COMING DRIVES

The annual events of the Ursinus social season are beginning to mature. The Rollmen have just concluded their successful drive, and there are a few others still ahead. On Wednesday, November 10, the seniors will hold their Christmas Drive, and on Saturday, December 5, the junior class will begin their drive. These are the most well-known in the list, and the most well-known in the office.

The WSFP goal of $100,000 materialized. For its effort, the WSFP brought in a gospel or $500 resulting in $646.94, the Red Cross collection amounted to $341.15, which, when divided by the student body, comes to 40¢ per student for the whole year. Dr. Heckworth and the WSFP probably realize our failure to meet him has put them as below the other college students throughout the nation.

There is little doubt that college athletic programs will give large sums to these beneficial causes. There is little doubt, on the other hand, that there is a little doubt that anyone of us has contributed much, if at all, towards these contributions from at least a few of these funds. There is a great need for a good selection of programs for those who, for some reason, are not interested in participating in a drive to support another one. We have reason to believe that the best way to support a cause is by putting ourselves in the place of the people to whom we do it.

There is a great tendency for all of us to be put in our own shoes, in our own shoes. We closed in our own little world—to forget that we are not the only students in the world we hear or see. Whether we feel the need to give others a voice or tell others it seems our business to Murray, Cheltenham.

Korean Compares Hawaii U., Ursinus

For the first time in his life, on August 29, 1949, a young Korean left Honolulu by plane bound for San Francisco. This was to be his first stop on a long journey eastward. His destination was Ursinus College, located in the small town of Collegeville, Pennsylvania.

Dan Hong has never been seen in the United States, but he had heard about it from a brother who attended the University of Minnesota and a sister who majored in social work at the University of Ohio. Dan is the sixth in a family of four girls and three boys.

Dan Young-Ho (which means "man's hero") moved to Honolulu on the island of Oahu ten years ago when he was 15. His father is employed by the state bottling company that has a plant in Hawaii, and owns two small farms. Dan heard English in the Hawaiian schools, in which English is the primary language and the mother tongue is secondary.

Having completed two years in the pre-med department of the University of Hawaii, Dan decided to complete his pre-professional education at Ursinus, through the recommendation of a medical friend who had attended the University of Pennsylvania.

Among the favorable impressions that Ursinus has made on this new student are the dining room system and the histology laboratory. Dan appreciates the fact that students here do not have to wait in long lines for their meals as they did in the U. of H. Ursinus' histology laboratory is also a definite improvement over that of his former school. Its individual places for work, lamps, steel drawers, high-power microscopes and drawers in which to keep equipment constitute strongly with the less elaborate laboratory supplies of the Hawaiian school.

Ursinus is quite different from the University of Hawaii in three respects: the size, since the U. of H. has almost four thousand students; the 800-office friendliness here, and the large percentage of resident students at Ursinus. Although education is very highly regarded in Hawaii, there is a large enrollment of pre-medical students, not many of them, according to Dan, can afford to continue their education in American medical schools.

Dan is another example of the growing desire for education among all the peoples of the world, and he sincerely hopes that his stay at Ursinus will be beneficial, both academically and socially.

Major Ed Wall, Harvard, '40
-Flying Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Newark, N. J., he moved to Boston at an early age, graduated from the public Latin high school in 1940, entered Harvard the same year, where he majored in economics and government.

"Active on the campus" — he played football, earned his letter on the boxing team. He worked part-time in a variety of jobs from bonner to baby sitter, received his A.B. degree in 1943.

Assigned to anti-sub patrol duty, he flew B-24's and E-17's before going overseas in 1944, where he flew 30 missions as a B-24 pilot. Shot down over Germany, he was a prisoner of war for 2 months.

Back in the States with his English wife, he earned his Regular commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college training program, receiving his LLB degree in 1949.

Now, he is confident about his future and security. As a pilot and legal officer of Haling Air Force Base, N. C., Major Ed Wall is a typical U. S. Air Force flying executive . . . with a challenging career.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 30 yrs, with at least two years of college, you can have a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the minimum age, height and vision requirements through the Officer Candidate Program and the Officer Candidate Cadet. If you do not complete Officer Candidate School, you may wish to consider a life or have opportunity to train at Officer Candidate Cadet for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival—or get full details at your nearest Air Force base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, Air Force, Attention: Officer Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. Curtis Emerges Victorious in Football; Play-Offs To Determine League Winner

by Ed Klein ’92

Mighty Curtis came out of the intramural football season with a winning tradition that showed. Using a two-platoon system, something new to interdorm competition, Curtis outmaneuvered and overpowered all opposition to end in first place. With Brobeck and Derr, they were tied for second place with a four and two before Brobeck had battled for first place with Curtis, but was outmaneuvered and overpowered by Derr. The Annex, Bain, and Freeland followed, in that order.

Play-Off Decided

It was decided at a meeting of the four top team managers to hold a championship play-off starting today and continuing tomorrow afternoon. It was arranged that Curtis and Off-campus meet this afternoon, while Brobeck and Derr battle on the other. The winners of this afternoon’s game will play each other tomorrow for the first and second places, while the two losers will vie for third and fourth positions.

Those members of the winning team in the play-off will score medals. All four teams will receive points towards the trophy presented for their teams to appear for the championship game.

Managers Cited

Every game was a clean, well-fought contest, played to the hilt. This is clearly indicated by the scores of the games—all close-fought affairs. The managers of the respective teams deserve praise for their best efforts in setting their teams to appear for the games. The managers are: Curtis, Dave McMillan; Off-campus, Bob Ziegler; Brobeck, Cleecky, Derr, Willy Baxter; Annex, Joe Walker; Stine, Mac Counter, and Freeland, John Biddle.

