin will enjoy her education and adjust to living on her own. "I'm sure going to miss her but she's a great kid and I'm sure she'll do fine," he said. Pamela O'Connor hopes her daughter will come away from her freshmen year with a "widening view of the world" and added with a smile, "I'm not nervous about anything."

The Class of 2007 is already making a name for itself as the largest class in the history of Ursinus. With one week under their belts at college, many freshmen are happy to just take it all in and achieve personal goals.

As Jessica Newman said, "I'm hoping to make a lot of new friends and have an experience unlike any other."

Extreme Campus Makeover

Quinn Dinsmore
Grizzly News Editor

There's no place like home...but Ursinus isn't the same place you left last semester. Here's a quick look at some of the changes which occurred over the summer. Stay tuned to the Grizzly for more details in the next few issues.

If you're looking for the Student Activities Office, they've moved across the hall into the Game Room of Wismer Lower Lounge. Wismer offices have taken over the old Activities location.

To avoid the crunch at lunch in Wismer, sit in the new section of the cafeteria, opened as an eating area after the Wismer offices were removed. With the additional 80 seats, Wismer can now feed 600 people at a time. Students are still asked to avoid peak hours like noon for lunch if schedules permit. Wismer will now serve lunch from 11:30-2 and dinner from 4-7.

Olin computer labs have been decommissioned so if you need to print a paper before class, head to the library or Pfahler.

Printing is no longer free! The new "pay for print" solution is in effect so freshmen through juniors must now pay eight cents a page when printing in Myrin or Pfahler. Seniors are allotted one thousand free pages and then must pay five cents a page after exceeding that limit. The charges will be billed to student accounts and the college hopes to save thirty to forty thousand dollars in printing costs.

But don't panic. Computing Services will be selling ink at discounted prices so printing doesn't break your bank. The new offer makes both black and color ink available for only 10-16 dollars per cartridge when you bring the empty cartridge back to the Help Desk.

Ursinus students are now calling Fetterolf and lounges in North Hall and the Quad home. Six lounges were converted into triples and 424 and 426 Main Street was opened for student housing.

Watch out for the speed bumps between North Hall and the Quad past the field hockey field, which are significantly higher than many students may remember. The speed bumps were changed to prevent accidents around the corner.

Parking will be tight on campus as construction continues to take up space by Reimert. Additional lots have been opened by Richter and Lot B behind the athletic building. Thanks to these new areas, the number of parking spots on campus is equal to the number available last year. Almost all freshmen were denied parking permits.

Keep an eye out for new faces in your classes...the college welcomes a host of new professors in many academic departments. Ten full time assistant professors in every subject from Dance and Choreography to Business and Economics, four visiting full time assistant professors, and sixteen part time lecturers will teach courses this semester.

That's a brief glimpse of what's new and improved since you headed home for the summer~the Grizzly wishes you a great semester back at Ursinus!

Message from the Dean's Office

In accordance with the Ursinus College Faculty Handbook, student comments on teaching effectiveness and student-faculty interaction are invited at the time of a faculty member's review for tenure. Although student letters must be signed to be considered, student names may be withheld, upon request, when their comments are shared with the Promotion and Tenure Committee, and the faculty member.

This year, the following members of the faculty are being reviewed for tenure:

Dr. Chris Cellucci, Physics and Astronomy
Dr. Michele McLennan, Business and Economics

Your feedback is strongly encouraged and will assist the Committee in its review process. Letters should be sent to Dean Judith T. Levy, Office of the Dean by October 15, 2003.

The Freshmen Move-In Experience: Great Expectations!

Tiffany Nguyen
Opinions Editor

On Thursday, August 21, 2003, the freshmen checked into Ursinus, their new home away from home. Entering the Floy Lewis Bakes Center at 10:00 AM and seeing the massive lines of one of the largest freshmen classes of Ursinus brought back flashes of the anxiety and anticipation felt during my freshmen registration two years ago. It seems as though such feelings are universal, for the incoming freshmen had similar emotions and expectations.

