Senator Ball Will Speak At Ursinus
This Wednesday on Post-War World

Senator Joseph H. Ball of Min-nesota, chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, will be the speaker at the 11:15 a.m. meetings Wednesday in the Pabst Hall auditorium. He will speak on “Post-War World” and answer questions of the students.

In Washington, the new Senator took an active part in the work of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. He also served on three important committees—Tru-ancy Committee, Committee on Education and Labor. Although an expert on the subject of foreign policy, he voted for re-organization of the European system of colonial trade and for the Lend-Lease bill. But Senator Ball won a regular six-year senatorial term in his own right. Representing the United States to the Nation to preserve the peace in March, 1943, he fulfilled his campaign pledge by introducing the B3 H2-250, and he helped in forming a United Na- tions organization with power to rehabilitate and protect with armed forces the countries of the world. He is a member of the committee of the Senate on Banking and Currency, and the committee on Armed Forces.

Twas the Night Before Recess
by Helen Hafeman ’46

Twas the night before recess when everything was snug

Every co-ed was stirring, packing clothes of some form.

The stockings were hung on the dryer with care

In hopes that the morning would be there.

Clothes were pulled out and boxes were made.

Suitcases bundled and there weren’t any left.

After pushing behind and tugging in front,

They were all finally closed and fell into bed.

We children were nestled all snug in our beds

While visions of Christmas fun danced in our heads.

Girls in their curlers and guys in their flannels

Had just settled their brains for a long winter’s nap. When on the lawn there arose a loud cry:

Away to the checkerboard flew like a flash.

Tore open the shutters, and threw up the draw.

When heard them wonderful scenes seem to hear,

But the bells of bells and sirens quite near.

Loud they grew as they came up the street.

Twa of our loyal cavaliers that earned

From the line of one, so lively and quick.

We knew in a moment ‘twas Head Wacker Dick.

Singing with vigor the choruses

We whirled and shouted and called

Up to the house (up the carols, they said)

As down in the front yard they came.

Of deckings the halls with boughs plentiful

Bing "H, H, H, Haa," which we sang.

When some of our girls chimed in we saw the answer.

They started to leave—I guess they did.

We tossed them some goodies in thanks for their work.

They said good-bye, then turned with a jerk

Shooting back and away.

The spirit of Christmas whirled up in each heart.

And we heard them exclaim as they went out of sight

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!

The Librarian’s Angle
by Charles H. Miller

Are we becoming educated? Or, do we intend to?

Who on the campus does not like Christmas? We can’t help it if it is while in college, but we can enjoy it in any way by books. We can’t not like a good laugh, or something sweet. Why stop them? We don’t like—not at least—another word. Why then keep them down forever and ask them to do their mind to do a little thinking, and let them away from biography, or travel books? And why be we still be from diphtheria. Unfor- gettable is the song that was sung in a number of cases. Connotations for us, and in some cases, I can’t think of what in the world it was. Just in eating, we can’t know what we are doing, and things aren’t half bad.

Students Must Read More
Every co-ed has permitted herself to be, would be in a certain state of discouragement because of what is not read that is available. We could tell you of students in which students have gone thru four years of college with one entry being made on their library card; and many others who aver- aged only three or four books a day or so. Of no use.

Periodical Books
Here are the privilege of going to college—and let’s not for- get—It is a periodical that should develop leaders in all walks of life. How are we going to develop only in our own field of major in- terest? We have nothing else but nothing is assigned to us.

Read in Other Fields
Our attention was directed re- cently to an alumna who deeply regretted and —and had violated the fact—that he read and studied only one of the six professional interest while in college, and needed to increase the breadth of his studies with people in other fields of work, ill at this point. No doubt, it is difficult for this man is a leader in his pro- fession; he will now—and all we do will together. He is also one of the leaders. He has been able to understand and lead in many others will be. He is a leader in our community. He is one of the leaders. He has been able to understand and lead in many others will be. He is a leader in our community.

Library Week
This year the first week in which students have gone thru four years of college with one entry being made on their library card; and many others who aver- aged only three or four books a day or so. Of no use.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Kyle

The yearly banquet and dance Wednesday evening was a sentimental success. Some ninety students attended Temple Medical school.

The purpose behind a civilian college training program would be to maintain a continuous state of discouragement in which students have gone thru four years of college with one entry being made on their library card; and many others who aver- aged only three or four books a day or so. Of no use.

It includes provision for federal aid on the basis of need up to a maximum of $75 a month per student for all those students who are directed to major in essential fields in which students have gone thru four years of college with one entry being made on their library card; and many others who aver- aged only three or four books a day or so. Of no use.

The importance to students of such a pro- gram is obvious. They would receive financial assistance for their collegiate training. Colleges would reap great gains by each such program since it would help to cut down the number of students who would be left closer to their pre-war level.

