Home, Sweet Home Was Never Sweeter

Current news reports declare that the winning European nations are looking to Uncle Sam for a peaceful settlement of their difficulties. They are asking us to rush in with our angels fear or be embroiled in a private feud in which neither side is by any means above reproach.

Some nations which are appealing to us now in their hour of national emergency are the same ones which called us "Uncle Shylock" or "high-handed" a few years ago. If we should take some steps to repay the billions which we spent to insure their victory in the First World War, we are giving them "debts" to them they pulled down their blinds and pretended that they weren't at home. Instead of spending some of their money in an effort to at least repay a small portion of their debts as a token of good faith, they poured it into the economically impotent balance of their national budget.

Today we are still the burnt child of 1918, and, let us hope, we will keep our fingers out of the fire this time. There is no shrinking our moral obligation in refusing the overtures of our erstwhile allies across the waters. Milton, in his "Sonnet on Blindness," has an answer: "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Our Attitude in a Crisis

The toughest job on earth today is getting along. To be sure, the process of routine that every American President must shoulder has been added the Herkimer task of getting along with state through the turbulence of war.

The above paragraph is taken from a recent article by Felix Belair, Jr. in which he analyzes the work done by America's Number One Employee.

Mr. Belair's article may have been written in a rather idealistic vein. It may be thought by some to be partisan in its analysis. But one cannot escape the significance of the criticism. The criticism can be corrected by executive should receive a modification.

The title should be as shallow as he would be unfair to suggest that people in a democratic country should cease criticism during the emergency. The public, in an unbiased, unquestioning attitude is the privilege of all. To constructively advise representatives where advantage could be had, the American obligation of all people quali-

College Implements Improved Freshman Counseling Program

A new Freshman counseling program has been inaugurated in cooperation with the opening of the present academic year. This program of counseling for the new program includes a lecture given by a faculty member who can devote considerably more time to counseling than has been possible in the past, together with a regular series of planned meetings throughout the year. The program is designed to help each student face the problems that he is likely to encounter.

Each counselor will be responsible for ten freshmen students. An advisory committee, composed of faculty members, including the President, the two Deans, and the Chairman of the science, will be consulted by the counseling committee from time to time in the formulation of policies and methods. Other members of the counseling committee will be called upon for special assistance.

The counselors selected for the program were Professor of English, Robert Brown, Lucifer, Better, Rise, Sand, Mabel Mabel, Minnie, Mary Miller, Center, and the Misses Brandt, Rebecca, and Grace.

"I know from years of experience that Camels give a longer smoke — milder, cooler, mellower."

JOE WILLIAMS FAMOUS SMOKE EXPERT

LONG-BURNING SMOKES have a big appeal for Joe Williams, as well as for many another cigarette smoker. Joe, whose keen comments on sports are eagerly read by millions of fans, is equally "in the know" on cigarettes too. He says: "Every Camel gives me an extra period of cigarette enjoyment — a longer smoke, and a milder, cooler, mellower smoke! Naturally, such a cigarette has a more appealing taste. Yes, sir." Joe concludes, "It’s a real thrill to smoke a Camel." You, too, will find that Camel’s long-burning, easy-to-breathe smoke do give more pleasure per puff — AND — more puffs per pack. That’s pleasure plus economy — a shrewd buy. No wonder America’s smokers have made CAMELS their cigarette choice No. 1.

Temple Booters Defeat Ursinus Soccermen, 5-0

Led by their great All-American, George Nemchick, the Temple University booters bowled over Doc Baker's valiant soccer team on the Elkins Park Lasses field last Saturday. The game was not as one-sided as the score indicates. The Ursinus team fought the whole way and kept within striking distance of the star-studded Owls until the closing period, when the Bears visibly tired, yielded to their fresher opponents under the guidance of sharpshooter Joe Burrowes, who scored twice. The team needs no alliter for their showing in the opening periods of the game. Although they were heavily the underdogs, they tackled the battle with zest and put up a spirited battle that held the favo­rites to a standstill.

Joe Harrison received the touch- down assignment of the day, playing opposite the great Nemchick, who played on the German-American booters, one of the best soccer teams in the country. Harrison played his best game, keeping Nemchick well under control until the fatal period, when Goold Dan Hartline was carried off his feet by Temple's concentrated attack on the goal caps.

As cheerful as ever, Doc Baker is pointing his team toward the La­fayette game which will be played on the home field next Saturday. The Ursinus pos.

The Bears took the air in the final period and offered their only threat of the afternoon, but they did not further the Grizzly eighteen. The Bear pass defense became so light in the closing seconds that the last five Delaware plays were directed to the ground. All around the Bears looked stronger in Saturday's game than they have at any time during the past two seasons. They tackled and blocked hard, and gave the future a little better outlook. Although they managed only a three-point win, the Bears were far superior to their opponents. If Lady Luck had just grinned a little, the final score might have shot the Bears to their first victory of the season.
