THE HEART OF A MAID.

by M. H. F. Johnson.

The long involved lines that the West had put between the two girls had never been broken. Yet, there was a little corner in the heart of each that never ceased to beat and never lost its desire to meet. And, in spite of the miles that separated them, the little girls knew that they were only separated by a few years. For, when they were young, they had been used to meet each other, and their hearts had always been so close.

The young girl was happy. She had just received a letter from her sister, and she knew that her sister was well. She had been to the store, and she had bought some pretty trinkets for her sister's birthday. She had also bought some pretty clothes for herself, and she was looking forward to the day when she would be able to wear them.

Her sister, on the other hand, was not so happy. She had been to the store, but she had bought nothing. She was poor, and she had no money to spend. She had been to the store, but she had bought nothing.

The two girls were very different. One was happy, and the other was not. But, they were both young, and they both loved each other. And, in spite of the miles that separated them, they were both thinking of each other, and they were both looking forward to the day when they would be able to meet again.

They had been used to meet each other, and their hearts had always been so close. And, now, they were both thinking of each other, and they were both looking forward to the day when they would be able to meet again. For, they knew that they were only separated by a few years, and that they would be able to meet again, some day.
WASHINGTON LETTER.

June 13, 1904.

Mr. W. C. F., New York, N. Y.

I am very glad you have written, as it affords me an opportunity of expressing my deep gratification at the success of the resolution you have introduced in Congress. The measure is the right one to propose, and I am certain that its adoption will be a great step forward in the men's suffrage movement.

I hope you will be able to secure a large number of signatures to the petition, and that the bill will be passed without delay. The battle is only just beginning, and we must not be discouraged by any temporary setback.

Yours truly,

[Signature]

[Address]
The announcement that tuberculosis is again with us is an anxious one for our health interests. It is not enough to express our regret at the amount of suffering brought about by this disease, but we must do our bit to avoid future fatalities. It is to this end that the Warrener Steam Sanatorium has been erected and is now ready for use. It is a fine building, 200 feet long, with a 15-foot verandah, 20 rooms, and a capacity of 40 patients. The Sanatorium is equipped with all the latest improvements, and the staff is composed of men and women who have been trained for this special kind of work. We are glad to know that the patients are well cared for and that the results obtained are satisfactory. The Warrener Steam Sanatorium is open to all who wish to come and benefit by its facilities. It is located on a spot where the climate is favorable and the surroundings are pleasant. The staff is efficient and the accommodations are comfortable. It is our duty to make use of such resources as are available for the cure of this dreadful scourge. We should do our utmost to prevent the spread of the disease and to give those who are already affected every possible aid. The Warrener Steam Sanatorium is one of the best places for this purpose, and we urge all who can to make use of its facilities.

The strawberry festival of the Shanley College held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe, one of the many events of the Centennial season of the college. The Strawberry Festival was a great success and attracted a large crowd of people. The strawberries were of the best quality, and the festival was joined by all who were present. The Strawberry Festival was a time of rejoicing and prosperity, and it was a fitting way to celebrate the Centennial of the college.

A prominent feature of the commencement exercises of the Shanley College was the address by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who spoke on the subject of "The Importance of Education." He said that education was the key to success in life and that it was essential for every man and woman to acquire a good education. He urged the students to value education and to make the most of their opportunities. The address was well received by the audience, who were impressed by the president's wisdom and acumen.

The commencement exercises of the Shanley College were held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe. The exercises were attended by a large and orderly crowd of people, who were joined by all who were present. The exercises were opened with the singing of the national anthem, and the Mayor of the town declared the exercises open. The exercises were presided over by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who gave an address on the subject of "The Importance of Education." The exercises were concluded with the singing of the college song and the presentation of diplomas to the graduates.

The strawberry festival of the Shanley College held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe, one of the many events of the Centennial season of the college. The Strawberry Festival was a great success and attracted a large crowd of people. The strawberries were of the best quality, and the festival was joined by all who were present. The Strawberry Festival was a time of rejoicing and prosperity, and it was a fitting way to celebrate the Centennial of the college.

A prominent feature of the commencement exercises of the Shanley College was the address by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who spoke on the subject of "The Importance of Education." He said that education was the key to success in life and that it was essential for every man and woman to acquire a good education. He urged the students to value education and to make the most of their opportunities. The address was well received by the audience, who were impressed by the president's wisdom and acumen.

The commencement exercises of the Shanley College were held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe. The exercises were attended by a large and orderly crowd of people, who were joined by all who were present. The exercises were opened with the singing of the national anthem, and the Mayor of the town declared the exercises open. The exercises were presided over by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who gave an address on the subject of "The Importance of Education." The exercises were concluded with the singing of the college song and the presentation of diplomas to the graduates.

The strawberry festival of the Shanley College held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe, one of the many events of the Centennial season of the college. The Strawberry Festival was a great success and attracted a large crowd of people. The strawberries were of the best quality, and the festival was joined by all who were present. The Strawberry Festival was a time of rejoicing and prosperity, and it was a fitting way to celebrate the Centennial of the college.

A prominent feature of the commencement exercises of the Shanley College was the address by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who spoke on the subject of "The Importance of Education." He said that education was the key to success in life and that it was essential for every man and woman to acquire a good education. He urged the students to value education and to make the most of their opportunities. The address was well received by the audience, who were impressed by the president's wisdom and acumen.

The commencement exercises of the Shanley College were held on Thursday, June 14, 1894, at Smoyer's hotel, Trappe. The exercises were attended by a large and orderly crowd of people, who were joined by all who were present. The exercises were opened with the singing of the national anthem, and the Mayor of the town declared the exercises open. The exercises were presided over by Rev. H. T. Evans, President of the college, who gave an address on the subject of "The Importance of Education." The exercises were concluded with the singing of the college song and the presentation of diplomas to the graduates.
Milk.......................................................7.27 p.m.

FOB ALLENTOWN AND POINTS NORTH AND WEST.

all round, $...

Honesty. Harness and Horse Goods in stock, and Neat, Strong, Durable and Cheap !

for from 40 to 50 cents per rod. Address or call for further information.

STORR, 1 MARKET ST. Below 12th.

Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, and the Results of Indiscretion

III...I

—lv; Sun. 9-12. Successful treatment by mal.

THE JONES

MAXIMA Smallest, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's Guide, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's New Guide, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's

HiMMe Ram Bone Phosphate

F. P. FARINGER, Agent.

THE BERGER PENT— STEEL ROOFING

Fire, Water, Wind and Lightning Resistant.

2. CHEAPER THAN Tin!

and will wear ten times as long. For samples and quotations send to

H. V. KEBYER, April, Dealers in Steel Roofing.

THE JONES

LOGGED WIRE FENCE

With Stock Proof Lock.

New, Strong, Durable and Cheap

The fence is warranted to remain in the best order and to last as long as the tree will grow.

JAMES S. BOWLES, J. A. 6060

s R., Tamaqua.

Your Stomach Distresses You?

RIPANS TABLES

A. WEITZENKORN & SONS,

The Largest and Squarest Clothiers in Interior Pennsylvania.

A. WEITZENKORN & SONS,

THE LARGEST AND SQUAREST CLOTHING HOUSES.

AND THE RESULTS OF IMDISCHIOH

THE JONES

MAXIMA Smallest, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's Guide, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's New Guide, a valuable compendium of practical first-class authority ; or, a copy of The Farmer's...