The lawyer and his son, having recovered from their fright, were about many of his kind, he was inclined to to return to the shore, when Jack appeared. At the sight of the trunk the two grew pale as ashes. "I will trouble you both to leave my premises," cooly observed Jack. "I happen to have here the will which you, Brad, stole and hid away, and you, Mr. Belchers," turning to the law ver, "intended to burn."

What could be said to such an accusation? Mr. Belchers stammered something about a mistake and hurriedly departed.

"I suppose now you've got the whip hand you'll pay us off in-in our own coin," doggedly remarked Brad, who had lingered behind. "What do you mean?" asked Jack.

"Why, shove us into state prison." "I shall do nothing of the kind," firmly returned Jack, "though you both richly deserve it. No one but Uncle Sol Maxwell and I know what you have done, and I don't intend any Russia's Unfortunate Serfs.

One cause of the failure of the former serfs of Russia to become prosperous farmers is a bad system of land holdings. A peasant can only occupy his holding for four years. Then he has to exchange with some other farmer. This is intended to prevent land from running down, the theory being that if land gets a bad owner for "I knew the house would be ran- one four years it will be likely to get sacked, and I didn't want to carry it a good owner for the next four years. Measuring Cattle for Weight

There is no exact method of estimating the weight of cattle by measurement; but, an approximation may be made in this way. The rule is used by English graziers: Take the length to the root of the tail. Square the girth in inches, that is, multiply the number of inches by itself and multiply this by the inches in length. Divide the sum by 7250 and multiply Mr. Belchers pretended to hesitate. the dividend by fourteen. This gives the weight in pounds. If not divided by fourteen the weight is given in stones," a common weight used by English cattlemen. Thus, if an ox is Sol opened his mouth to yell when five feet in length and seven inches eighty-four) is 423,360, divide by 7250 leaves 58x14, gives 812. This estimate may be correct for a squarebodied, fat animal, but it is impossible heavily on Mr. Belchers' head and to give any rule for measuring thin, bony, lanky beasts .- New York Times.

His Name is Legion.

The oyster of America is a most wonderfully prolific animal. In his book on oysters, Prof. William K. Brooks of Johns Hopkins University says that if all the oyster eggs deposited in Chesepeake Bay were to be fertilized and were to live and grow to maturity, they would fill up the entire bay in a single season. An average Maryland oyster of good size, he goes on to say, lays about sixteen million eggs; and, if half of these were to develope into female oysters, we should have, from a single female descendant in the first generation, and in the second eight million times eight million, or 64,000,- 000,000,000. In the third generation we should have eight million times this, or 512,-000,000,000,000,000,000.

In the fourth, 4,096,000,000,000,000,-000,000,000,000. In the fifth, 33,000,000,000,000,000, 000,000,000,000,000,000 female oysters, and as many males, or in all, 66,000, 000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,

Now, if each oyster fill eight cubic inches of space, it would take 8,000,-000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 to make a mass as large as the earth; and the fifth generation of descendants from a single female oyster would make more than eight worlds, n, dec'd.

Strange as it may seem there are still 1,200 school districts in the State that only maintain schools the minimum term of six months. Superintendent Waller wants the term increased to eight months in every district, in the year beginning June 1892, and to this end has issued a circular asking if Austria-Hungary were either premathere are particular reasons for the continuance of the short term policy in any case, and what the reasons are, adding that as the State has generous- tance of our invitation. ly increased the school appropriation to $5,000,000 every boy and girl in the Commonwealth of legal school age should have the privilege of a continuous school term of eight months, tion is unauthorized by law. This is about onefifth of the duties collected upon sugar under the old tariff, and it all comes out of the taxpayers, as the duty came out of consumers. The McKinley school of tariff taxers and bounty advocates, having twisted the tariff tax into a bounty tax should now proceed on a basis of equality and place a bounty, for the benefit of the farmers, on every bushel of wheat, corn, oats, and potatoes, and upon every other product of the soil. The farmers are as good, and deserve bounty as much, as the sugar raisers, we presume! Upon the same principle logically carried out the Government should pay a bonus to all its citizens at the expense of its citizens. That is, it should first collect taxes and then distribute the amounts raised by taxation among the taxpayers. This would give a vast amount of official employment—all at the expense of the taxpayers-taxed alone for the glory of being taxed and for the glory of a barbarous system of taxation.

