EARTHLY REVIEWS

by Fred Nichols

The final draft of the North Atlantic security alliance was finished last week and presented to the U.S. Senate for approval. However, since U.S. prestige, interests, and even a moral commitment are involved in this program, the Senate will likely approve the alliance.

Victor Barkley made a very important recommendation to the Senate that the presiding officers of the Senate had always ruled that a bill could not be limited to two hours. Barkley countered the bill but only when a bill, itself, was under consideration. Barkley reversed the decision that has been in force for many years.

This would enable the supporters of the civil rights program to get their bills through Congress. However, the Senate still had to vote on Barkley's ruling, and the decision was in doubt because of the competition between Democrats and Republicans. If the ruling is not upheld, the Southerners could stifle the Senate for months.

The House of Representatives voted a voice on the extension of rent controls after a group of Democrats and Republicans had formed the Association to accept an amendment providing landlords a reasonable return on their investment. A House committee approved a bill to increase the legal minimum wages from forty cents an hour to seventy-five cents an hour. Mildred E. Gillam, better known as Sallie, was convicted of treason last week by a Federal court jury. She faces a sentence ranging from five years in prison to death in the electric chair.

Moscow

The Soviet Union was told that military expenses in the new budget were to rise twenty percent. The Finance Minister said that the U.S. attacked the U.S.S.R. for its provocative attitude in world affairs. Britain was also accused of increasing its military expenditures.

Lake Success

The Security Council voted to draft instructions for the General Assembly to approve this week. The Council's 13-member Social and Political Committee voted by a narrow margin to approve the instructions. The U.S. and British delegates to the United Nations, along with the other members of the Assembly, voted for the resolution.

Washington

President Wilson arrived to prepare the way for the North Atlantic pact for ratification. It is necessary for maintaining French security.

In the tentative stages are the following plans for the future Ursinus campus: the erection of a quadrangle which will include men’s and women’s dormitories and a chapel, the building of new hockey fields and tennis courts, the removal of the present supply store and boiler house, and the erection of a new power plant below the hockey fields. Already built, but not shown on the plans, are the new gym and the maintenance building. Plans for a new fieldhouse beyond the Thompson-Gay gym have been abandoned. The old college barn is scheduled either for removal or for transformation into a student union building.

Turn Out in Force

Kennedy, Turner, Binder Return
To Boost Season’s Prospects

A host of returning lettermen and the addition of forty-five candidates老化 to establish Ursinus among the track powers of local schools in the coming season. Surely needed are a couple of milers, but in most of the other events, talent is abundant.

George Kennedy, Bill Turner, and Russ Binder, three of last sea- son’s most prolific scorers, are rounding into shape through the daily practice sessions, and Coach Ray Gurzynski is counting heavily on a repeat performance by these stalwarts.

The Coach expects much of such new members as Ralph Slinger, who is a hurdles man; Don Bailey and Ken Mammel, who are expected to aid the Bears in the hurdles, high and broad jumps; and Harry Domn, who is competition for any veteran in the 200 and 220. Ray Foster shows promise in the 440 as well as the 880.

Although these are pre-season speculations, you will probably find the following names in the main events. Some mile and two mile prospects are: Bill Baster, from last year; Sid Torres, Joe Shaw, Joe Smith, and Paul Schieren.

Don Bailey, Russ Binder, Bill Elliott, and Paul Haines rounded out the broad jumpers. Runners of the high jump are John DeBlydenburg, Bill Heffelfish, and Frank Robinson. As high and medium distance work out on the high jump, Domn, Haines and Heffelfish will be doing their stuff with the javelin. Bailey, Binder, Davis, Dewitt, and Turner are the pole vault men.

When asked about the coming season, Coach Gurzynski said: “I am, as all coaches are, lookmg for- ward to a good season. I think that this year’s team will be better, and if the news boys come through, we should win our share of the meets. I feel that members of the team will be much better than they were last year. I have no field of hopefuls on the campus who do the same thing as well as they did last year. And as for their school a lot of good if they would only come out.

Seeds Lose Seven Cagers

At the conclusion of the unsuccessful 1948-49 season Coach Joker Reeder is faced with the unhappy task of replacing seven varsity players who have donned Red, Old Gold and Black playing togs for the last time.

