Concession to Speed-E Cleaners Sustained by Unanimous Vote

The revision of both Speed-E Cleaners rules was adopted at a special council February 12 in the Library.

A committee report was heard and the rules revision. The motion made in favor of changing the rules was that there be a committee of 10 to 15 members, that the rules revision committee members, and that the rules committee be sanctioned by the President. Floyd Justice '51, proposed two additions which should include the leader of the committee, and that two student council members, one junior and one senior, be added to the committee to act only in liaison capacities.

Bill Bomber '53, proposed an addition that all of the members who have taken from custom be eligible to be on the committee.

The student council unanimously approved the committee as noted above.

Complications Feature Plot of "Speak Easy"

The complications which occur raise the paths of a cultured teacher and a college professor camouflage the truth of the story of "Speak Easy," the original musical comedy to be presented by the Senior class March 9 and 10, in Thompson-Gay gymnasium. Rehearsals have already begun on the three-act production which is set in the late Isabel situation.

The book of "Speak Easy" is by Joe Sist and music is by Oscar Hammerstein. Aubre Oviv plays the original comedy story by Murray Grove. Chosen for the role of Big John Lovelisy, the good cop, and his cop, is Hoy Foster; the disillusioned professor is Dick McKee, played by Frank Fink. The leading lady, played by Nancy Barn, Ruth Anderson, directed by Frank Donegan, Kathy Hare, Louise Borsennie, Bucky Ross and Richard Beatty.

Directing the musical will be Emilie Schmidt, assisted by Norma Mager, stage managers John and Frankel. Joe Beardwood is doing the lighting.

Dear Dad and Mom,

This week we experimented with food. I thought his classes were very truthful. If I thought his classes were very truthful then I would ask him any questions I think he can answer. If you look up from your notes and they were very angry. We told them to do their own work and they stomped out of the room and slammed the door half the night. No rest for the weary! How exactly truthfully certainly can get on one's nerves! This morning Maggie and I told one of the professors that we honestly thought that he was very truthful and that we didn't see any sense in coming to class. He asked us to leave the room—can you imagine! Just because we were truthful!

Last night I criticized the food and I was told that I could eat elsewhere. Also told I didn't look like the coat she was wearing, and Katherine I don't think her that her boyfriend was a dope. Maggie is feeling very well and she let her brother know that she had to study and could not go to the movies. Friday night. I don't think his classes were very truthful. George W ever got along with his fellow men with any little white lies!

Your eldest daughter.

Saturday, Feb. 24

Dear Daughter,

Don't you honestly and truthfully think that you should be home for a short rest? Honestly and truthfully.

Love,
Your parents.

How to Get That A

1. Bring the teacher newspaper clipping dealing with his subject. This demonstrates firé intensity and it is timed mention to the class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings. He thinks it's more important than his history books.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look alert and take notes eagerly, it looks as if you are interested in what he is saying.

3. Do not snore or murmur, "How true." To you this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite reasonable.

4. Sit in front of him. (Apologize only if you intend to stay awake.) If you are going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well sit up and be noticed, not violent. It is, especially if it is a large class.

5. Ask questions only if he asks you questions. You can tell, if he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he is ready to help.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. Stay awake. Sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you still are there, doing nothing.

If you enjoy a book you read during the class looks like a text book. Match books for size and color.

If you have any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have any questions. It is a question that couldn't be answered, and in your brother's third grade reader at.

10. Congratulate him on his excellent lecture. If you do not or you don't want to do some work, in addition to all this; well, it's entirely

If you 'Touched You Saw a Puddie-Cat' in Pfahler, 'You Did...' by Anne Neberak '33

To you students who think Pfahler is an ordinarly day after another, just be glad you're not a cat, that is, a cat in Dr. Brownnecker's comparative anatomy laboratory.

At the beginning of January, upon their return from Christmas vacation, the biology majors began their comparative study of the incrusta, the amphipoda, families, the dogfish, the small dog shark and the cat. The latter are bought by the science department from a laboratory which specializes in the raising and preparation of cats for laboratory work, thereby assuring large, healthy specimens for thorough study. When the cats are distributed among the students they have been embalmed in formaldehyde and have had their veins and arteries injected with red and blue latex to facilitate the study of the circulatory system.

