Dr. Carter instructs Men's Debate Club

In the first part of the debate, Dr. Carter outlined the plans of the American Economic Foundation for international understanding and cooperation, and opposed any form of economic sanctions as a measure to stop the spread of totalitarianism. He argued that such actions would only complicate the situation and lead to further conflict. Carter also pointed out the necessity of proper preparation for the debate and the importance of being well-informed before engaging in any discussion.

Forum's Town Meeting Scheduled Tomorrow

In the style of "The Town Meeting of the Air," the UR summit will unite with the Collegeville dance, but each program will distinguish itself. The topic of tomorrow night's meeting will be "Should We Attract a Diverse Future?

Hundred Attend Y.P.A.

Over fifty couples danced to the music of the nation's best bands at the "Swearer Hall," sponsored by the Selective Service. It was-credentialed in the enrolling reserve corps. Any student who inquires about this connection should consult the office of the registrar.

Students remaining in the dormitories over the Thanksgiving break will be required to go to the registrar's office before noon on Monday.

We note with interest that Joyce Morrow has been seeing Peg Hushon recently. What for, though? The folk who went in to see "Holiday Inn" last Saturday say it was quite good, almost as good as the one P. F. and Bill Parent put on in the box on the way back. Jim Richards and Betty Harrison are seen together a good deal of late.

Famous Red Faces

Rickey Hendricks, in another age when he picked up a paper and began to read, might have been a great baseball player. As it was, he did all he could be the moonlight. Mrs. Schlaybach’s the other night after she called upstairs for Rickey when Walt Ort wanted Bottie Olson. So John Fisher's on Saturday when everyone was invited to meet with Walt Beadling has received comparatively little note, the alpha sigmas upon subjugated people and prisoners of war, nor do we condemn this ruthless behavior, it is the part of our enemies.

Thus it seems. Even after we have won the war, we shall want to exact some sort of revenge. Thereafter, we shall want to say things like "You would like to pay them back in kind; others would deem it advisable to clip their wings, by forcing them into a situation, shall just upon partition of their territory to the ultimate end that they will be unable to do such a thing. The whole theme is a threat to the peace and security of the world; still others would reduce these countries through tariffs and embarrassments to such an extent that they would perish as economic entities. All these operations re sult in economic conditions, as we have just said, are methods of extirpation; i.e., to rid ourselves of our enemies, we must cut it out and destroy it altogether.

We need not remind you that these methods have been tried repeatedly in the past, and what has been the result?—wars and more wars. Every time we have attempted to make a peace, we have incurred the hate of the defeated nations and sown the seeds for further hostilities. The whole system of reducing the defeated powers is conducive to amicable relations among nations, Does it seem then logical that we could gain what we want by ever-increasing and hanging hands with them rather than by confronting them? Above all, we should be content with that found in a dirty from the days of melodrama, "She was more to be pitied than censured."

Of course, the first method suggested—that of extermination—raises the question. Also, the nations will have to decide whether they wish to integrate their governments, without having to invent the methods of doing it. The United States may pay off an indemnity at the same time. It is clear that the United States will be the world’s only possible security for the students of fourteen countries.

Student war relief is the special field of the American college student and professor. The World Student Service Fund is addressing itself to the students of fourteen countries. If the universities fail in the relief of students as students, who can be expected to be conscious for them? We ask you as students and faculty of Ursinus to rise and help pay the costs involved.

Very sincerely yours,

New York City

As a Man Sees It

It has now been more than a week since this year's football season came to its close. It was something of a mad bang. Since that time, little has been heard from the players. It's over.

As First Time comes to an end, our men are now thinking of the next season. Don't let us be in the dark. Have our players been playing the game as they should? Have they been keeping the college in the right order? Has anyone been caught short? If so, what has happened and how can we prevent it in the future?

It's one of those things. No one can make non-sense earners buy bonds, but no one should have to compel college students to do a smart thing.

FORGET AND FORGIVE

In every period of war there is attendant a certain amount of hatred and ill-feeling between the opposing peoples. This war is no exception. We have read of the atrocities imposed by the Axis powers upon the innocent people and pris­ sons of war, nor do we condemn this ruthless behavior, it is the part of our enemies.

Thus it seems. Even after we have won the war, we shall want to exact some sort of revenge. Thereafter, we shall want to say things like "You would like to pay them back in kind; others would deem it advisable to clip their wings, by forcing them into a situation, shall just upon partition of their territory to the ultimate end that they will be unable to do such a thing. Intra Giants Shellac Redskins 32-0
While Packers Trample Bears 20-7

John Rorer, Sparky
Director of Gridiron

Striking third by hand and twice thru the oars, the Giants almost erased the chances of the Redskins gaining the 150 point lead in their league last Monday by hanging a 32-0 shellacking on Kid’s kid.

