RESERVES DEFEAT ALLENTOWN PREP

Wood Stars When Scrubs Win Third Consecutive Victory

The Ursinus Reserves outwitted, outplayed and completely conquered the Allentown Preparatory eleven on the Muhlenburg gridiron on Saturday afternoon by registering a 14 to 0 score for Ursinus. This was the third contest of the season for the Reserves, and as yet their goal line has not been crossed by opponents. In this contest they showed marked superiority over the Allentown enemies in every stage of the game.

The Collegeville boys entered this contest in their best form, due to the hard drill of the past week's practice against the 'Varsity. With Barkley, who had been out of the game on account of blood-poisoning, back in the game the backfield was materially strengthened. The score of Saturday's game was due to the touchdowns made by Wood and Will, and the excellent all-around playing of the entire team.

The first score was registered after nine minutes of play. After Wood had kicked off for Ursinus, the opponents carried the ball back to the five-yard line, but here they were easily held for downs. Through a series of well executed forward passes and line plunges, in which Barkley, Will, Witman and Wood figured greatly, Ursinus carried the oval to the opponents' five-yard line where she was held for downs. In an attempt to punt, Allentown kicked out of bounds and the ball went to Ursinus. By means of a few line plunges Wood carried the ball across for the first touchdown.

In the third period, by the excellent work of the team, one first down after another was made, and finally Will took the ball across. Wood kicked both goals making the score 14 to 0.

Ursinus was on the verge of making touchdowns at the ends of the second and fourth periods. The score does not indicate the manner in which Ursinus outplayed her opponents. Throughout the entire game Allentown made only four first downs and at no time threatened to score.

SUFFRAGE BELL HERE

On Wednesday morning at about ten o'clock the suffrage bell, mounted on an automobile truck, convoyed by a retinue of suffrage advocates, made its appearance at Ursinus.

From the platform on the automobile truck Miss Potter made a strong plea to the large audience which had assembled in behalf of the suffrage cause. She briefly reviewed the struggles which the human race has encountered in its progress; emphasized the fact that new projects require courage; and appealed to the voters of Pennsylvania to lend their hearty support to the new cause. She made a prophecy, saying that twenty-five years hence everyone will laugh to think that this movement had ever to be campaigned. She emphatically declared that the next President of the United States must be a believer in equal suffrage; that his election will largely be controlled by the men of the western states, supported by the women voters. If Pennsylvania does not take its place with the other suffrage states she will lose her prestige and will sink into insignificance. If the amendment is not carried at the next election a new campaign will immediately be inaugurated and it will be carried on with greater vigor than ever characterized the previous campaigns.

URSIINUS MUSIC SOCIETY FORMED

Object Is the Cultivation of Vocal and Instrumental Music

At a recent meeting of the members of the student body who are interested in music an organization was effected to be known as the Ursinus Music Society. The following officers were elected: President, Harold B. Kerschner; Vice President, Earl R. Yeatts; Secretary-Treasurer, Walter R. Gobrecht. Jolin Myron Jolls, Instructor in Voice Culture and Choral Singing in Ursinus College, will have charge of the work of the Society. The first meeting will be held on Monday evening. The constitution of the Society follows:

ARTICLE I.

Name.

The name of this organization shall be The Ursinus Music Society.

ARTICLE II.

Purpose.

The purpose of the Society shall be the cultivation of a general interest in both vocal and instrumental music in Ursinus College, and the promotion of the social life of its members through this medium.

ARTICLE III.

Membership.

All students, officers, members of the faculty and their wives, in accord with the purpose herein set forth, may become members of the Society upon presenting their names to the Secretary-Treasurer and subscribing a fee of seventy-five cents ($.75) for each college term, payable in advance. An additional assessment, not to exceed fifty cents ($.50) will be made, should the Society fail to meet expenses at the end of the year. All members of the Society shall be admitted free to the concerts.

ARTICLE IV.

Meetings.