As the freshmen and their parents began pouring into the halls of the Floy Lewis Bakes Center, bright-eyed and lost amongst the sea of people, I was curious what the incoming class of 2007 were expecting from their first Ursinus experience – moving into UC dorms. Since they were all simply checking in at the Center and did not yet have the chance to move in, I asked several unsuspecting freshmen what they anticipated about their moving experience into Ursinus and away from home.

Jenna Tomiello

Most of the responses centered on meeting the roommate and the condition of the room. Jenna Tomiello expected to see "a lot of people" moving in, and hoped she "will get accustomed to [her] roommate." There were in fact a great number of people flooding the Center, lawns, drive-ways, and dorm halls, but Caroline Boyer expected moving in "to be a lot of fun and enjoyable" while also admitting that she was "also very nervous."

Caroline Boyer

Brandon Brown was hoping "to have a clean room. My room is full of boxes, so anything better than that! Also, I hope that my parents won't randomly show up at my door." He was definitely anticipating the freedom of college life, while Amy Guminski was worrying about actually moving all of her stuff into her room. She expressed, "I know my roommate, so it won't be too hard. Just trying to get everything in will be hard."

Brandon Brown

Other freshmen, like Andrew Pepin, worried less about the challenges of moving things up and down any stairs. "Hopefully it'll be easy. I'm on the first floor, so I don't have to carry anything upstairs," he said. Well, lucky you.

After a long day moving in amidst the sweltering heat and cramped walkways, the freshmen expectations, worries, and fears seemed to ease into enjoyment and excitement for their first year here at Ursinus as they followed up on their initial expectations about settling into Ursinus.

The responses I received were all quite positive, and it seemed as though the freshmen are, so far, loving UC. Brown exclaimed that "it has been wonderful" and that he is "loving it so much." It turned out that the freshmen really appreciated all the help provided by the UC football team, which made their moving experiences "easier than I thought," said Pepin. He also added that his "roommates and RA are great!" Guminski had an especially pleasing move-in experience that "went really smoothly. It was pretty hot, but we had fans and even an air conditioner to keep us cool. The football players were phenomenal. They didn't complain about a thing even though I know they were doing the hardest work. What a great idea for strength training!" She also went on to provide some advice for other freshmen or anyone sharing a room: "I'd just like to say that bunking the beds is like the greatest thing. At first we couldn't see the floor, but now that everything is in its place, we have enough room to accommodate four overnight guests."

However, for Tomiello, "moving in was hectic and slightly stressful, but luckily the football team brought all the boxes to my room, which made it a whole lot easier than it would have been! My roommate and I get along very well." So having the football team help was indeed a huge help to the freshmen and their parents, making the entire experience enjoyable. There was a certain fresh-man, though, who still had his reservations. Boyer said, "I was very skeptical about orientation, especially after hearing stories from friends at different colleges." After orientation, moving in, and all, Boyer "actually had a great time and made some really great friends. Everyone at Ursinus has been friendly and very helpful, and I am now positive that I made the correct choice of coming here."

Andrew Pepin

The freshmen numbers have altered the UC quite a bit, but the coming experiences and people on campus will hopefully positively alter their lives even more. As Tomiello so graciously stated, "If the rest of this year is going to be as smooth as orientation, we're in for a real treat." Welcome to Ursinus College, Class of 2007!

PAC Groundbreaking

A groundbreaking ceremony was held on Friday for the official start of construction on the new Performing Arts Center. Betty Musser, a major donor to the project, Kate Juliano, a senior active in the theatre program, and the chairman of the board Robert Riechley, threw the ceremonial piles of dirt near the site of the 25 million dollar complex.

Nonsense!