Working in pairs, the white-jacketed bio majors' first step in their long study is to skin the animals. For this "gloppy" procedure they don their jeans and old socks and discard to the base- ment of Pfahler, into the binarion, the dismal storage room of the biology department. Having been convinced that the cats actually don't actually feel a thing, the amature operators finish the first long chain of proceedings. Between "operations" the cats are tenderly placed in their eocolipon bag habitats and thrown on a steel-shelved table on wheels which carries them to the third comparative anatomy laboratory in time for each coil. Henceforth the study will include that of the musicles, arteries and veins, nervous systems, and viscera, the internal organs. The skeletal system is studied from the mounted specimens set up in the laboratory.

Cats Given Names

Nearly all the cats are given names by their dissectors. What an embarrassing situation to discover, under closer observation, that "Tabby" is not a tabby at all but "Tom" and must be given a name more fitting to his or her situation in life.

Among the many interesting and amusing phenomena found in the studies thus far, the pregnant puszaboty found in the Tuesday lab- oratory section deserves mention. Because of her delicate condition and the necessity for immediate attention, her two handlers dis- persed with finding a more fanciful name and merely called their tabby "Her." "Her" is said to have had a sweet, demure expression on her spotty, long-whiskered face, well-kempt toenails and to have been every inch a lady. The might-have-been mother of quintuplets, "Her" was subjected to a delicate Caesarian operation which was successful in saving only one of her dead progeny. In the customary fashion, she was spanked at birth. "Her" offspring, which was christened with formaldehyde, ad- opted the Tuesday laboratory sec- tion for its godparents. This little infant resembled its mother about the ears, but must have in- herited its father's silent meow. It can now be found in a pickle jar at one of the men's dormitories.

Bears Toppled From Loop
Lead By Haverford Five

The high-flying Bruins last Wednesday toppled from their perch at the top of the scoring column. Ted Chantler and Ed Mew-" utes the Bears closed the gap to jump shots by Don Young 13-3. 23-14, Young changed it to 23-18 widening this margin shortly before Wimberg added four points on onetosses, Tollin popped in a set, but

Grizzly Crackers

Everytime Jim Duncan does his wrestling topic the old injury just seems to catch up with him. As a freshman four years ago he first joined the Bruin mat squad, after a brilliant career at Penn Charter, Jim got off to an auspicious start by pinning his first two opponents in the 138-pound class, thus bringing his victory string to 16 straight triumphs on the mat.

Then, in the Briarwoode match, Jim suffered a freak broken arm and was through for the season. This year Jim was back again but in the second match of the season, against Lafayette, he suffered a severe nose injury and again had to call it quits. Besides his work on the mats, Jim is also a member of the APhiE, the Cull and Key and the soccer team.

Swarthmore Hands Ursinus Mermaids First Defeat, 42-15

The Ursinus mermaids suffered first defeat of the season Wednesday at the hands of a strong Swarthmore squad, 42-15. The victory, undefeated for two years, also holds the Inter-Collegiate Meet title.

In the 50 yard free style, Sallie Lummis placed a second close to June McCullan of Swarthmore, who broke the pool record in 27.2 seconds. Joan Compton, previously undefeated Ursinus breaststroker, was defeated in a close contest again a second place, but the remainder of the meet was dominated by the well-balanced Swarthmore squad.

Shrine-Baird Squad Leads in Intercollegiate Competition

In view of the first defeat of the season, the team of Shrine-Baird’s by Ursinus in basketball, it appears more reasonable to consider the basketball team and all the other basketball teams as being undefeated.

There are some people who will tell you that the little man is being pushed out of basketball. And with good reason. There is no true basketball interest among the big men in the cage sport, points have no existence here. And this belief. But it would be difficult to find a better example to prove the point than fans who took a trip down to Havertown to witness the game.

Instrumental in the Frogs defeat was the play of John Hoar, who was one of these little guys. But Tullin, of course, and when we use that term we’re not speaking of Tullin because he is the tallest one here. His leaving this starting forward flipped 28 points into the hoop, mostly against the crowd from the outside, and he currently sports a 5-10 frame. His frame is no longer than his trough to lose, especially when your opponents are 6-6 and 6-7. Moreover, it is fortunate enough to be roosting again for the little man. Hoar watched him fire the ball from every angle and with extreme accuracy. A point to remember, perhaps, is Tullin is our pick on all-stars.

A look around the rest of the league shows other fine smaller players who have the special enchantment to their teams. Such men as Bobby Morris of PM, Al McCurtay of Curtis, Joe Carroll of Swarthmore and others contribute their share. The Hoyas have been in turning out good performances with such players. Among the larger colleges 5’10” Sam Heine also has his work cut for him as the game turns out stars like these the plants will never reign supreme.

