LEHIGH GETS A DANGEROUS SURPRISE

Ursinus Holds Heavy Brown and White Team to 13 Points

Lehigh awoke from a deep stupor about 4:30 last Saturday afternoon as the final whistle sounded in Taylor Stadium. After having wonderful dreams all week of a huge score against Ursinus the quite surprising anti-climax came to the Bethlehemites in the very first moments of play.

The first quarter consisted of an exchange of punts with a few minor gains around ends by Lehigh but the ball was kept in midfield at all times.

Ursinus started the second period with two grounded passes and then Wood attempted a placement kick from the 45-yard line. It fell short a few feet. Lehigh was unable to advance and kicked. After another exchange of punts Wysocki recovered an Ursinus fumble on 30-yard line and a forward pass to Larkin placed the ball on the visitors' 5-yard line. Henzleman scored a touchdown on the third attempt thru the line. McDonald missed the goal.

Lehigh's second score came in the third period. With the ball on Ursinus' 25-yard line 8 yards were gained thru the line and then Simendinger circled Ursinus' left end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Herrington kicked the goal. The ball see-sawed up and down the field for the remainder of the half with either team unable to get within striking distance.

Coach Mitterling's change in the defensive lineup was very effective. Captain Light backed up the line as roving center in veteran fashion while Vedder seemed to

"Y" ACTIVITIES FOR THE ENSUING YEAR

Establishment of Recreation Room "Y" 's Greatest Task of Year.

"A college student is exploring life for the fountain of eternal youth; the satisfying joy of the spirit." It is the object of the Christian Association to suggest the way to this fountain.

Very often the Y. M. C. A. in a college is misjudged. It is regarded as an organization for only the "goody-goody" student, the sober-faced, so-called minister and not an organization for the student who is full of life and possessed of a freer nature. How untrue is this conception! The association would lead the way to an appreciation of that which is divine and noble in the meaneast as well as the finest, in the ruffian as well as the minister of the Word. It would lead to an appreciation of life. With this object in view it is hoped that the Y. M. C. A. will play its part among the other activities of the College campus.

In brief the Association extends the scope of its work for the year 1919-20. It began its work with a religious census and the distribution of the Associations' handbook. It has encouraged church and Sunday school attendance by providing a temporary church home where each student has the opportunity of becoming an affiliated student member. It will co-operate with the local churches thru the Community Deputation Department which has arranged for six teams for deputation work. The Religious Department has arranged a scheduled series of weekly meetings which will include one address each month by a representative Christian vocational man. Six Bible Study and Discussion Groups, with student leaders, have been organized by the Bible Study Department. The course will cover a period of twelve weeks beginning October 12. A similar course in missionary and World Problems will be given during the second term. A special enlistment campaign for new members has been planned and will be launched in the near future. The biggest task for the year will be the establishment of the Association Home. This is an essential part of the year's program, and is vitally important for the future growth of the Y. M. C. A. What a well equipped room, supplied with games, magazines, a library, and music will mean to the Ursinus Y. M. C. A. cannot be estimated.

FIVE YEARS WITH THE WOMAN'S CLUB

In a Few Years Ursinus Woman's Club Has Become Powerful Organization

It was in June, 1914, that a small group of a dozen or more women graduates met and organized a Club which in five years has not only grown in numbers but also in scope and influence. At first the objective seemed abstract and remote despite the loyal devotion of the early members. The few graduates soon realized their efforts could be greatly strengthened if the active membership included non-graduates—mothers of the students, ladies of the community, in fact any women earnestly interested in the Ursinus girl. So the Women Graduates' Association became in 1917 the Ursinus Woman's Club.

By this time the Club had already established several traditions. The annual Junior Oratorical Contest was provided with separate judges and prizes for the girls. For the latter we are indebted to the generosity of individual donors—to the Schwenksville contingent, and to the Ursinus Ladies' Faculty Club. To maintain a contest of their own the girls needed adequate preparation and in 1916 the Woman's Club secured Miss Fetzter as Teacher of Expression and Physical Education. The support of this teacher has ever since been the happy object and successful undertaking of the Club. Miss Fetzter in her two years' service laid the foundation of sincere accomplishment in Public Speaking and increased the out-door activities of the girls. Since September 1918 Miss Agnes R. MacCann has so developed the Department that the Ursinus girl now not only has more dramatics, but also her inter-collegiate tennis and hockey matches and her own May-pole celebration.