The final standing of the teams is as follows:

Curtis won its first pigskin contest, defeating Melrose Athletic Association 28-0 on the home field. That year the Bears smashed Norristown High School 38-0 for its second win, tied Toga Athletic Association 1-1, and lost three to complete the season.

The following quotation is culled from the 1893 Weekly, describing the Phoenixville tussle. "Men in Philadelphia line were gentlemen, but behind the line disgraceful rules of football and society. They staggered, throtted, tripped, and captured the referee and bundled the umpire. Ursinus left field at end of first half, but returned to play upon promise of better treatment, forced half was worse."

The next season, the Bruins took a giant stride in the football world as they secured the services of Ed Lent for double duty, acting as both coach and captain.

1894 saw the first intercollegiate games played by Ursinus. That year the Bruins lost to F & M 70-8, Haverford 20-0, Dickinson 20-0, but defeated Temple 16-0. As in the year before, fifteen hearty souls comprised the playing squad.

Equipment was ridiculously inadequate. Felt pads were sewed onto the shoulders of jerseys and adorning the hips and knees of the pants served as body protection, for these shalwar grinders. A leather headgear, which could be folded neatly and carried in the hip pocket for convenience sake, and a thick band of hair protected the cranial of the participants.

A new regime entered in 1895 as Cressey took over the coaching reins. Conditioning was stressed. "For the first two weeks of practice, men ran five miles at 4:30 a.m. each morning with usual practice for special training diet and strict living rules in effect." Success did not follow this program. After defeating Temple 56-0, the Bears lost three games and canceled the rest of the contests that season. "Some men did not seem disposed to obey the orders of the coach and captain. Besides ending season early, some men will be debarred from all athletics for six months."

The Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall attended the Ursinus Old Timers Day on Friday, November 15th, and enjoyed a game of touch football in the Ursinus Stadium. The Diplomats were represented by a strong and experienced team, led by former players who were eager to relive the glory days of their college football careers.

The game was filled with exciting moments, as both teams fought hard to gain an advantage. The Diplomats showed their skill and determination on the field, while the Old Timers displayed their past techniques and strategies.

At the end of the game, the Diplomats emerged victorious, secured by a strong defense and a well-executed offensive strategy. The victory was a testament to the enduring spirit of football and the value of community and camaraderie.

After the game, the teams gathered for a friendly social gathering, where they shared stories and memories, reliving the good old days of their college football experiences. The event was a wonderful opportunity to reconnect with former teammates and to honor the tradition of Ursinus Old Timers Day.

The following day, the Diplomats continued their festivities with a game of touch football at the Ursinus Coliseum. The event was a great success, with players of all ages enjoying the opportunity to play and compete in the traditional Ursinus game.

In the end, the Diplomats emerged victorious once again, showcasing their skill and teamwork. The event was a fitting tribute to the rich history and camaraderie of the Ursinus Coliseum, and a testament to the enduring spirit of football.

If you would like to learn more about Ursinus Old Timers Day or to get involved, please visit our website or contact us at (540) 786-7867. We look forward to seeing you at the next event!
Godshall Supervises Construction Work For Disposal Plant

Co-operating with the state in its efforts to save money, Ursinus College has undertaken the construction of a new sewer interceptor and sewage treatment plant. A contract for the work was let in June and plant is expected to be in operation in the near future. The plant, which will cost $45,706, was designed by Whiteman, Read and Condon of Baltimore, one of the foremost sewage design engineering firms in the country. Assembled on the campus, the plant will be moved to its permanent site after its installation is complete.

Week-end Events

A somewhat drizzly atmosphere permeates the campus with the showing of Sentimental Journey, which opened yesterday night. The force band and vocalists at the school had prepared the audience for the evening triumph the sad trend as Steve Munch and Bob Harvey Wilson, special vocalists for the Ruby dance later in the evening, proved too much for coed emotions.

later he was captured by the Germans and sent to a prison camp where he worked "very, very hard." Finally, when the Allies took over in 1945, he was sent to Rid in Denmark to a Displaced Persons camp where he entered the university. While there, he achieved the high scholastic record which has been partially responsible for his acceptance here. (Incidentally, Mr. Howard Schultze, a native of Harrisburg, knows.)

cerly's "The Little Donnel," Bob Jordan followed her with brilliant piano renditions of Erasmo Lanza's "Danna Negra" and "La Cumbrera."

Next on the program was Bill Van Horn, who sang "On the Road to Mandalay" by Spakes and "My Hero" by Pearson. For an encore, Bill sang "Shratin' Bread."

The recital concluded with the presentation of Richard Romberg's "Will You Remember?" Caryll's "Beautiful Lady," Jerome Kern's "All the Things You Are," and as an encore, "My Little Baloo" by an octet composed of Nancy Malloy, Kathleen Hone, Sally App, Ruth Dalsimer, Norman Haneyer, Charles Prifek, Jack Christl, and Bill Hone.

Much credit for the success of the program should be given to Audra Glover, who very ably accompanied both soloists and choirs on the piano, as well as to the other participants and Dr. William P. Pelle, head of the Music Department.

Fyomition

On numerous occasions remarks have been overheard in the summer theaters in this area, and even in the playhouses in Philadelphia to the effect that "I've seen better plays at Ursinus." It is indeed gratifying to note that productions here have received attention far from the campus boundaries. The critics have been happy to hear that there is a dice chance for this show to be taken on the road, if only more of this in a later issue. Suffice it to say that the play is taking shape beautifully, and it seems that the Curtain Club will have another success to add to its list when December 3 and 4 have passed.