Our newly made roads are in bad shape since the recent rains. It is a surprising fact that in this age of progress we make our roads, as a rulewith the exception of the road machine-the same as they did fifty years ago. The farmer whose manure is insufficient to cover the whole field, takes what he has and puts it on the poor spots and thereby equalizes the fertility of the soil. Why not exercise the same reason, economy and common-sense in regard to our roads? mize its roads, then select those sections that really need repairing and bestow double the time and labor that is usually done there, and on pieces of road where no repairing is actually needed "let good enough alone." To mend a road where and when it is necessary would be the first step in the line of progress.

Here where the gray tide of rebellion surged up against the rock of loyalty and rolled back, shivered and shattered, Potomacward, a L. H. Ingram, auct. J. M. Zimmerman, clerk. memorial tablet has been erected to designate the "High Water Mark of DUBLIC SALE OF the Rebellion." On Thursday, June 2, it will be dedicated with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a great number of veteran soldiers and distinguished men from all over the country. To facilitate access to the historic field the Reading Railroad will sell round trip tickets to Gettysburg from all points between Philadelphia to Mahanoy City, inclusive, (via the Main Line and Williamsport Divisions) at the low rate of a single fare for the round trip. These tickets will be on sale June 1st and 2d, and will be good for the return trip until June 4th inclusive. This affords an uncommonly favorable opportunity for a visit to one of the greatest of the world's battlefields.

HOW NEWS GROWS.

From London News.

A Scarborough clergyman on opening his newspaper the other day found therein an utterly unfounded state ment to the effect that his consort had presented him with triplets. He imthe event had been described by one neighbor to another as "an addition of three to the minister's family;" by the natural law of evolution that was transformed into a case of triplets, and a local correspondent getting hold of the story sent it in that form to the newspaper.

Finding out this fact, they are going into something else. Sheep Subscribe for the PROVI- raising is now the attraction and the shiftless are now rushing into sheep. -Jersey Bulletin.

The result of a chemical analysis made at the Agricultural Department at Washington, D. C., by the United worth of your money and States chemist, shows the nutritive value of corn cobs alone to be 41.52 per cent., and containing the same the bargain by subscribing form of nutritive matter as is found in a large per cent. of our best grains and nothing whatever of an in-

Nature always works on general rules, and in the dairy cow supplies a large nervous power which we denominate temperament. The beef cow does not have this nervous power or temperament, but has a sluggish, lymphatic one instead. Do not mate these types, excepting to get dairy cows. If you do you will fail .- Gov.

With smaller seeds it is sometimes necessary to sow thickly, so that the combined force of several plantlets may act together to help themselves through to the surface. In such a case the surplus plants are easily removed when they are an inch or so moved when they are an inch or so paid for calves. high, and a more perfect and even stand is secured than could have been done by less seed.

Do not try to do too much. It is quite possible by skillful cultivation to make a single acre of small fruits produce a couple of hundred dollars, but it is not at all likely that the same man would make ten acres produce two thousand dollars. It is an almost invincible rule that as the area cultivated increases the average profit hulled when harvested. That is, the hull comes off when the berry is picked, giving the large end of the berry the appearence of a red raspberry, the stem being left on the vines. It should prove an excellent kind for family use, as it may not be suit-

The question of the growing of artichokes is again brought before the public by the success of an Iowa farmer, who fed them not only to his hogs but also to his horses. He used of the number of eggs their guinea them as a horse feed. We suspect, hens have laid in a year? If so let us however, that most of our farmers will be a little shy in experimenting with An English gardener who has had a crop that is so hard to eradicate

The question is not how to increase Under this plan his beds are not in- to substitute for the inferior cows animals of first-class capacity. If all the poor milkers of any State were to be substituted by good milkers, the money returns to the farmers of that were not aware of this; neither freezing point as possible without State would be doubled and the profits freezing them. This will prevent any trebled-in some cases quadrupled. As the cows are improved the proportionate gain is not so much in the total receipts as in the profits.

Milk can be easily tested for foreign taints by heating a small quantity to a temperature of 110 or 115 degrees. At this temperature it will be very easy for the average nose to tell what, if anything, is the matter with the milk. Milk tested in this way will reveal the hog pen, the cow stable, filthy cans and various other taints.

STEAM -- HEATING!

The Superiority of STEAM in comparison with the OLD METHODS OF HEATING cannot be questioned, for twice as much heat can be obtained from the same amount of fuel than can be had from the old way of stove heating. Then another very important consideration is that all the dust and dirt, incident to burning coal, can be confined to a portion of the cellar instead of floating about all the rooms in the house. Steam Heating has come to stay. Do you wish to secure its advantages?

If you do, you are heading directly towards our line of business, and we want your order. We can supply you with just what you want, guarantee you satisfaction, and give you full worth of your money. We have placed a number of Steam Heaters and in every instance our work has proved satisfactory. Call on or address