The social activities of the Woman's Club include an annual Fall Tea which was inaugurated so delightfully at the dedication of the Clarke Memorial Organ in October 1916, and maintained each year either at a private house or at the College. Since 1917 there has been an annual concert, (Continued on page six)

Editorial Comment

One could almost write a poem on the spirit of progress and activity that is being shown in the opening of our fiftieth academic year. Never before has Ursinus had so large an enrollment—two hundred and three, of which eighty-three are new students—by far the largest freshman class in the history of the College. Already the need for more room is being felt. Some of the classes because of their large size can not be held in the ordinary recitation rooms.

But if Ursinus is finding her old cloak too small she is losing no time in planning for a new one. The campaign for the raising of fifty thousand dollars for the erection of a new memorial library is just getting under way and the manner in which the Ursinus friends and alumni have responded in the past leaves no doubt as to the outcome. With the library built, new dormitories and a science building are but a matter of a few years. An institution that is as virile as Ursinus is proving herself to be will never be called upon to circumscribe her size because of a lack of equipment or housing facilities.

Passiveness or progress is contagious; a decrepit institution passes on its languor to its students while an active one inspires them with an ever growing ambition to achieve. Surely everyone attached to Ursinus; be he professor or student, will feel that he is a part of a school that is going to be heard of more and more in the next few years and will strive to make his efforts commensurate with the success that he knows will be hers. Certainly the school year upon which we have entered will be filled with a downright earnestness both in work or play.

J. L. M., '20.

What's the use of the line opening up holes if the backfield is too slow to plunge thru them; or of the backfield wasting its breath when the line acts like a sieve; or of the College kitchen cooking gulash when the students refuse to eat it; or the students complaining of the gulash when they have never tasted it; or of certain professors frantically gesticulating, eloquently articulating, trying to impress certain facts into impenetrable craniums; or those identical numb skulls clamoring against the professor; or of the presence of co-eds if one may not enjoy social intercourse; or the privilege of social hour if possessed of too much of the milk of human self consciousness to ask a young lady to listen to your foolish chatter; of freshmen wearing a scarlet sky piece when the College admits that individually they are the equivalent of any upper classman; or keeping the name of the frosh class president a secret when the sophomores are lacking class pride and spirit; what's the use of studying if one is clever enough to pass the exams in some other manner; or being so clever why attend school at all?

The individual who is able to give a sensible answer to any of these questions should apply for a position as assistant to the Dean. He who is sensible enough not to try answering any of them should immediately apply for his diploma.

The best advice to the knave who asks any such questions is that he forget his personal grievances, accept things as they come, and find a little good in everything that is or was. If the gulash is no good eat the gravy that will at least dampen your potatoes. Thus in all things about school forget the disagreeable and remember only the agreeable.

ZWINGLIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

A very entertaining miscellaneous program was enjoyed in Zwinglian Hall on Friday night. The program was very well balanced and the interest of the society was maintained thruout.

Farley's Jazz Orchestra composed of Miss Mentzer and Messrs. Wood, Isenberg, Helfrich, Moser and Schwartz played five very spicy selections and as an encore a quartette was sung. Then Mr. Wood with all his sincerity and pep gave a talk on "The Greater Zwing." Miss Fries read an essay on "Americanizing Americans" which well fitted into the program. She stressed the educational side of the problem. The program was then varied by a pretty piano solo well rendered by Miss Mentzer. This was followed by an original sketch of exceptional cleverness. Mr. Altderfer, the old chemist, while trying to discover some unknown substance created a great deal of merriment. The entrance of Misses Barnes and Hook with their flea-bitten dog, Charlie, so that Dr. Altderfer would cure him was a fitting climax for the play.

A mixed quartette composed of Miss Slämp, leader, Misses Gingrich, Erney, Wagner and Messrs. Myers, Helfrich, Tippin and Heffelfinger then rendered two beautiful selections.

Mr. Myers then delivered a very forceful oration on the "Modern College." The scope of his oration was wide and his definition of the modern college's purpose was very apt. The Review by Miss Snyder was timely and well prepared. The editorial, "October," was well received.

