Thursday, May 30, 1894:

A few days ago what was reported as the last annual meeting of the Grand National Alliance of the United States, was held in the Board in which the subject of the great cotton crop in the South was discussed. The meeting was called to order by the Secretary, Mr. Jones, who gave an account of the proceedings of the association since the last annual meeting. The President, Mr. Smith, then addressed the meeting, and in his remarks he said that the cotton crop in the South was one of the finest ever known, and that the prospects for the future were promising.

The Secretary then presented the annual report of the association, which showed a large increase in the membership during the past year. The President then introduced the Treasurer, who gave an account of the financial condition of the association. The meeting then adjourned.

The Grand National Alliance is an association of farmers, artisans, and laborers, organized for the purpose of advancing the interests of the working classes. The association has a large membership, and is regarded as one of the strongest political organizations in the country.

With a touch, impartially tender,

Our hearts are with those who suffer

And with a judgment just,

We find relief and comfort.

Love and tears, for the Blue ;

Waiting the judgment day ;

Under the willow, the Gray.

For the resources of the country, we have

A thousand white troops and a thousand

A thousand white horses, and a thousand

To keep the flag from falling.

A thousand white men, and a thousand

To keep the flag from falling.

To keep the flag from falling.

For the resources of the country, we have

A thousand white troops and a thousand

A thousand white horses, and a thousand

To keep the flag from falling.

For the resources of the country, we have

A thousand white troops and a thousand

A thousand white horses, and a thousand

To keep the flag from falling.

To keep the flag from falling.
Department of Agriculture, accompanied by a Circular.

The following is printed from the original issue of the Circular.

The breeding of thoroughbred stock has always been a popular pastime with men of leisure and means. The industry has been carried on by individuals of different classes; but it is now more and more the work of large organizations, both public and private, and the result is a better breed of stock.
