The Price of Victory

Victory, which had been denied our football squad for so long, finally became a reality Saturday with the 36-14 triumph over Swarthmore.

It was a triumph long overdue. The Bears have come through, and have earned the right to begin the new year for the Bears. From the very beginning of the season, a new spirit has guided our football fortunes. Thanks to the body's undying support. They proved that they, too, were serious about being justified, and continued support for the remainder of the 1950 campaign was warranted.

But the triumph means something more than this. We cannot afford to miss this opportunity to take a successful season for granted. We need a well-founded confidence in our team in future contests, but we must not let over-confidence mar our ambitions for a victorious year. We want the victory, but we want a well-rounded team. To achieve this we must continue to work hard and utilize our team to the fullest with a realistic view of our strengths and weaknesses.

Now what was all this hubbub about some questions about South Hall being the best of the girls’ dorms—first and last floor above all the rest? On behalf of a curious weekly, I journeyed down Sixth Avenue to skirt out the facts.

Miss Stege, at First Floor, peered out through a crack at the door, "Oh, yes, I might come in. (Precocious, you know, South takes precautions.) So, I came in. Irene Schenkel fitted by her way to class. "Efficient, that’s what these girls are!" said Mrs. Jackson, who called forth and conducted me with much pain into the reception room. We sat down and discussed South over a pile of cucumber sandwiches made with pumpernickel and some warm Kool-Aid served in the most charming of paper glasses—all kindly chopped up by the girls as soon as they heard me come in. So I chomped and gushed and absorbed information about (a) the reasonable plumbing, arranged so that the girls will always be assured that it’s working, (b) the photographs donated sunny, Jane, Mary Ann and Irene, so the happy faces covering every inch of Ann Boyer’s room, (d) how no one at South ever hears any late announcements and (e) much other vital make-out news that dorm is really well organized, I mean to tell the truth, for Ann Boysen, Marmor, of the famous chandeliers, is president and Joanne Shilliber administers final aid. It couldn’t be better.

The girls kept dropping in to carry on very friendly and informal conversations. One was telling me about the rooms—Jane it is "enormous," she said, "and they all have RUGS!" Impressed? I was!”

I was interrupted by sounds from above—cultural tones from the second floor whined “Turn off that—water down there! You know we can’t get it up here...”

...girls all considerate of each other and do they keep the dorm quiet? They certainly try, knowing full well that South is the last word in scientific regulations for quiet. The answer, of course, was...

MSGA Discusses Inter-Dorm Council, Concession, and Announcement Limits

The Men’s Student council discussed the limitation of announcements over the public address system, the establishment of an inter-dormitory council and the granting of a hot dog concession in the meeting Monday night.

Each council member will poll his class as the council can take future action on the questions of announcements over the public address system. It was suggested that only major organizations use the address system and that a special bulletin board be erected for notices of small organizations.

Harry Latt ’51, Roll Braun ’51, William Boener ’52, and Howard Feurter ’52 are working on an amendment to the constitution for an inter-dormitory council to control rules in the men’s dormitories. This motion is to be presented tonight for discussion.

Unanimously approved by the council was the concession request made by William Maguer and Paul Condie to serve hot dogs in Curtis hall. The concession is to be operated in Curtis for only one hour an evening and the prize of the hot dogs is to be no higher than twenty cents.

Delta Pi Sigma Frat Emerges As Recognized Social Group

Have you ever wondered who the "Dope" are around campus? Formally this group is known as the Delta Pi Sigma fraternity, organized midway through the last school year. From a handful of sincere and like-minded individuals, the fraternity has grown into a well-organized and purposeful organization with a present membership of twenty-two.

The fraternity has survived a period of trial and error and has now emerged as a fully recognized social fraternity at Ursinus. Offices for this year are Dick High ’53, president; Buck Ross ’51, vice-president; Dave Hulz ’52, secretary; and Alan Feld ’52, treasurer.

An interesting development of Phillie’s fans, Mary Ann Townsend took up on her door a panoramic photograph of the White Kids—just another example of the philanthropic way in which the girls of South Hall live.

And so it was with great misgivings that I set—forced upon the front door to leave that epidemic of human euphoria, South Hall. I shed a salt tear, caught my ankle between two rotten slats on the porch, and amid weeping and wailing and groaning of door jambs, I trundled off into the sunset up Sixth Avenue.

Bruins to Clash With Seahawks at Staten Island
by Gene Pacucci '52

A considerably strengthened Wagner college football team will take the field Saturday afternoon against the constantly improving Bears of Ursinus college at Grymes Hill, Staten Island.

Returning to action will be two key men—Paul Holz, all-city back at New Dorp high school last year; and Harry Knemer, halfback from Tauton, Massachusetts. Both were injured in pre-season scrimmages and missed the opener against Moravian College, which found Wagner on the short end of a 46-14 score.

Both were injured in pre-season training and will be out. As a note in passing, Wagner never under a pressing attack during the entire game, and Algernon did not penetrate the Ursinus striking circle more than twice. Marvin Kurz, a senior, was top scorer with four points.

Library to Get Additional Tier Of Book Racks
Installation Delayed by War; Library Capacity to Jump

Ursinus students will have a reason to be glad that the war in Europe is no longer a threat when they return to campus in the fall. The Library has plans for an additional tier of book stacks for the Alumni Memorial Library, which are currently in the planning stages.

Installation was originally scheduled to begin in May, but due to the Atlantic conflict focused on Europe, the plans for the new stacks were put on hold. The project, which was received from the Reminger-Remond Co., which is now engaged in the installation of new stacks in other libraries, is expected to be completed in the near future.

An attempt by College officials to put off the work until the war was over was met with resistance, and an appeal has been issued to all students to be patient and considerate of the conditions that may arise from the installation during the next few weeks.

The addition, which will increase the capacity of the Library by 17,000 books, is considered to be necessary by a rapidly growing college library. The installation of the new stacks, which is expected to be completed in the fall, will provide additional space for undergraduate and graduate students, and the periodicals in the library will become movable. The College was able to make a commitment with asphalt tiles, and the roofing staff.

Robert Mella, director of the library, said that the new stacks will be installed on the top level, and the periodicals in the library will be moved to the second floor. The floor will be covered with new carpet, or small tiles for the periodicals. The floor will be covered, with new carpet, or small tiles for the periodicals.

The floor will be carpeted, with new floor tiles, and the walls will be painted. The lighting will be improved by the addition of a new lighting system, which will be added to the stacks and the periodicals in the library. The new lighting system will be installed by Mr. Baron, who has been responsible for all the electrical work in the library.

It is expected that the new stacks will be completed by the end of the fall semester, and the library will be opened to the public in the spring.

Swastikas in the Library
Swastikas were found in the library during the night of May 28. The swastikas were found on the walls and ceiling of the library. The swastikas were removed by the library staff.

The library staff was surprised by the discovery of the swastikas, and the incident is being investigated by the police. The library staff is taking steps to prevent similar incidents from occurring in the future.
