Others thousand were sent with Bellow’s crew to a deep freezer in Texas. They were carried by a freezer truck to prevent any mold from growing until they get there. Remarkably, the special collection of Ursinus College’s past was not damaged. This collection included past yearbooks, Grizzly, student’s honors papers and college catalogs. Also, the new furniture in the lounge, despite a few tables and cushions, also survived the disaster.

At this point, the library is relying heavily on their Interlibrary Loan Service while it recovers. On the online catalogue next to each book that is unavailable will be a link connecting you right to the Interlibrary Loan Department. The other libraries in our area know of the situation and have agreed to help us out in the promptest way possible.

It is unbelievable that thousands of gallons of water poured out of the hole the size of a quarter. The damage was overwhelming, but fortunately there was an outpouring of support that has kept the progress constant.

"The expression of concern and help was really what got us to this point," said Mr. Jamison. He said that the offers of help were immediate and sincere. Faculty has even proposed lending their own personal collections until the library is completely restored. It is amazing how much people have helped us come this far.

Mr. Jamison and the rest of the library staff was a community stay patient and rely on Interlibrary Loan while they recuperate.
You may be familiar with the problem that is spreading across campus. If you walk around, I say “walk around” — through Ursinus College, you may see some point or another hit the ground. When this happens and you are with a friend, it is referred to as the “now you see me, now you don’t” phenomenon.

Who would have thought that class would not yet walk with that right? Such is the case with E-Follett. Who needed to go to the bookstore and Barnes & Noble. Most students just love miss. How many of us had to go to the bookstore and Barnes & Noble, or at least it seems that way.

It’s about buying books—or at least university students spend nearly twice the price of any drugstore. One book—the book used at the bookstore. I purchased the book used at Amazon.com for $25.25, less than half the price of the book used at the bookstore.

I think we can all agree that we are eagerly awaiting the end of this era. The high prices, low quality, and lack of organization will fully be a thing of the past.

However, the back walkways behind buildings, behind Pfister, and in the parking lots were still covered with a thick layer of ice. Many students opted to drive around campus to avoid the slippery paths.

One day, a senior, junior, or even a freshman could get to the bookstore and Barnes & Noble, or at least it seems that way. Such is the case with E-Follett. Who needed to go to the bookstore and Barnes & Noble, or at least it seems that way.

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A LEADER?

Ursinus College Leadership Studies Program

The Ursinus Leadership Studies Program is designed to provide a small group of highly motivated students with the opportunity to study leadership.

The program includes an intensive summer training program in which students spend a full semester in leadership theory and application, and a 4 credit leadership class during the fall semester of sophomore year, which allows students to research leadership and related theories.

The program also provides students with the opportunity to meet leaders, attend cultural events, and apply leadership abilities through hands-on service projects.

PETE ROSE: Only Time Will Tell

Joe Davis

Grizzly Sports Editor

After being banned from the game of baseball lifetime, Pete Rose finally admits to hiding his baseball.

He was quoted saying, "I am terribly sorry for my actions and for my bad judgment in ever throwing on baseball, and I deeply...are at all times. The coach has done a great job in getting his players more comfortable in making up for the team's lack of height, and has added more quickness among his players. "They are the most undersized team in the conference," said Stanton when asked about his team. "Basketball kills too..." because he never gave up and have kept themselves in nearly every game. The team currently has an overall record of 10-6 with a 4-3 record in the Centennial Conference. "If we were ever at home and were...the team to play against. Because they're playing under a tough schedule.