The critic's report was well given by Mr. Grove. He criticized the program well and offered helpful advice.

The society was delighted to receive into active membership: Miss Lillian Isenberg, Philadelphia, Pa.; Frank D. Talmage, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Irvin E. Neuroth, Chambersburg, Pa.; Paul Hassler, Chambersburg, Pa.; Webster Stover, Nazareth, Pa., and David S. Tyson, McKeesport, Pa.

Joint Meeting—Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

On Wednesday evening the first joint meeting of the year was held. Practically the whole student body was present. The outlook for the year's work is bright and promising.

A short devotional period preceded the address of the evening. The scriptures were read by Mr. Myers after which Mr. Farley rendered a very pretty violin solo. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. W. O. Fegely, of Trappe. His talk in part was as follows:

"We have all heard those lines of Tennyson which begin

'Cannon to the right of us
 Cannon to the left of us.'

And only a few short months ago we realized the purport of these words. The World War was raging. But now peace has come and we no longer hear the cannon. But, we are daily surrounded, for there are difficulties to the left of us, difficulties to the right of us; unrecognized opportunities behind us and opportunities before us. What is your attitude to these things of life?

Were we to ask all those we knew for definitions of various animals, objects, beliefs and religion none of the answers would be so varied as those defining religion. Some say religion is morality, some a certain sense of direction which works in your life. God does not expect to find a perfect man or woman. We can not force religion upon people, for it is the divine principle of life and can only be acquired thru a desire to love and to serve God.

If we consider we will realize that growth is the most beautiful thing in life. However, life is made even more beautiful by achievement. You who are just standing upon the threshold of life have a wonderful opportunity. Achieve as you grow. And seeking always that which is highest and best you will grow in God's word."

Greta P. Hinkle, '19, was a visitor at Schaff Friday evening.

UR SINUS MEN IN THE WAR

III. Byron S. Fegely

Byron Snyder Fegely was born on the 11th of July, 1895, in the busy little town of Sayre, Bradford Co., Pa., where his father, the Rev. W. O. Fegely was pastor of the Lutheran Church. At the age of two and a half years he came with his parents to the borough of Trappe, Montgomery county, Pa., where his father had been called as pastor of the historic Augustus Lutheran Church. From his earliest years one of the chief characteristics of the boy was an active interest in the affairs of men. His life in the parsonage and church gave him ample opportunity for the development, of that spirit of friendliness with which he always met men. It was this spirit that helped to make tasks easy and life pleasant for himself and others. His education was begun in his home town until graduation. He then entered the academy at that time connected with Ursinus College where he completed his preparation for entrance to college.

In the fall of 1911 Mr. Fegely matriculated in Ursinus College entering the Classical group. During his entire career in college he was a faithful and conscientious student, and he took an enthusiastic interest in all the varied activities of college life. He was an active and valued member of the Zwinglian Literary Society. By his class he was elected a member of the Ruby staff which publication he helped to bring out. His greatest sphere of activity outside of his regular college work was in music, for the cultivation of which the musical atmosphere of the College gave him ample opportunity. At an early age he manifested exceptional talent in music and he continued his musical studies during the entire period of his college course. For a number of years he was organist in his own church and for several years he had charge during the summer months of the large organ in Trinity Reformed Church, Pottstown. He was the accompanist of the Ursinus Glee Club for the seasons of 1912-13 and 1914-15. Whenever there was opportunity in private or in public he would delight his associates and audience by his excellent musical talent, and this always gave him the keenest pleasure.

Having completed his course he was graduated from College in June, 1915, at the age of twenty. He at once accepted a position as teacher of English and history in the high school at Hamburg, N. J. which position he filled for two years. His success there and the esteem in which he was held is best expressed by the resolutions of the faculty and students of which the following is an extract: "Resolved that the flag of the school be flown at half-staff for a period of thirty days * * * and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the parents * * * with the thought that 'he is not dead but liveth,' and shall ever live among the Immortals, 'the names that were not born to die.'"

As his experience enlarged his ambition for the achievement of success increased. In the spring of 1917 he was elected to the position of teacher of English and history at Roselle Park, N. J. He was prevented from assuming the duties of this position as he was called into the service of his country just a few days before the opening of the term.

