by Jane Brashch ‘47

The outstanding performance of the cast of "Ten Little Indians" presented Saturday evening in Thompson Auditorium was due to the audience in complete suspension throughout the play. The drama, written by Agatha Christie. Murder and uncertainty were the keynote. The story is the story of ten strangers who gather for a weekend together in an outlying of the island off the coast of England. Each one of these strangers is never sure, when he is in the living room, an eerie voice, seemingly coming from somewhere in the house, accosts each of the characters with the question "Who is going to kill you?" and none ever knows who will be the next victim. The storm which had been raging all day, became more violent in the evening. Suddenly the lights go out, and it is not until 10 minutes later, that Professor Lawrence Wargrove (John Ul- 6) appears on the scene with a loaded shotgun. Shortly, an old man is found with a knife in his back. Next morning is found lying dead in her cell. General Mackenzie (Ruthie L. Babcock ‘48), a man who murdered his wife and now is missing, is found with a revolver in his hand. Mrs. Emily Brent (Marian K. ‘49), who is a cook, thereby faints, and a knife is removed from her back. Suddenly, Mr. Wargrove, who is thought to be dead, walks into the room, telling the group that it was he who killed Mrs. Brent. He then is found dead, and the story ends happily. Mrs. Collins’ (Suzanne B. ’47), who is a nurse, has been playing the guitar in her room and is found dead. Then the story ends happily and the remaining six children are safe.

A Word from the Y's

If your alarm isn't working and you're going to sleep without setting it, you'd better make amends; because there are new things in chimes. In Italy they have a religious atmosphere in chapel. You don't have to go to a religious atmosphere. The noise of the church bells are audible and pleasant. Why not make your house a schoolhouse? The doors of the house are the church doors. The noise of the bells is audible and pleasant. Why not make your house a schoolhouse if the treatement of the child is pleasant.

John A. Carpenter, Indiana University, has been appointed as Director of Religious Education, D. L. Chandler on Friday afternoon and described the work of the Consumer Service Committee. She had many words of appreciation for the contributions of the students and the workers of the Service Committee.

JERRY SEEDERS
Mr. Jerry Seeders will coach the Ursinus 1946 quintet as they try for their second consecutive conference championship. He succeeds Emil Messikomer, who has gone to West Chester State Teachers College to undertake a position similar to the one he held at Ursinus.

The new mentor is well known in these parts having played at Penn in 1938, 1939, and 1940, captaining the Red and Blue in his senior year. At present he is playing with the Norristown entry in the Main Line League. Seeders will serve only as coach of the basketball team, and not as a member of the physical education department as has been the custom for past hardwood coaches.

Despite the fact that the game was played in almost complete darkness, the students of Penn have been reminded of the two 2-0 victories, the Penn Jayvees 2-2 on November 29 to close their season undefeated. Penn tallied twice in the first half and, with a feisty defense, held off the strong attack field. It looked almost impossible for the Jayvees to break through the defense to send the ball into the corner for a goal. Fighting hard to remain undefeated, Nat’s Jayvees remained on the offensive for the last half of the game, but the Penn men held on for the remaining 10 minutes of the game.

ERMA KEYES

The graduation of Erma Keyes will be a loss to the girls' basketball team. For four years Erma has contributed to the game and has more than once relied on her ability to roll them through a tight spot. Erma started her athletic activities at Bryn Mawr High School where she was on the varsity for several years. She remained on the class softball team.

Erma Keyes continued her interest in sports and has succeeded in becoming Miss Smith's most valuable athlete. Last year Erma was awarded the WAA metal as the junior girl who had made outstanding contributions in the field of sports. This fall Erma ended her third year as a member of the girls' varsity hockey team. Her outstanding ability was recognized when she was chosen as right wing on the All-College team. Erma played on the JV bas-senior year. Erma is one of Erna's best played for the team and when Ern is in the box, no one can do much for the team. Last year she played on the 1947 team, also a National Champions. Her sports are not only the part of Erna's contribution to the team.

Twelve Ursinus Students Are Honored
By Selection for Collegiate Who's Who

by Mary E. Flahy '48

Twelve outstanding members of Ursinus have been chosen to represent the college in the 1946-47 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, the official annual directory of distinguished students selected from higher educational institutions throughout America. The work of this society functions in several vital capacities: as an incentive for students to get the best results from their collegiate experience; as a means of remuneration to students for what they have already achieved; as a standard of measurement for students comparable to other recognized scholastic and service organizations; and as a recommendation of successful students to the business world.

In selecting the persons for the Who's Who, the procedure followed at Ursinus is the same as that which has been carried on for the past twenty years. Every student in the college is asked to list the courses which he has completed successfully; lists are compiled to determine the scholastic qualifications of all students. The following qualities have been given this honor. A math major aspiring to enter an accounting firm.

Fred Tischler as an extremely nervous nerve specialist; Robert Hitchcock as the old general who seemed to live in the past; Jack Norman as a nervous, fearful private detective; Robert Quay as the young playboy; Vanry Tilton and William Lambie as the funny cocktail cook and the formal waiter, respectively, and James Weaver as captain of the ship which brought the guests to the island, all are to be commended for their excellence in support roles.

The individual character portrayals together with outstanding make-up, costume, and direction by Charles Taylor '47, made "Ten Little Indians" one of the best plays given at Ursinus in recent years.
