Too many men in public life are no longer actuated by the slogan of former times: "Public office is a public trust." Once in awhile the people become aroused to the dishonesty and perfidiousness of their servants, and then kinds. The Turks use the choice something happens.

TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT.

Too much government of some kinds and not enough government of the right kind. U. S. Senator Beveridge has it that "when Abraham Lincoln became President there were, all told, lade is not that of the freshly plucked fewer than one public official for every 800 adult citizens; to-day fragrance from a blossom a day or two there is one Government employe for every eleven persons more than sixteen years of age. The salaries alone of these public employes is $3,800,000,000 every year. And what has come of it? be sometimes little more than two-The machinery of government has been so extended and overloaded that breakdown is imminent, and natural laws of commerce are jammed into bureaucratic straitjackets." The nation is rapidly moving toward a nation engaged in fracture of the container. Also, the activities that should constitute the work of the people themselves. Paternalism is one of the expensive and relatively unjust tyrannies News. of Democracy.

THE PASSING OF A FAITHFUL OFFICIAL.

The passing of J. Horace Landis, superintendent of the public schools of Montgomery county, marks the closing of a faithful and useful career; the ending of the service of an educator who was always sincere and painstaking in his efforts to fully discharge the sweet and clean from the farm to the duties of his important position.

CONSERVATION.

Some good may come from the exposure of wickedness in exploiting public lands to cater to private greed, by using the power consume all the product of this great the best manufactured. We do not of example in directing the attention of the people of the United States to the transcendant importance of conserving the natural resources yet remaining in Uncle Sam's possession. These resources should be most zealously guarded and utilized by the national government for the material benefit of the people of the present and future generations.

THE DIFFERENCE.

After a jury hears the Commonwealth's evidence, just an ordinary thief may for a brief season be located in jail. Lodging and board, free. That's a part of the legal process. But, an extraordinary thief, a big thief high in public life, has many more chances for escape than has just the ordinary thief. The value of stolen property and political influence impede justice. Perhaps this is the reason why so few big thieves receive free lodging and board, at the expense of the public.

POPE GREGORY PREVENTED COLLISION.

W. F. K., the self-styled "Pennsylvania Dutchman," (and he is a bright one) interested himself in obtaining some information about February 29, and then forwarded copy to the Hatfield Times: A part of his contribution reads:

"February 29 has always interested me and I took a few moments today to see how it all started. I found out it began with one Pope Gregory some 300 years ago. He discovered something was wrong with his calendar. He saw, at the rate things were going, that sooner or later, the 4th of July would occur at Christmas time, and he didn't care to be responsible for the collision, so he added one day to the calendar every four years and skipped once in every century except those which are divisible by 400. This accounts for all the suffering that occurred by not having the year 1900 a Leap Year."

EDITOR MEREDITH'S SUGGESTIVE OBSERVATIONS.

A man in a neighboring rural school district sent his children to school one snowy morning recently. By evening the storm was raging and the roads were drifting shut. Did the farmer hitch up Old Dobbin to the sleigh and go to the school to convey his children home? He did not! "It was too bad to take a horse out in that storm"—yet he permitted his children to struggle homeward, a distance of several miles through snow

With all due respect to the horse, man's friend, was it better to risk the health of the horse or the health of those children? Lack of common sense and of close co-operation with the schools is what makes illiteracy

And now, just as we are about to lay our pencil away, we see a lady crossing the street with a pet poodle tucked safely in her arms, while a tiny tot is allowed to follow after through the slush and snow. Isn't it disgusting?

From the Philadelphia Record.

McADOO AND REED.