He began his life as a soldier at Camp Dix, Nov. 20, 1917. A few days before Christmas he with a number of others, was transferred to Camp Greene, Charlotte N. C. to fill up the 7th Infantry. Here he became a member of the Medical Department serving in the First Aid station. His regiment sailed for France on April 6, 1918. On the 2nd of October, 1918 during the Argonne-Meuse offensive he was severely shell shocked being almost covered with ground. He was taken to the hospital where he died from the effects of his wounds on the 13th of October, 1918. He is buried in the Central Hospital Cemetery at Fleury-sur-Aire, France.

Although war and strife and bloodshed was revolting to every atom of his being and his genial personality, he cheerfully responded to the call of his country and humanity and took his place among the marching throng of comrades with the determination that his place in the ranks should always be filled with the greatest efficiency. How he succeeded there is best expressed in a copy of the recommendation by his Major to the Commanding General of the Third Division for the award of the Distinguished Service Cross. Sometime ago his parents received a letter from the Sergeant containing a copy of the recommendation, part of which reads: "Private Byron S. Fegely, Medical Department, 7th U. S. Infantry did on Oct. 1, 1918 at Bois de Beuge, near Cierges, France, in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, display exceptional courage and determination as well as devotion to duty."

A dear friend of Mr. Fegely's, a comrade-in-arms, wrote to the parents after his regiment had gone to Andernach on the Rhine: "Often as I stand and look at our flag, as it waves proudly on the banks of the Rhine, while we listen to the words of praise spoken by some one who is reviewing the deeds of valor and the joys of victory purchased by the armies of the Allies, I believe that not we alone see that flag and hear those words of commendation. For those we left behind in France cannot be so dead that they cannot hear our cries of Peace and Victory, for while our arms have been victorious, certain it is that our dead have been triumphant."

Mr. Fegely was a splendid example of fine, strong American manhood. His life showed the value of good parentage, good home training, good college training. All of these advantages were his and that he improved them all is shown by the record of his brief but eloquent life. In the home, the school, the church, the college, the social circle, the army, everywhere he left a cheering influence that was always for goodness and nobility of life and character. In his untimely death his family lost a noble son; his church a devoted member; his community a valued citizen; his college a loyal alumnus; his country a patriot.

Elmer Leiphart, Lamont Beers and Jesse Yaukey are attending Central Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Prof. Ralph L. Johnson, A. M., '97, an instructor at Girard College, Philadelphia, continued his work during the summer in the making of mental measurements at the Arkansas State Normal School, in Conway. While lecturing there he was consulted about mental cases from Tennessee, Mississippi, Delaware and even California. During the fall he will offer a series of five lectures on psychological measurements at the Monroe County Institute, Stroudsburg.

Paul A. Mertz, '10 was the delegate of the Collegeville Post of the American Legion at the State Convention in Harrisburg over the past week end. The membership of the Collegeville Post which includes many students of the College now numbers eighty former soldiers, sailors and marines.

President Omwake has recently received an extremely interesting letter from Martin

Walker Smith, '06, a member of the American Embassy at Tokyo, Japan. He describes many of his vacation time rambles thru the ancient cities of that country and incidentally mentions the "nyuba" or rainy season when everything becomes so wet that even one's shoes sprout whiskers over night. He ends his letter by asking—"Are there any boys at Ursinus at present who might wish to become Student Interpreters. The salary is $1500 and leads to $3000 at the end of five years and eventually to a consulship. Personally I think it a mighty fine thing. The Interpreters are provided with a house and a language instructor. Mr. Wilbur Carr, Chief of Consular Bureau, Washington, D. C., can give all information."

William Bancroft has entered Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J.

Nicholas J. Paladino will enter the Medical School of Cornell University.

SCHAFF LITERARY SOCIETY

The outstanding features of Schaff's program of last Friday evening were a debate and a sketch. Notwithstanding the fact that a number of the regular members were absent the hall was well filled with new students.

The program rendered was as follows: Piano duet by Louise Hinkle and Doris Sutcliffe; debate, "Resolved, That Dancing Should Be Recognized as a Form of Social Entertainment at Ursinus." The affirmative side was taken by Frank Sheeder, Helen Fahringer and John Willauer, while the negative side was championed by Charles Weller, Gladys Light and Charles Brooke. Following this a sketch was given by Messrs. Light, Sheeder, Stock, Peterman, and Misses Sutcliffe, Moyer, Xander and Beddow. Schaff Gazette was read by Ernest Peterman.