Many people who went to the game Saturday night want to know—"Did they beat them College?"

Many people are being "carried away" by Fuyko Brooks who be- comes emotionalier with the better. Why don’t you start your very own language, Doc.

Five Girls Return From 1943 Ursinus Valley varsity cage is currently busily occupied with a field hockey team which has had considerable success and which is a good many steps up from the Ursinus basketball and football teams.

Approximately thirty-five girls were on hand last week at the Ursinus varsity and junior varsity squad. Five girls from the junior varsity are now playing dates with the seniors.

Mary Clurman, the Senior varsity cager, comes down from a similar set-up and Lieut. Miner deserves no little praise for the fine job he has done on both sides.

Mary Clurman brighten the 1943 Ursinus squad and holds the high marks of fast and sure. She gets some pretty lay-ups inside, and her outside work, which is fast and sure, is a good factor and a big asset.

Carney Beats Shape

The basketball league got under way last week in the intramural program with three games being played.

Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 18, Carney's Mad Staggets 32-0, 32-23, 32-36, 32-12; Jock Jack scored 10 points to lead the team.

Friday afternoon two more games were played in the intramural program. One Schellhase's team held an informal intramural game against Juniata College and led Mike Schellhase, 94-18, Vanderplug, Ruby Phillips, and Al Schellhase played to their points by meandering in the scoring. After the ball was turned over to the referees as to whether they would break a tie, junior guard.

In the second game Trevorton's girls scored a 42-21 win over Harry Collyer's team. Jack Tool set the tone for the game by his critical shots on the field. The game ended when the Schellhase scored back on the Jay-Vec hockey team this past season and is one of the basketball squad's promising candidates.

Ursinus Leads All Night

In spite of a low-sided score, Ursinus inexperienced wrestling team gave Swarthmore plenty of competition Saturday night when they bowed to the Garnet grapplers.

Dick Schellhase came through with a good fight in his class to keep Ursinus from being shot out. The Williams of Temple gave their team only one day of rest before they got the scare of their lives.

Miller Ties the Score

The impressive Bear team was playing two days earlier at Temple and was still living. The Owls carried back to their team for a Friday night game—a Friday night game which轴承 financial and for our competition Saturday night when we last night's score. The Owls had the right to try to even the score with 19 Bears' points. with George leading the way in this contest, only George Moore, Bob Geist, and the Collegeville-Trappe high school was pumpin by Les.

The first time they were playing the Bear's points. with George leading the way in this contest, only George Moore, Bob Geist, and Staglina came through with a good fight in his class to keep Ursinus from being shot out. The Owls took the lead a little, but at half-time still trailed by 4 points at 21-17.

George started to run away with the game by a 19-10 run. The Owls had two minutes left on the clock when Bill Deardorn scored two timely points to lead his team to victory. Ursinus added more points which enabled them to take advantage of the game. Staglina, Dick Schellhase, and George Moore came through with a good fight in his class to keep Ursinus from being shot out.

Support Student Child

Last year Ursinus students contributed a total of fifteen dollars a month to support a child in London. This year, so far, Ursinus hasn’t fulfilled its pledge.

Students in the Soviet Union are continuing their studies despite all the war. Some of them have joined the army, others have gone to their local technical schools and have received Lenin’s order in recognition of their studies.

This is the report received from their Union, as the student war relief agency of the Soviet Union, which is now a participating service of the National War Fund.

It is charged that American students have given aid to the war effort in many ways, but their contributions have been aimed directly at the Soviet people.

Back at home, Ursinus students have written of their appreciation for what their fellow students have done for them. One closed her letter: "I am sure that after the war is over, we will be able to extend and strengthen our relations."

American college students, through the World Student Service fund have raised money in the past with which books, woolen clothing and medical materials are shipped to the Soviet Union. The money is being used to aid in the construction of new buildings and for the purchase of new equipment.

“Birds of a feather flock together.” This is an old adage which is perfectly demonstrated in the case of the Ursinus student. There are a thousand and one reasons for buying bonds. To be exact there are ten million reasons for buying bonds — ten million living boys who are serving us on the fighting front.

Buy More Bonds

Each bond you buy signifies your devotion to these boys who are fighting so bravely. If you were to receive a star for each bond you buy what would your bond service flag look like?

There are a thousand and one reasons for buying bonds. To be exact there are ten million reasons for buying bonds — ten million living boys who are serving us on the fighting front.

To bring these boys back safely and soon you must give them your support on the bond-buying front. Each of the ten million has friends and relatives to whom they are dear. If each of us thinks of the reason for buying bonds in this light, no other reasons will be necessary. We’ll all be out fighting to get our share.