Katie Lehman
A&E Editor

A play about nonsense seems to be... well nonsensical. But Professor Domenick Scudera didn't think so, neither apparently did Mr. Edward Lear. Students and alumni of Ursinus College gathered during the months of July and August to attend workshops held by Scudera. Through a collaboration of creative minds and a seeded passion to entertain, this team of people assisted Scudera in creating a hilarious children's play, based on nonsense stories written by 19th century author, Edward Lear. Senior Adams Berzins, (participating in his 9th production at Ursinus,) confirms, "This has by far been the most creative production I have yet to be a part of." Kids of all ages, especially the young at heart will find this thirty-minute production to be packed with fun. After all, "it's as nonsensical as a young lady whose chin resembles a pin, and is so sharp she can play a harp... as irrational as a person from Greece who associates only with geese... and as absurd as an old man whose head is adorned with lobsters, spice pickled onions and mice."

Performances of Nonsense! will be held on three consecutive Saturdays in September, in performances both on and off campus. The team will also have the privilege of performing at the Philadelphia Fringe Festival on September 6th at 11am and 1pm. Additional information on the Fringe can be found at www.Pafringe.org. Other performance dates, times, and locations are listed below:

The Rules of Ursinus College in 1957

Lauren Perotti

Grizzly Co-Editor-In-Chief

The students of Ursinus often question the seemingly strange rules and regulations put in place by the College. However, the rules in place today are far more relaxed than those in place fifty, twenty, and even ten years ago. The progressive liberalization of American society has changed life at Ursinus remarkably from the founding of the College to the present.

Tips for the Class of 1957

As we begin a new year at Ursinus College, we upperclassmen cannot discard our responsibility to educate our new brothers and sisters in the traditions of the College. All freshmen must attend Customs meetings to learn the cheers, songs, rules, traditions, and history of our great institution.

During the period of Customs, freshmen must wear green dinks, name tags, and school-colored combination socks. Freshmen may not sit on the steps of any building, especially Freeland Hall. The privilege of sitting on the steps of Freeland Hall is reserved for upperclassmen only. Also, freshmen may not use the front door of Bomberger Hall except for chapel on Sundays.

No woman is permitted to wear slacks or dungarees to classes or to the evening meal. Women students are not permitted to smoke any place on campus except the Supply Store. In addition, women may not wear make-up, nail polish, or any other jewelry except watches and engagement rings. Freshmen women may have social privileges until 7:00 pm Monday through Thursday, until 10:30 pm on Friday, and until 11:00 pm on Saturday. After these times, men may be greeted but conversation may not be carried on. Every social gathering held in the women's halls must be approved by the Dean of Women and the preceptress.

At no time will a woman student be allowed in a men's dormitory. Couples may not dance in the women's halls. Women students who wish to swim must wear conservative bathing suits. Women must wear long coats over their suits to and from the creek, and may not be escorted by men on the streets of the town while wearing their bathing suits.

All students must remain within the limits of town unless properly signed out. Students may not patronize any establishment that sells intoxicating beverages. Gambling and the possession of fermented beverages in the College buildings are positively forbidden. Violations of any of these rules will result in demerits.

Those of us in the sophomore, junior, and senior classes extend a hearty welcome to the Class of 1957. We hope that you will continue the traditions and customs of Ursinus College.

Campus Song

"Now the glees of Old Ursinus, peal across the downy green From Memorial to Olevian, span the distance far between And the walls of dear old Freeland, the reverberations fling From the East Wing to the Dog House, as our voices loudly ring

Then across the Perkiomen, the chimings wing their flight Till beyond the far-flung hilltops, they kiss Heaven's dome of light, Then as if they rued their boldness, come the trembling echoes back And thus end the winged praises, of the Red, Old Gold, and Black."

A Note from the Grizzly Guide Editor

As Editor of the Grizzly Guide this semester, I would like to welcome back everyone to Ursinus and welcome to the Class of 2007! If you have any story ideas or you would like to submit something, please email kegray@ursinus.edu by Monday at 4 p.m.