Prominent among the departing court warriors is high-scoring Bob Jaffe, whose superior brand of shooting and ball control has earned him to Ursinus followers for the last three seasons. The incomparable Jaffe was the hub of both the offense and defense this last year and will leave a large breach for mentor Seeds to fill next year.

Dave Bahney, who performed for the Ursinus championship quintet four years ago, will also leave. Bahney’s dependable set shooting and defensive work were among the few bright spots in the recent season.

Able missing will be the reliable work of five men who performed both substitute and starting roles this year. Hal Brandt, who gained a starting berth in the sophomore year, Bob Poole, whose hoop career was interrupted by a military assignment, Ed Miller, whose fame has previously been made on the gridiron; and Pete Tenewitz, who moved up from junior Varsity for the big game in the Meet at Muhlenberg, are the names to be heard called to Ursinus followers iron; and Pete Tenewitz, who

Jaffe, Star Center, Makes Conference All-Star Team

College Sports Writers Name Four PMC Men to First Two Teams; Jim Reilly and Walt Uudovich Selected by Unanimous Choice

Norristown High School’s Bob Jaffe, stellar 6 ft. 4 in. Bruin center for the past three seasons, has been selected for the first team of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Conference all-star basketball squad by the team, chosen by representatives from each of the conference’s school papers, also includes one member each from Swarthmore and Haverford, and two from PMC.

A part of three in the ballot- ing, finished behind Swarthmore’s Jim Reilly and PMC’s Walt Uudovich, who were selected by unanimous selections. Haverford’s Eldon Tollie traded Jaffe in the voting for a member of the other two schools, and Philadelphia’s only other Bruin member to be considered. Four, who has another year of varsity eligibility, tied with Jaffe for third place. Reilly, Tollie, and Uudovich were voted first team honors.

When asked for votes in naming Bob Jaffe of Swarthmore, Phoenix, the Delaware Review, the Ursinusian and the Drexel Triangle, the PMC Dome and the Week, the PMC editor, were the Ursinus voting representatives.

Intramural Contests Slated for Monday

One week from today, in the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium, sports fans will enjoy a gala cross-section of athletic events with the presentation of Intramural Night. Tomorrow is the deadline for contestants in wrestling and boxing to sign up and list the points in the dressing room of the new gym. Rounds will be arranged from this list and semi-finals will be held on Thursday and Friday. Only one man from each dorm may enter the particular weight class.

Also on Thursday, the foul shooting teams will be selected. Each competing dorm will be allowed one five-man team. Team members will then be given fifty shots in order to determine team averages. The most proficient individual from each dorm will battle for personal honors on Intramural Night.

Joanne Duncan drops twin-pointer in 33-15 rout of Penn Coeds

The Ursinus girls’ basketball team continued its successful season, gaining its seventh victory in eight starts by defeating Penn 33-15 on Saturday in the Thompson-Gay gymnasium. Scoring honors were shared by Edith Calhoun and Joanne Duncan who bagged 12 points and 11 points respectively to score 23 of the 33 points.

The first quarter was slow and the Ursinus forwards found it difficult to break through the Penn zone. Duncan broke the ice with a set shot from the foul circle and Calhoun followed with a pair of two-pointers before the ending of the first period. The Ursinus guards did not allow Penn a single point in the second quarter. Ursinus scored only two field goals in this period but gained a large lead with three foul shots by Duncan. The half ended with Ursinus leading 14-0.

Belle's Score Three

Ursinus soon got started in the second half with Calhoun, Duncan, and Spencer scoring in quick succession. Penn had hard luck in this period, throwing up quite a few shots, but only putting two through the hoop. Ursinus was greatly aided by Spencer's height in retrieving shots from the backboard and turning them into easy field goals. Macklin, Frick, and Johnstone covered the Penn with a short time to go and "Mag" scored on a set shot before the final whistle blew.

Guard Flows Lewis, R. J. Moyer, and Mary Evans played brilliantly, allowing only five field goals in the entire game. They held Penn to one point in the last two minutes. The final score: Ursinus 68, Philadelphia Myers 19.