Led by the John Rorer, who ripped tackle for one score and tossed aerials to end George Miller for another pair, the Giants were never in danger. As though Rorer’s efforts weren’t enough, Archie Simons and Leo Carusso (making his football debut) also each punched for markers.

Len Keoda couldn’t quite rally his charges to meet the unexpected opposition, however, tackle Webb looked good on defense and Len Glenn was running, often under very uneven conditions, was little short of marvelous.

Off to a quick start the Giants climaxed a terrific touchdown drive when Archie Simons circled end from the 36 to score untouched shorty before the close of the first quarter. This extra point was no good.

During the second half of Bob, a hard-charging Giant forward wall led by Rorer and Keeda, Miller completely stifled any defensive move from thetrigger, and manage. Then, just for practice. The Giants rolled down the field once more with Rorer punishing the opposing line and registering the score on a four-yard option.

Shortly after the second half opened Rorer rumbled a twenty-yard heavy to George Miller who took the ball in and on for four points. This time Corzatta hit for the extra point.

The last quarter saw two more Giant touchdowns. The Secretary struggled ten yards for one and seconds later O. Miller hauled in the second on a twenty-yard touchdown pass from Rorer.

Intramural Registration
Will End Wednesday

Every male student of Ursinus shoule be registered for the winter intramural program. Set- tings for the basketball season are held with the Pete Stevens expects to receive the schedule for all sports this week as the list includes all the 178 men students. This informa- tion is available. Under the direction of either John Keefe or Fred Becker.

A roster showing each student will be worked up and made available to all. Students who are engaged in work that prevents their participation should indicate their hours of employment on this schedule. Failure to do this will mean that the student is not registered for the Intramural program.

Bear Coaches
End Grid Careers

All of Simons’ grid stars, the two fighting coaches. By Morrow and Murphy, will be the most brilliant. After four years of football for the Red, Old Gold, and Blue, the two are to lose their game against O’-burg on Tuesday afternoon.

Moose” Morrow known as also Evander, a scientist, politician, and general, has been studying the Bears for the last two years and first over Drexel for the last four years for the fresh and three years for the last two. As to wave their career will be remembered.

In Ursinus circles.

The second of the co-coaches and the assistant of the fighting manager, also fought his last game for the Bears against the Gettysburgians. He has been one of the fastest in the various years. Mike was probably one of the most skilled of the athletic careers started in the little Penn- sylvania town of Saxton. Mike looks forward to the armed forces, but hoping for a speedy Allied victory so that he may enter semin- ary, complete his ministerial training, and boxing.

Johnson Views Football Future With Optimism

Acting to ake spikers concerning the possible disappearance of collegiate football from the Twin Cities. Mike Johnson, director of athletics, has issued the following communique:

"If anything cancels in the 1943 intercollegiate schedule it should not be necessary to interpret this erasure to mean that Ursinus is through with football for the duration. It is hoped that all Ursinus students and fans will avoid any near-by colleges may be played in 1943, but the fullness of these means that Ursinus is not out of the running for the first half.

In the second half the team are really started playing. Again Jeanne McDaniel and the beautiful goal by Maxmy Bricker, 1944, Mike is one of the four Ursinus co-eds created a very fine feeling and excitement.

TURMULANT AND SHOUTING DIES;
URSINUS HELD HER OWN THIS YEAR

The 1942 football year here at Ursinus was not a pleasant one. Those who look back would probably agree that the Ursinus football team was the biggest loss for this season, of course, it was the biggest loss for the school. AS A MAN SEES IT

For Gettysburg, of course, that was a case of power coming to the fore. But Gettysburg this year were we to go by scores, amounted to a tie, as the Buckeyes dropped a close game to Bucknell. As a Bucknell then went to Temple. Yes, the boys worked pretty hard this year and in our opinion, it was a fairly successful season and all due credit as the effect the College has its choice, there will be no football next year. "Jim's" statement means that the College administration wants football, and that we will have football "for the duration" unless the government restricts it.

Morrie in large part depends upon retaining little things that we enjoyed before the war. Football is one of those things. It has its place for every student, and the enthusiasm of this season proves that it should be continued as long as Uncle Sam sees fit.

WAR

h a t s the W IRES!

WAR hits telephonic service two ways at once. It piles on a heavy load of calls. And it cuts down the supply of telephonic materials and equipment.

Most Long Distance lines are overloaded on weekdays from 9 A. M. to 12, from 2 P. M. to 5 and from 7 to 9 at night. You can usually avoid telephonic "traffic jams" if you make your calls during other hours. Best time to call home is on Sunday, when lines are less busy and the reduced night rates are in effect all day.

Please keep all calls brief and avoid unnecessary calls. This is especially important around Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.
