Economists Needed For Vital War Jobs

Government Positions: Deal With Basic Problems

Because of the urgent need for economists, economy analysts, and statisticians to fill key positions in the federal government, recruitment embassies have been established in major cities to fill these positions on a nationwide basis. Applications were recently submitted by Dr. Wilson Godshall of Pennsylvania University, and Dr. Merle Middleton of the Ursinus forum on foreign relations.

Apart from his duties as a professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Godshall has also been a member of the United States Senate for a number of years, and he is currently serving in the capacity of ambassador to the United States. He is president of the association of professional economists.

ECONOMISTS NEEDED

While this nation is fighting for its freedom, other nations in the world are suffering from poverty and hunger. The government needs economists who are trained in the fields of business and economics, and who are willing to serve their country. The positions are located in major cities across the United States.

Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree in economics or a related field
- At least one year of experience in economic analysis
- Ability to work under pressure

To apply, please visit the government's website or contact the recruitment embassy in your area. Applications will be reviewed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Additional History Course Requirements

Affecting all students who plan to graduate from the university, new regulations were recently issued by the Department of Public Instruction. These regulations require a basic course in history, geography, and government, as well as a foreign language, to be completed before graduation.

In addition, the university has introduced a new course on the history of the United States and Pennsylvania. This course will be required for all students who plan to graduate from the university.

KITCHEN HEAD FAINLY OPTIMISTIC DESPITE RIGORS OF FOOD SHORTAGE

by Richard Westerl 44

Waiting calmly over the hot food situation, Mr. Harry E. Jones of the University College, reported that he and his family were finding the present rationing of foods tolerable. "We have been able to cope with the situation," he said, "and we feel optimistic about the future." Mr. Jones is the head of the college's kitchen department.

Nor are we likely to find the situation improving any time soon. The government is still rationing foods to ensure that all Americans receive a fair share. It is estimated that the food shortage will continue for at least another year. However, Mr. Jones believes that with careful planning and cooperation, the situation can be improved.

In the meantime, the government is working hard to ensure that the needs of the American people are met. Food rations are being distributed to those who need them, and the government is working to increase the production of food.

We should all do our part to ensure that the situation improves. Let's work together to make sure that all Americans have enough to eat.

Rangers’ Tighten Grasp On Intra League Play

The Rangers are still out in front in the intramural basketball league. Captained by Dave Ziegler, the squad outscored the Snipers on January 12 by the sizable score of 54 to 18. Last week the snipers outscored the Rangers on January 12 by the score of 36 to 24. For the remainder of the season the Rangers can afford to lose only one game.

Since their setback by the Rangers, the Snipers, better known as the “Boogie Girls,” have collected victories in another two games to increase their chances of clinching the championship. Their first victory was over the faculty 38 to 25 and upset the Bombers and Pilots 49 to 16.

The Snipers, who have been slow and steady all season, are sure to emerge as the championshipists of the year. In the other games of the week, the Bombers and Pilots will complete their season by playing the Commandos and Gunners. The Commandos will complete the series against the Bombers and Pilots.

WRESTLING SQUAD VACANCIES OFFER CHANGE FOR NEW MEN

The wrestling squad is faced with the problem of filling the roster to 15 men. The first meet of the season was held in February. As yet no matches have been set, but Coach Stevens is arranging with several colleges, among them Haverford, Temple, and Swarthmore.

The graduation of Dick Arnold and the absence of the three men who will not be in the lineup against the Commandos on Saturday, and the loss of Al Wells and Joe Trojan from the Navy Air Corps leaves few veterans for the season. President Williams, Wyoming prep star, was drafted.

These vacancies are an opportunity for ambitious freshmen to make the team. As the season progresses, the losing and winning factors of the season will be decided. The team will need five victories to win the league season.

Unbeaten Rangers To Play Three Games While Snipers Meet Sailors This Week

Gunnery Will Stack Three-Game Winning Streak In Red-Hot Battle for Third Place

High-scoring Dave Ziegler’s undefeated Rangers, who have set the pace for the second straight week by posting off all comers, will meet the Marines, Engineers, and Commandos on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday to highlight the opening day of the February campaign in intramural basketball.

The Rangers have so far had little trouble in beating the Snipers, Commandos, and Bombers, but perhaps one of the teams can turn the trick this week.

A loss for the Rangers would throw the league race wide open. The up-to-date working Day Study team of Snipers likely to take over the first place. The Snipers, who have five victories to their credit against a single setback at the hands of the league leaders, will meet the Commandos of Tommy Porer in their only contest on Thursday.

Meanwhile, the Gunners will try to make it in a row when they swap shots with the Commandos and the Sailors twice. The Gunners lost their first two games and then began to shoot the works better and have been undefeated ever since.

The Gunners—Commandos meeting of tonight may decide third place in the red-hot intramural league. In addition to meeting the Gunners on Wednesday and again on Thursday, the Sailors are also in the present four-way tie for third place. The Gunners, Commandos, and Marines on Tuesday. The Engineers, fourth team seeking undisputed possession of third place, must outlast the Rangers this week.

In the other games of the week, the Bombers and Torpedoes will fight it out for the cellar on Monday and Tuesday nights, the Sailors and Pilots tussle on Tuesday; the Generals go head to head on Wednesday against the Snipers, Commandos, and Bombers.