There is something delightfully refreshing in the manner in which ex-Secretary McAdoo handles the record of Senator Reed, of Missouri, and his preposterous candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Mr. McAdoo has always been a fighter well able to take care of himself, and it was a great mistake when were times, when you sang, that I Reed, seeking to injure the ex-Secretary in the estimation of the could shut my eyes and fairly hear Cohns and approximately 5,800 Smiths American people, attacked him in the Senate and tried to drag his the old front gate creaking in the and Smyths. Mr. McAdoo, a private citizen, has been very frank in acknowledging his connection with Doheny and his oil companies, but it would appear from his letter that Reed, a United States Senator, has not been equally outspoken in taking the public into his confidence and revealing the size of his fees from oil interests. When Mr. McAdoo states that Reed was thrown out of the Democratic convention of Missouri in 1920, and later in the year was denied admittance to the national convention at San Francisco, he simply narrates historic facts which indicate how absurd is the talk of such a man as a Presidential possibility in 1924. Reed persistently fought Woodrow Wilson, and that malignant hostility o a great leader will never be forgotten by Democratic voters. The mere mention of him in connection with the Presidency is an insult to the intelligence of the American people, and his ridiculous who cannot day. ### His Reward

A young French student who bought a copy of "Paul and Virginia" at a sale in a second-hand book shop found a slip of paper inside on which was written: "Whoever you are, man or woman, who find pleasure in this sane and tender story, you have won my posthumous affection. ### ALONG CROOKED LANE

*********** By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) Garden stillness has somehow an almost vocal quality—as though each and every flower sent out a message of perfume. Witness the scent of heliotrope. Valeria found it a love song to the stars and the dew. She was fanciful, as beseems sweet-and-twenty; slight, tall, light on her feet, with eyes of pure golden-hazel gleaming below narrow back brows perfectly arched. Sometimes her face was wistful, sometimes elfin. Thus Maddern saw her first; thus he remembered her always. Otherwise-but why speculate? If the way of a man with a maid is past find- Color Plant Has One of ing out, how much more inscrutable is the way of fate with a woman-heart aching to unfold?

Valeria, you see, was wholly uneducated. That is to say, she had never been to school. Books and men had taught her all she knew, conjoined to winds and wilds and stars, the rushing of flood waters, the vital enchantment of new-plowed fields.

Three comrade brothers had given their minds to making her: "that impossible she, the sum of all perfections in a woman." Unluckily, though, each had a distinct standard of perfection. To achieve that estate in triplicate is, as anybody must admit, a problem. Tall James would have her stately, silent, steadfast, yet full of loving submission. Alex yearned to pattern her on his favorite Di Vernon. Contrariwise, pious Peter pictured her an un-Storage cloistered sister of mercy, forever, going about doing good. Notwithstanding she was none of these things, they managed to love her so dearly they fairly glowered at her various beaux, albeit those gentlemen were quite up to the average of their time. It was plainly slanderous to say of them, "Small choice in rotten apples." In spite of which cynical verdict, each brother had a choice. Nobody was eligible to marry Val, yet girls were made to be married, so the thing to do Spring City, Pa. was to settle on the best of the lot and let it go at that. Hence Peter sang the praises of Brother Litt, the new circuit rider. Alex was as keen Townships in approval of young Marlow-wasn't he a banker's son? A stout branch coming almost straight out over the road bent in a ruffling wind until its tips brushed Valeria's face. Instantly she dropped the reins, knelt in the saddle, clutched the twig, the bough, swung herself from the saddle, but could do no more. As the bent branch swung back she tried to get a firmer hold on it, failed and hung by one hand. The tractor must certainly brush down into its track. ### EYE TALKS

Reading

Why does a man of forty-five or fifty need "Reading Glasses?" Because his eyes, which for distant vision may be as good as ever, can no longer focus objects close by. How do the glasses help him? They shorten the "focus" to a comfortable reading distanse. Cannot almost anybody fit "Reading Glasses?"

No unskilled person should be employed to fit ANY kind of glasses, for an eye must first be accurately measured. The word "Optometrist" means "eye We are Registered Optometrists, and

To Our Subscribers

Last year we added thirty mil- buildings? Construction costs lions of dollars' worth of plant for the telephone service of Pennsylvania. We told you about this through the public press and by various other means. We want you to know our job and how we are doing it. In a public service such as this the public should have all the facts. Many of our subscribers are asking the questions-Why all are high these days. Why this tremendous expansion of your switchboards and lines? Why not take it a little easier?

Fair questions! And they merit a four-square answer.

During the next few weeks we will endeavor to tell exactly what we have been doing, what we expect to do in the next four or five years—and most impor-
