There comes a time in the lives of the most industrious individu- als to adjourn the tasks of labor and relax. That time has come for two of the hand-working heads of the Weekly staff. Ray Warner, 50, editing editor and business manager, is handing over his black punch and green eyeshade to Betty Leeming '50, who succeeds him in the editorial chair. The new editor-in-chief is on the shoulder of Robert Wanner '51, who has been chosen business manager, and Jean Rinear '51 has replaced Mary Ruth Muffley in the editorial.
The Engagement of Miss Carolyn Warren '40, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Warren of Haddonfield, N. J., to James Weaver '47 of Scottdale, who will take place on Saturday night at the Omega Chi sorority dinner.
The Reporter's Lament

When things look bleak and cares weigh light,
You feel your bones beneath you creek,
Just cast yourself and heave a sigh.
All the worst is left for me
Cause I'm a Weekly refugee!

When your working has ended hard all day
And can't make ends meet any way
Just heave a sigh and pity me.
For I'm in Weekly slavery!

No matter how the cards should fall
No matter what should over me fall
I'll never even look to see;
For it could end this third degree.

At night I pray that some great plague
Will find me and invade my leg;
For then I would not have to be
So much in Weekly slavery.

When the table I embark,
I feel within a hopscotch spark—
Perhaps I'll eat a poisoned pea
And that should end my misery.

Although I love my comfy bed,
I'd rather be at sea instead—
For should a hearty typhoon come,
I'd maybe with the angels in.

And then I'd show my mazy hooch
How much I'd do at any cost
Though none in that office be—
The one whose sign says The Weekly.

Last week's report focused on the college man—"a reasonable, serious-minded young man, particular about his appearance, who keeps his hair neatly trimmed, wears clean linen, faintly scented cologne, shaves his shoes, and eschews the canvas-corded, tumble-down socks, gaudily painted finger tips, hand drinking and bad manners. He has higher purposes and ideas, does better and more scholastic work, and lives by a higher and nobler code than any of his predecessors."

This week's report delves into the world of fashion design, and how it has evolved over the years. The author, a partial student of the finest colleges and universities, has conducted a poll of over three hundred deans and college officials, who have been interviewed on the current trends in men's fashion.

The report notes that the college man is now sporting a new look, with trends like the switch to the cigar. Lusty men enjoy quantitatively and qualitatively a choice meal, a hearty drink, and a Louise. He has higher purposes and ideas, does better and more scholastic work, and lives by a higher and nobler code than any of his predecessors.

The report concludes with a call to action, urging the college man to embrace the new look and be proud of his appearance. As the author states, "And that should end my misery."
Ursinus Bows 80-46; Kennedy Sets Record

A visiting Ursinus track team Wednesday romped over Bryn Mawr 15-2 last Thursday on Palmer Field. Behind the excellent pitching of B. J. Moyer, the folders had an easy game. "Moe" allowed only three hits, all of which occurred in the last two innings, issued no walks and struck out nine of the Mawr batters. Highlights of the game was a home run by M. Spence in the fifth inning with three on. "Spence" also drove in three more runs with a three bagger earlier in the game.

The Belles garnered only one run in the last three innings to make their total 15 runs. Bryn Mawr got their two runs on a pair of safeties by Helen Williams and Nanie Cohen, and two errors by Ursinus outfields.

Bearettes Win 15-2 In Three Hit Game Against Bryn Mawr

The Bearettes' softball team romped over Bryn Mawr 15-2 last Thursday. At the Faculty Room of the Library on Thursday, April 28, to discuss the topic of training rules at Ursinus College. The Director of Athletics, coaches of the various squads, team representatives, and members of different student organizations composed the group which had accepted the invitation to assemble there on this particular evening.

It was Dave Monjar who engineered the affair, did the inviting, and secured permission to have it. Moved to action by various student discussions, Dave felt that such a group should get together and work out some situation.

It could scarcely be expected that own which would govern all sports, any hard and fast rules could be laid down which would govern all sports, since each individual type of sport requires a different amount of training. This amount is known, both to the coach and to the players. But there is a violation of this standard it is readily seen in the brand of ball the offender plays. It is even more evident to the coach who knows how much the average player can be expected to do. It is his responsibility to talk to the man individually and get the matter straightened out.

Therefore it was impossible for even such a widely diversified body to lay down any concrete rules concerning the training habits of the athletes. Certainly each player realizes the danger of drinking or smoking to excess and the obligation which he has to the coach, to the other players, to the spectators, and to himself.

However, the meeting was anything but a failure. The primary objective was accomplished by stimulating thought which would be carried back to bull sessions throughout the school. It will therefore receive the attention of those involved and will real­ly that they are being criticized for their infractions and should try to correct this situation. In addition it proved to the coaches that there is a real interest in the activities of their squad.

Most important, however, it showed that students and faculty members can meet and discuss matters openly and voice their opinions intelligently. The bar­rier between the two was non existent at this meeting and both were able to benefit from the discussion.

Bears Trip F&M 7-3 As Stauffer Hurls

by Nels Fellman '52

The Ursinus baseball team turned on its best winning form last Wednesday to defeat Franklin & Marshall, as Ira Thomas, Philadelphia Athletic's scout, looked on from the stands. Frank and Marshall drew first blood, scoring two in the first frame on Ed Petteleger's two run double and one in the second before a Baron to Hallager twin killing ended the visitor's scoring.

From here on it was all Ursinus. Timely hitting coupled with expert pitching by Don Stauffer enabled the local victory. The home team countered once more in the second inning, without the aid of a hit, and tied it up in the fourth when Dick Cherry delivered with a bases-loaded single. Two singles, a walk, an error, and a runner added together to produce three more runs in the sixth.

Doug Leander ended the day's scoring with a booming home run right center in the seventh inning. Leander's round-tripper was the first four-ply blow for the locals thus far in the season.

To back up his teammates' run scoring, Stauffer pitched a brilliant ball and retired eleven men in order from the fifth to the ninth inning.

Freshmen Produce Atmosphere
With Moonlight Mood Props

Approximately fifty couples attended the first dance given by this year's freshman class last Friday evening. Sweet music, beautifully arranged decorations, a cool breeze, and even a brief blackout caused by a power failure during a thunderclap combined to make the evening a memorable one for all present.

The "Moonlight Mood" was cleverly achieved through carefully planned decorations. A blue-and-white theme, highlighted here and there by sparkling stars and a glittering moon, completely transformed the old T-G gymnasium.

Refreshments included punch, soft drinks, pretzels, and cookies.

Once the idea gets under way it is self-perpetuating. The money belongs to no one individual, but to the whole student body as long as they matriculate here. The only compulsion to return the money is your sense of honor to yourself and your fellow students. For if you do not, it means someone else will not be able to borrow that five when he needs it.

At Ohio State University a similar plan was working since 1947, $3500 has been borrowed and only five dollars lost. If the plan can work at a large university, it certainly can work here even better. Securing five dollars without red tape alleviates borrowing from friends. Its impersonal nature is one of its great features.

He then went on to praise the British national health service, which "takes care of a British beginning in conception, but not going quite to resurrection.

Defending the actions of the Labour Party, Mr. Champin pointed out that only eight million working six days were lost due to strikes and walk-outs since World War II in comparison to 1917.7,000,000 before the First World War. He reminded his audience that the Labour Party had broken all records in Britain in 1923, but the Labour government in 1931 was out of power. He claimed that the Labour Party was now working majority.

Mr. Champin pointed out to the student members of the audience that there have been signs in the weeks passing to the young people of America. We have a great responsibility to both our own country and the rest of the world, for the future of the world will depend in no small way on the future actions of American citizens.