Blue Hens Triumph Over Bears 23-11; Helfferich Victor

In the feature attraction of the evening, Hill. Helfferich, Ursinus, defeated Delaware’s negi, once more sensation Tom Schultz, thus modifying the 23-12 defeat suffered by the Bears. It was their third loss of the season against a victor and a tie. The Blue Hens have scraped the floor moving the Bears 3-2 and 2-3.

A newcomer named Dick Hein started things off with a bang and a Kennial Morris, Ursinus, cemented the score by nailing Ranville’s shoulders to the men at the second part of what was probably the night’s most ac-

By Fred Richel '51

Last week we presented one side of the story, namely playing conditions at Ursinus. Now we like to examine the opposite side of the story. It is not until we have learned something about the players themselves that we can truly understand the indigenous aspect of a school. We are all aware that the Ursinus players have lately been raising complaints everywhere. They have been trying to get in a space-time—and justly so—since they claim that they have often abused whatever privileges they have to play. It is the added weight of the ironcreateElement that has caused them to miss practices and games, and this, along with a host of other factors, has completely been tried by the players.

On the outside courts the basketball players have been laying the groundwork for a new era. It is the fact that the hoops are too far apart that has made the players refer to the small court. It is the fact that the players have been continually forced to do it .. Opening the gym Saturday afternoon that the T-G gym is in need to the students it is up to them to provide enough super-

There is an immediate need to provide enough super-

Two bright spots in the game were the efforts of Paul Hein and the several.photo of the game taken at a four point game. The first half. Half got most of his point when Swett had to retire on fouls. The differential team scoring can be attributed to the fact that Swartmores for 16 out of 19 fouls while Ursinus could get only 9 for 23 at the first throw line.

Visitors Build Lead

The game opened slow, the score only going to 4-0 1 the first minute of the five minutes. The visitors then broke away with a 7-2 advantage and built their lead to 9-2. Ursinus played their best basketball of the game and dribbled in for a second half lead. The lead was again split by Swartmore’s layup, eating the margin back to 5-4. Sears and Hoar were pressed with both teams using the fast break.

With three minutes remaining in the half Ursinus were up 18-17 lead. The lead then changed hands the Bears finally making the score again with one minute left. Then George Mefon countered with 2 quick field goals enabling Swartmore to lead at half-time 25-24.

Sweat Foils Out

The second half saw the ball fall a field goal and Merson countered with two goals building Swartmore’s lead to 34-24. Then Swett and Merson added points for the remainder of the game. At point of play he left the game with four points and Derr II defeated 180.

From here on in Ursinus never gave the Bears a chance. It was the only other game Derr II defeated 6-4. Just prior to entering the game, the Frogs decided to go for broke rebouded, the Bears took the offensive back before Swartmore’s layup over the game. It was the main difference in the final score. The Bears lost 65-49.

The Weekly Ads... Should America's Women be Drafted?

There should be drafted for non-combative positions in the armed forces. Miss Mildred Morton, wartime head of WAVES, thinks that they should be in an active role. Miss Morton believes that women, because of their experience in the war, and there are a lot of duties for them to do in service.

Barbara Stagg '53 - I don't think the women should be drafted around while the men are in the service. The course they should be drafted for them to do in the service, the course they can serve her country by being a nurse or a secretary, would be on this voluntary duty basis.

Jery Diehl '52 - I personally don't think that the women should be drafted, but if they were I'd like to go.

Adolph Timmer '51 - I wouldn't be nice, wouldn't I?

IRC Hears Views of State Department As Miller Reports Off-Record Session

The condition in four critical areas of the world, China, Indochina, Western Germany, and the Philippines, as viewed by the State Department, were included in political science professor, Dr. E. H. Miller's report to the IRC last Tuesday night.

Recently held in Washington were two off-the-record State Department conferences which Mr. Miller attended. Among the topics which were considered at these conferences were the status of the Cominform, General Douglas, General Hersey, several area experts from the Department also claims that the United States press greatly overrates their strength and the results of investigations by the council members. The condition in four critical areas of the world, China, Indochina, Western Germany, and the Philippines, as viewed by the State Department, were included in political science professor, Dr. E. H. Miller's report to the IRC last Tuesday night.

Recently held in Washington were two off-the-record State Department conferences which Mr. Miller attended. Among the topics which were considered at these conferences were the status of the Cominform, General Douglas, General Hersey, several area experts from the Department also claims that the United States press greatly overrates their strength and the results of investigations by the council members. The student council voted unanimously to uphold their original decision of having two dry cleaning establishments represented on campus.
