THE OLDEST TREE.

The oldest tree in England is the yew-tree at Braburn, in Kent, which is old. At Ankerwyke House, near Staines, is a yew-tree which was famous at the date of the signing of Magna Charta, 1215, and later was the TIDAL POWER.

Probably the first attempt to make practical use of the great energy of the tides is now being made on the Pacific Coast at Santa Cruz. A dynamo costing about $20,000 is now being placed in position. It will be worked by a head of water raised by the tide, and the electric energy thus obtained will be employed in lighting the town and driving the street cars.

That, at any rate, is the idea, although whether it can be successfully carried out remains to be seen. It should be noted that, if this plan is successful, the energy that will light Santa Cruz and propel its cars will be derived, not like that which lights other places, from the sun, through the intermediary either of fuel or water-power, but from the earth's rotations ; for, though the attraction of the sun and moon raises the tidal wave, it is the rotation of the NEW REFRIGERATING AGENT.

It is but a few months since the rather startling announcement that chemists had succeeded in turning the invisible air into a blue liquid capable of being poured from glass to glass like water. Recently means have been found to produce this rare curiosity of science on a large scale for the purposes of commerce. It is to be employed as a refrigerating agent of unrivalled power. Air was first liquefied by reducing its temperature to the critical point at which it ceases to be a gaseous state, absorbs so much heat that it is capable of producing a great fall of temperature in its immediate surroundings. Instead of being made by the slow processes of the scientific unveiled Tuesday, of last week, with appropriate ceremonies. President Cleveland presided and made the open. ing address. Senator Palmer delivered the oration.

THOS. MAY PEIRCE, founder and president of the Peirce Business College, Philadelphia, died Saturday, aged 59 years. He had a deservedly wide and highly creditable reputation as an educator, as an expert accountant, and as a public spirited citizen. His career was a useful one to humanity.

It is estimated that there were 10,000 persons present in the Grand Central Palace, New York, Saturday evening to hear Chauncey M. Depew's speech, "Electricity down to date," and to see what they could see of the operation of telegraphing around the Western continent by one telegraph company and almost around the world by another. A message was dispatched at 8.38 o'clock, and at 8.59 it was received back after it had traversed 27,500 miles.

Some time ago it was reported that certain representatives of the American Protestant Association had denounced McKinley as a candidate for the Presidency. Now it is given out that McKinley has pledged himself in secret to a secret organization that aims to ostracise hundreds of thousands of American citizens on account of their birth or their religious faith, and that the A. INTHE COURT of COMMON PLEAS of Montgomery County, Pa. No. 934. Assigned estate of John H. Longacre, of Upper Providence township. April 20th, 1896. Petition of assignee filed in onflict of life without the preparation afforded by a practical business education, he takes chances against his own success. Ignorance compels men to go through life doing two men's work at half of one man's pay. This is not so with the Schissler College Graduates of Norrisopen court, praying the Court to make an order directing the assignee, Abram Longaker, to re-convey to him all the estate assigned, and it is ordered and decreed that the prayer of the petitioner be granted, unless exceptions be thereto on or before May 18, 1896, 10 a. m.
