GAFF FROM THE GRIZZLY

Reporter Finds Zacharias Ursius Anonymous Writer, Humble Scholar

By Robert Tod '41

More and more it has become apparent that too few of the students of the College know who he was, the man for whom it was named. Zacharias Ursius was a humble scholar who passed this world on February 10, 1712, and is best known for his book, "De Rhetorica," which is still used at the University of Bonn, Germany, where he taught.

The Ruby

Memories of the Past

The Ruby for a number of years was always published by the junior class and was the means by which the editors were able to express their feelings and ideas. The procedure was that the class could not publish anything unless it was approved by the faculty. This was a good thing, but it certainly did not give the students an opportunity to express themselves.

The Ruby was named in honor of the famous Dutch ruby, a precious stone that has been known for centuries. The editors of the Ruby were always careful to use words that were not too difficult for the students to understand.

One of the editors of the Ruby was a man named Charles K. French '38. He was a student at the University of Pennsylvania and was very interested in the Ruby. He was also interested in the Ruby for a number of years and was very interested in the Ruby for a number of years. He was also interested in the Ruby for a number of years.

French was a very good writer and was able to express himself very well. He was also a very good editor and was able to get the best out of the students who wrote for the Ruby.

The Ruby was a very popular magazine and was read by many students. It was also read by many students who were not students at the University of Pennsylvania. Advisory Committee Collects Vocational Data As Office Releases Occupation Test Results

The Junior Advisory Committee, with the aid of the N.Y.A. services, has for the first time made available to the Ursinus student body information gathered by vocational counseling. Louis Taylor ’44, chairman of the Advisory Committee, announced this week that material has been placed on a “Vocational Bookshelf” in the main reading room of the Library. A notice on the Library bulletin board gives the exact location of this shelf.

Among the collection of books and pamphlets are some giving factual information about a large number of vocations, and some describing a single vocation in detail. The literature will be found very practical and useful. It includes information about the amount and kinds of training necessary to get employment in a field, the opportunities available in any field, and some outline of the various scales.

The committee plans to add to this literature from time to time and to prepare lists of suggested readings to supplement the factual information given in these books. Since a very good picture of any vocation can often be obtained from fiction, drama, or biography, it is planned to make up lists of such books which center around a specific vocation.

Mrs. Dorothy Thomas Sheller ’28, has announced that the results of the vocational interest tests are available to students of the Freshman, sophomore, and junior classes. Any one desiring information about his or her test results should arrange to see Mrs. Sheller. Women of the senior class who desire to take a vocational interest test may do so in Room 7, Bomberger Hall, at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 22. Men who wish to take the test may make arrangements through Mrs. Sheller.

The Junior Advisory Committee has also arranged to have several research groups prepare information about various vocations over the spring recess. Sometime after May 1, a printed booklet will be held for examination in Room 7, by members of several of the girls’ dormitories, and the girls will have a chance to discuss vocational information concerning business, nursing, medicine, social service, library work, and merchandising—merchandising—to mention only a few of the vocations which are being investigated.

Correction

The Weekly wishes to make a correction in its announcement of last week concerning the meeting of the James M. Andrews Pre-Medical Society on Monday, April 3, at 8:00 p.m.

The speaker will be Dr. John Baldwin '39, and the title of his address will be "The Clinical Aspects of Tuberculosis."

Women Participate in Two Home Debates During Week

Alpha Sigma Nu Sorority was the sponsor of an Ursinus women's debate against Pennsylvania State College last Monday evening in room 7, Bomberger Hall.

Ursinus supported the affirmative side of the isolation question, with Betty Funk '39, giving the speech and Roberta Byron '39, doing the questioning in the Oregon style contest. There was no decision.

Jane Hartman '40 and Mabel Ditter '39, represented Ursinus against Hofstra College of N. Y. U. on Wednesday evening in the first home debate of either men's or women's team on the socialized medicine question.

The question is, "Resolved: That a system should be established providing complete medical care for all at public expense." Mr. Baster and Mr. Jones represented Hofstra in the Oregon style, no-decision debate.

Women Hear May Day Plans At Tuesday Mass Meeting

Plans for the approaching May Day pageant were outlined at the W.E.G.A. women's mass meeting held in the Science Building Auditorium Tuesday afternoon.

Mildred Seibert '39, author of "Tulip Town," this year's May Pageant, presented an outline of the production with its Dutch setting and the romance of Hans and Katrinka. The work of the various committees associated with the production was discussed by Margaret Swift '39.

Lorraine Robert '39, appeared in a genuine Dutch costume sent to her by a friend living in Holland, who is planning to visit this country in the near future.

Grace Lee '39, president of the Women's Student Government Association, showed the group some pictures which she had taken during a visit to Holland last summer. Motion pictures of that country were also shown.

Mrs. Franklin I. Shredder presided at the meeting.

Truckness Addresses Pre-Legal Society On Duties Of A Lawyer

Robert Truckness, Esq., practicing attorney in Norristown and former student at the College, addressed the Pre-Legal Society Monday night on the theme of what to do after graduation from law school.

The speaker stressed the duties of a lawyer, told of old cases he has encountered, and spoke of how a lawyer may become known as a criminal lawyer and a divorce lawyer.

Mr. Truckness is the donor of the Truckness Commemoration prize given each year to the outstanding senior in the History-Social Science Group who plans definitely to enter the legal profession.

Students Do Want to Try Out--Ursinus To the Editor.

Several weeks ago the student athletic board of The Ursinus Weekly that intercollegiate wrestling at Ursinus (see page 37:27) was being discussed for the next year. On reading this information in several newspapers and I thought that perfectly good intercollegiate wrestling could be continued, and could think of many persons who would be interested in the sport and its action, and we decided to propose the sport for the Intercollegiate Council at their next meeting as a proctor against the move.

