Mutch Stresses Value of Individuality During Annual Baccalaureate Service

"Make the most of what you have in your individuality. Make your contribution what it ought to be—not to yourself, not to your Alma Mater, but to God," Dr. Andrew Mutch, Minister Emeritus of the University Church, said in his sermon at the annual Baccalaureate service yesterday morning in Bomberger Chapel.

Stressing the values of individuality, Dr. Mutch stated that each person is unique and of equal value in the sight of God. He compared each person to the special gift of some individual in each one. Recognizing that each person should be fully aware of all the implications involved and make the most of one's abilities.

Dr. John H. Clawson, dean of the college, delivered the invocation at the beginning of the service. Norman E. McGree, president of the Exponent, read Abraham and The Reverend Mr. Alfred R. Croucher, chaplain, delivered the prayer.

1949 Graduates Join Faculty; Four Leave For 1951-52 Term

Four Ursinus faculty members will not return to the teaching staff next year, and one new instructor has been appointed to the Romance Language department.

Mr. Alfred D. Roberts, a February graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, will teach beginning courses in Spanish, French and Italian next year. Mr. Frank T. Wiesner, 1941, will teach French, Italian and Spanish. Both of these instructors have had advanced study in the languages they teach.

Mr. George W. C. Kerr, nine years a member of the faculty, has accepted an appointment at the University of Illinois.

Mrs. Robert R. Titus, a graduate of Wellesley College, is returning to her studies, too.

On Graduating

Ursinus' eighteenth academic year is now history.

For many of us underclassmen this means only that exams are over and that we have completed another year of school. Since this is an annual experience it is not especially noteworthy, but, rather, is one that we have become conditioned to taking in stride, devoid of special note.

For the young men and women of the Class of 30, however; today's activities mark an occasion of outstanding significance. For these members of the largest graduating class in the College's history Commencement Day stands virtually without a peer in its importance to their lives. It represents the culmination of four years of hard work and diligent application.

But, though it means the achievement of an objective, the acquisition of a college diploma also means that the recipient is entering a new phase of his life. The signature is not symbol of the end of the road, but signifies the graduate is embarking on a new experience.

The word commencement itself emphasizes this meaning of graduation. The members of the Class of 30, having reached a major objective, now begin the next part of their journeys through life.

Many are the times that we have emphasized the mistakes we have made at college, or the imperfections of the institution we were attending; but these things must not loom large in our minds, we climbed a gym.

There is one that we have become conditioned to taking in stride, devoid of special note. Sometimes it is an indication of just how far the language has been able to develop to express in English the movements, diagnosis, and treatment of the diseases that beset the body and soul.

In other times it has been for the accomplishment of the students who have shown the will to succeed and the ability to do so. This is a special note.

Mr. B. J. near Dick was not only one of the organizers of the Student Body, but also a leader in the activities of the College. He has been a valued member of the faculty and has contributed much to the development of the institution. His passing is a great loss to the College and its students.

The Other Person's Job... Miss Spangler Oversees Cottage

I said, "Hello, I'm from the Weekly," stuffing my desire to ask without preliminary, "Was the lady in charge of overseas visitors here?" Miss Spangler showed me into the music room of the Cottage and introduced me to a lady who is such an integral part of Ursinus music has no less an interesting background than her house. Having studied at Curtis Institute, Columbia University, Jihad School of Music and Art, and the Mozarteum in Germany, she has found calls for her to enter into a legion of new fields, one of which is directing the production of music at the Cottage. She has, in this capacity, duties as an Ursinus preceptress, private music instructor and Cottage hostess at all musical events and is developing an interesting program of music for the cottage. Outside of college interests she has charge of the Piano Organ Chapel Choir and is associated with a Norristown music organization. She has directed a number of opening ceremonies and вечерник, the direction of Wednesday evening open air concerts given throughout the summer by the College and the High School, a revival of a tradition that finds its home here at Ursinus, of the musical evening: once a year the college⊝will she hold open house at the Cottage for all those who are interested.

When the conversation turned from Miss Spangler's many interests and activities to the house itself, I discovered the rumor about a boat house was correct. The central part of the house which was constructed as a dorm for a hundred years. It has served also as a seminary for the doctor of a summer hotel called "Pingree Homes." The hotel stood, by the way, on the present site of the library. Thursday night Miss Spangler said that when she had the house built from the uptown, and with some men who worked in the music and studio and living quarters made it into a housesetting of instruction. Since that time opera, oratorio and music have been a part of the music that has entertained Ursinus students there. After Miss Spangler and her plans for the coming year there can be no doubt that the tradition of pleasure which surrounds the Cottage will be perpetuated, if not made stronger.

You Name It...

In The Albright we find the following open letter which was written in an effort to stop the use of the Curse from some other newspaper - we don't print contributions we can't accept.

"To the Editors:"

Adele Marthe, a regular contributor to The Albright, has been stolen from The Albright. We are sure that it is an honest effort, and that if we get it back, we will be able to continue with the currency.

If we print jokes, we are sure that we are not discussing sex.

If we don't print them, the page is full with junk.

If we print them, the page is full with junk.

Now, like as not, some one will say we swiped it from some other newspaper - we don't print contributions we can't accept.

I have been a subscriber to The Albright for many years, and was sorely missed when he [reference to a person] died. During the warmer weather I would have had my favorite Nelsie B. International back in The Albright. Because of his death I am unable to write him.

No Madame, a hecklerish is not the present of the editor.

Staufier and Cumpstone To Lead Baseball, Track

Don Staufier, veteran pitcher-outfielder, and Don Cumpstone, ace, are the returning all-conference captains for next year's baseball and track teams respectively.

Staufier, who will be starting his fourth season with the diamond squad, is the greatest hurler the team has produced. However, don't overlook the Defense, yet another outstanding performer. A former all-around athlete at North Chester High School, Don also plays football with the Pittsburg State League and played defense and led his team to back-to-back on the bruin football field. Don Barksdale, junior, is another returning player who is also a member of Cub and Key and Alpha Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Don Cumpstone throws the spear just a little further every time he places it in the air. This year he broke the track record in the first meet of the season against Haverford and then completed it in the next meet against Alum- ly and the record was broken by John C. Klein led the track, and starting. He completed four of the seven that he threw with a greatest number of victories. He completed 20.6 without a defeat, and collected