Four Swimmers Finish Fifth

As Swimmers Finish Fifth

The Swarthmore College girls, who have remained unbeaten for the last three years, swept five of seven events to secure the Eastern Intercollegiate women's swimming championship on Saturday. Ursinus was able to place fifth in a line-up of nine colleges by taking two fourth places and one fifth place. The sole individual winner among the Ursinus swimmers was Pat Ellis, who placed fourth in the 200-yard freestyle and the 50 yard freestyle relay team was able to go in for sixth place with Ursinus fourth in this event.

Jaffe Tops Hoop Scorers

by Bob Gehman ’30

Climaxing his basketball career at Ursinus, center Bob Jaffe led in all departments to cop the 1948-49 scoring honors with 287 points. Jaffe, operating mainly from the pivot, perfected a deadly two-hand overhand shot, which combined with his under-the-board follow through made him an outstanding scorer in the Middle Atlantic Conference and rated him fifth in the Philadelphia scoring ranks.

Sharing the point-making chores with Jaffe were Bill Purpath, whose 315 points against Philadelphia Textile set a new Ursinus record, and Dave Bahney, who electrified Ursinus followers with his long accurate set shots and leaping hook shots. These two were the only other centers to pass the century mark, having 145 and 130 points respectively.

In the Cub circuit, Collegeville’s own George Rock led his team mates with 181 points, closely followed by Nelson Wenner with 156 tallies. Rock and Wenner, both sophomores, hit a steady scoring streak early in the campaign and both should make strong bids for the varsity berth next season.

Larry Art Baron, although competing in only half the games, pressed the leaders with 125 points. Baron’s smooth passing and hawk-eye should be an asset to the graduation-ranked riddlers of the varsity in the near future.

Variety of Ballads Captivates Audience At 'Lantern' Benefit

by Clara Hamm '52

From the first few notes of "Barbara Allen," everyone who attended the Lantern program featuring Mr. Howard Lee last Tuesday night realized that he was about to hear something really outstanding. Mr. Lee more than lived up to his advance publicity; he completely captivated his audience.

Although Mr. Lee claims to "have no voice," whatever it is that he does have is perfectly adapted to singing folk songs. He displayed his ability to sing in many dialects and to change from a song in one dialect to a song in another without the least difficulty. In response to a request, he even sang a Russian folk song. Mr. Lee's perception of folk songs, which he is often so affected by his singing. His quiet, unassuming manner and his appearance were quite surprising to some of the audience, who expected a more flamboyant performer. Lee's excellent voice and pleasant personality are a very easy-to-listen-to combination.

However, this is just one facet of the program. Mr. Lee sang some of his own favorites, including English, Scotch, and American folk audio as well as a few cowboy songs. Most of the audience greatly enjoyed his versions of Navy songs from the Pacific area, especially one called "Got Those One-Stripe Blues." When Mr. Lee asked for requests, he was immediately bombarded from all sides. So sang as many possible of the songs requested except for a few which he considered inappropriate.

"Sweet Molly Malone" and "The Golden Willow Tree" were two of the most popular selections. He sang such favorites as "The Blue-tail Fly" and "Galway Bay." As he concluded with "The Cranberry Song," the audience showed by its applause that it considered Mr. Lee a really first-class entertainer.

to let off steam." The best example of this definition is perhaps found in the use of the arts in the field of occupational therapy. Third, art is the substitute for weakening, institutionalized religion. Yet art can flourish only so long as religion is alive. Finally, and most important, art is language and, as such, tries to say something which cannot be uttered in everyday conversation.

To demonstrate the apparent parallelism between art and language, Dr. Graeffe broke down a noun into its four component parts, namely: subject, predicate object and adverbial clause. In art the subject would be termed the artistic part, the subject matter—the substance or principle of which the artist attempts to portray. The predicate would be the medium or the technique which the artist employs in order to attain his subject matter. The object would be known in the language of the artist as the form, or the unity and impressiveness of the work. And the adverbial clause would find its equivalent in the particular style under which the artist's work would be classified.

When the last part of the music was very little attention to style, rather, he devotes all his energies to developing subject matter.