I am not a Wrestling fan and the student body of Ursinus has very little interest in the sport but I sincerely believe that Ursinus has not been able to put a full team in the past three or four years, and because of the small student body involved in the sport.

Although we cannot deny that there are many reasons other than lack of student interest, for we feel that students here have as much interest in the sport as have students of neighboring colleges in their sport.

Is Popular Here

Another fact, which indicates that there may be success for the Ursinus intercollegiate wrestling tournament. This information has caused many vari- cuts because they feel that the Ursinus athletic board failed to take the lead of the sport to be varsity caliber, but rather is working on a plan that it would merely be a waste of time to practice every day against the other college meets.

It is true that Ursinus has a junior varsity team, but men would know that it was a team we would succeed at the same time have the pleasure and experience of participating in the sport. Many wrestlers from other schools; this would indicate the valuable experience for future varsity wrestlers.

In discussing the Council’s first reaction to the possibility of interest in wrestling, a scarcity of interest has occurred in the past two years more than thirty men have tried out and have set the beginning of the season, and about one half of these were freshmen. The season was over on these boys, who were not for varsity, were left stranded, gradually dropped out. Why? Because there were only a few men who could compete. If there were only a few men in the sport would have had in the sport would have had to make the thrill of outside competition.

Jayvee Teams Feasible

I am very fond of the idea of a Ursinus Jayvee wrestling teams, for which I have been desiring for years. I believe that this would not be as difficult as in the past. If the teams were not entirely accepted by the Intercollegiate Council it is possible that the teams would work as well as any of the varsity teams, as they are in many instances the back bone of the varsity teams as well as being part of their athletic program.

We feel that this condition has a direct bearing on the seeming lack of interest for the varsity team. If the men were kept inter­ ested in the sport, they would continue to wrestle during the intercollegiate wrestling here.

The second reason given by the Council for abandoning the sport, the interest for the student body, is invalid. It is true that there is no intercollegiate wrestling, but their interest is not desirable in a school where it is not nor is any attempt ever made to feed this interest which is developed.

To Develop Interest

We think that there are many ways in which this could be done. First—there would be a meet to be held during the season, and at least four or five matches could be held. This would afford the students a chance to see how they would like wrestling with less trouble. Second—there could be more publicity given to the sport. The Ursinus Weekly, and by the Intercollegiate Council different efforts will be undertaken to get the students to appreciate the sport. If we could expect a lot of publicity, and this could be done by having at least a few pre-season tryouts in the Ursinus Weekly.

Hill Power

The fourth annual Ursinus Intramural Night, promoted by Gayzel Gurzynski, protege of Ace baseball. This year’s Intramural Council will give you the most for a dime you ever had in your life. There will be no loss to you in your time, and at the end of the meet, you will have witnessed the best of intramural entertainment.

This year’s diamond battery final bout between Wildcat and Muhlenberg 15; Albright 16; Drexel 10. This dual of powerhouses marks the climax of nine points, they swung the ball and Alber- the wrestling, a scarcity team will meet Villanova in the packed with dynamite.

The men’s and women’s ping- pong tournaments will begin immediately, and the winners will be decided by the appearance of the remaining contestants, some really high-powered players.

The championship and superplayoff games will be played with the team that gets the most points at stake in the team and volley ball competition. In front- line, the Pride of the Phoenix Ed- don, Bob Stopp, will be paired with Ray Hayhoe, but seniors against juniors Bunny Mar- shall and Frank Hutt will be paired. Bob Stopp, Ruth Bloomer, and Bunny Marshall er, will oppose Bunny Marshall and Betty Ann Yu.

Dr. Baker, Barbour Present Different Aspects of Jewish Problem in New I. R. C. Quarterly

By Eugene H. Miller

The second issue of the I. R. C. Quarterly fulfills the promise of the original number. The editorial staff presents an even larger magazine, containing a wide variety of articles of controversial interest.

The outstanding articles are the two which deal with the Jewish problem. In the first, Dr. Donald C. Baker presents a fair and logical statement of various aspects of the situation, particularly the question of a Jewish homeland and barriers to assimilation of the Jew in American and European countries.

Russell Barbour 40, approaching the problem from an entirely different angle, finds in the growth of anti-Semitism in America the seeds of fascism and a serious threat to our democratic system of government. The article is well written and thought provoking.

In view of the decisive part played by sea power in world history and in view of the enigma of Russian policy in the present European situation, Editor Robert Peck's (41) collection of facts in regard to the elusive Soviet navy is especially valuable.

On Monroe Doctrine

With the acceleration of the Fascist conspiracies and the relations of the United States with the Latin American nations assume an ever greater importance, Roberts' Byron's (39) history of the Monroe Doctrine should help the reader understand the true meaning of one of the fundamental bases of our foreign policy.

The interest of an even clearer and more direct interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine would have been well fostered by the author to draw a distinction between it and other principles and policies.

The article on Isolation, and Mabel Ditter's (39) report of Prof. Eaton's address at the Swarthmore conference, present contrasting views of American Foreign Policy.

Gemmell On Isolation

Alfred Gemmell '39, gives an able summary of the arguments in favor of Isolation. However, the review questions his identification of collective security with alliances, the assertion that sanctions were applied against Japan, and the view that the Eights, affair proved the ineffectiveness of sanctions. Dr. Eaton's point that isolation is difficult to maintain in an interdependent modern world is well taken. The report of the Zinnem Conference by Ruth Shomeker '39, supports the position that international cooperation.

The Ballad on the Chinese War and the Philippine War is a collection of letters to the editor.

The judges will be Nick Mattola, '39, and James Johnstone, '41. The medals for the champions of the University will be given for the first time. The matches will be the same as in previous years.
