For The Independent. THE GIFT OF LIFE

I thank whatever powers that be That gave the breath of life to me. Into this pulsing, breathing world A helpless infant I was hurled.

A helpics mant 1 was have a To live, to grow, and fill a place As part and parcel of the race, An heir to all the beauty bright That fills the world by day and night.

To love, to know the taste of bliss Awakened by a lover's kiss, To make a home where hearts entwine And make of earth a place divine.

To get a glimpse of Paradise Reflected from my baby's eyes, Awakening of another soul To lead unto a higher goal.

To make this world from day to day A little better for my stay. I thank whatever powers that be That gave the breath of life to me.