The debate was well prepared and as equally well delivered. A large number of arguments were put up on both sides and some of these proved to be quite humorous. The judges rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative side.

Perhaps the most entertaining number of the evening was the sketch. The plot was centered about the doings of theatrical people who seemed to know a great deal about the inner secrets of Ursinus. Bertram Light in the attire of a Highlander was indeed one of the major features.

The results of the election were as follows: President, Bertram Light; vice-president, Frank Sheeder; recording secretary, Miss Kelly; corresponding secretary, Miss Hinkle; chaplain, Mr. Kehl; pianist, Miss Boeshore; first editor, Mr. Willauer; second editor, Doris Sutcliffe; third editor, Miss Harclerode; janitor, Mr. Shaffer; critic Miss Grimm.

Schaff society was glad to welcome into active membership: Arthur Fretz, Reading, Pa.; Edgar K. Houck, Reading, Pa.; George P. Kehl, Carlisle, Pa.; William R. Shaffer, Philadelphia, Pa.; Raymond E. Prizer, Pottstown, Pa.; Herbert D. Frank, East Greenville, Pa.; and Joseph H. Weisel, Perkasie, Pa. The society voted Dr. Ezra Allen, head of the Chemical-Biological Group, an honorary member.

get into every play from his new defensive position at fullback. Grove taking right end on defence also proved a valuable asset to the line while Moser usually broke up all the end runs from his station at right half.

The offensive lineup in the backfield made a great showing on Saturday with Wood at full and Grove at right halfback. This combination should present a most formidable attack against Dickinson on Saturday after a steady workout this week.

As a result of the battle Saturday there are several men on the cripple list. Vedder had his knee sprained as did Helfrich, our fighting tackle, and Moser and Newitt were also crippled. However the injuries in most cases were slight and with Brooke back at end next week nothing but a first-class team will meet Dickinson.

The lineup:

URSINUS	Positions	LEHIGH
Grossman	Left tackle	Booth
Vedder	Centre	Goldman
Udpyke	Right guard	McCarthy
Helfrich	Right tackle	Spagna
Moser	Right end	Wilson
Richards	Quarter-back	Herrington
Grove	Right half-back	Henzleman
Wood	Full-back	Wysocki

Score by periods:

Lehigh	0	6	7	0-13

Touchdowns—Simendinger, Henzleman. Goal from touchdown—Herrington. Substitutions—Lehigh: Badham for McCarthy; L. Smith for Wysocki; Carlson for Henzleman; Good for Wilson; Eulich for Larkin; Frain for Good; Ursinus: E. Miller for Grove, Vosburg for Newitt, Hoke for Helfrich, Walton for Moser, Grove for Vedder. Referee—Ponda. Stevens. Umpire—Ed. Thorpe, La Salle. Time of periods—10 minutes.

Five Years With the Woman's Club.

now scheduled for Founders' Day evening in February. Notable among these entertainments were the presentation of Peer Gynt by Mrs. Jessie Royer Greaves, '92, and the concert of the Octave Club Chorus of Norristown. In addition Novelty Parties and various functions have been arranged by the ambitious committees of the Club.

Not least among our interests has been the Christmas Card Campaign so faithfully carried out in every detail under Miss Rhea Duryea's astute supervision. This activity encourages both sociability and directs funds used for Christmas cards to a cause where their profit becomes a real financial benefit. If you never have secured Christmas cards thru the Ursinus Woman's Club be sure to get in an order this season.

All these former activities of the Club will be continued this year and numerous new ideas are being worked out in which we need the co-operation of all former members as well as new members and even of the girls in College themselves. Thru the courtesy of the "Weekly" we hope to publish these new plans from time to time. We also want more personal items of interest from our members so that our occasional column in the "Weekly" may keep us in close touch with each other. Send all such items to the College representative on the Publicity Committee, Mrs. G. L. Omwake and help make our news column a success. If not a subscriber, secure your "Weekly" subscription with this number so as not to miss any announcements of the Ursinus Woman's Club. A MEMBER.