Two stated meetings for the transaction of business shall be held each year, one in October and the other in May, the time and place to be fixed by the Executive Committee. Special meetings may be called at any time by the President or on the written request of any six members in regular standing. One-third of the members in regular

THREE persons shared the honors at the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of the new president of Lafayette College last week—Dr. John McCracken, the new president, his father, Dr. Henry M. McCracken, chancellor - emeritus of New York University, and Dr. Ethelbert D. Warfield, recently retired from the presidency of Lafayette and now president of Wilson College.

The new president, Dr. John H. McCracken, in his bearing and manner, and in his inaugural address, made a most favorable impression on the large body of representatives of other institutions who had gathered from all parts of the country. His address on "College and Commonwealth" reflected ability that promises for President McCracken a place of influence and usefulness in the larger field of American education as well as in Lafayette College.

The father, Chancellor McCracken, whose long and successful career as head of New York University has given him national character as an educator, and whose distinguished appearance makes him a conspicuous figure in any gathering, was the recipient of many compliments, not so much because he is a great educator, but more particularly, in this instance, because he is a great father, his second, and only other son, having been installed as president of Vassar College just a few days before. One president in a speech at the banquet, expressed gratification that Chancellor McCracken did not have a dozen sons, "else a lot of us would lose our jobs."

What was especially pleasing to his many friends among the college presidents assembled, was the extraordinary outbursts of appreciation that occurred whenever Dr. Warfield appeared or was mentioned. To his labors, the college owes much of what now constitutes its extensive equipment, its large endowment and its hundreds of students. As he called the roll of Lafayette's great men of the past, in an address that was remarkable for its depth of human interest and fervid impressiveness, his hearers could not do otherwise than accord Dr. Warfield himself, a prominent place on the list. G. L. O.

President Omwake attended the installation ceremonies at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., on Wednesday.

Sublunary Reflections

PROFESSOR J. W. CLAWSON

"With how sad steps, O moon; thou climb'st the skies."

wrote Sidney; and certainly Diana's orb seems to be the slowest mover of the starry host, for she rises some fifty minutes later every night as compared with the sun or stars, and none of the other "wanderers" or planets fall behind as rapidly.

Everyone is more or less familiar with the apparent motions of the sun, how at spring and autumn equinoxes he rises in the east, sets twelve hours later in the west and sweeps out a course during the day which attains in our latitude a height rather more than halfway from the horizon to the zenith at noon; how at midsummer he rises to the north of east, sets to the north of west considerably more than twelve hours later and attains a height of about two-thirds of the distance from the horizon to the zenith at noon; how at midwinter he rises to the south of east, sets to the south of west considerably less than twelve hours later and attains a height of only about one-third of the distance from the horizon to the zenith at noon.

Few people are acquainted in detail with the apparent motions of the moon. If only it had been ordained that the lesser light should keep pace with the sun and that it should always be full, hence rising at sunset and shining every night, we should be more familiar with our nearest neighbor; we should also have the convenience of brighter nights. But then we should have missed the glamour of the "Young moon,

When on the sunlit limits of the night
Her white shell trembles amid crimson air;" and the incomparable beauty of these still moonless nights when the stars come out in thousands, "eternal fields of light that lie round about the throne of God," would never have touched our imaginations.

However, if we notice the moon's course every night—a thing which her varying hour of rising makes it difficult to do—we shall find that her motions closely resemble those of the sun with this important difference: while the sun takes a year to run his course from equinox to the same equinox again, the moon runs through the corresponding changes about once a month; in this respect Cynthia is anything but a sad stepper in comparison with Phoebus. If we remember that in reality the moon's apparent motion is due to the fact that she swings around the earth some thirteen times while the earth and moon together are swinging round the sun, we see that her true motion is in the nature of a dance rather than a sorrowful climb.

At full moon the luminaries are approximately at diametrically opposite points of the heavens. It therefore happens that in midsummer, when the sun is pursuing his highest path above the horizon by day, the full moon is in its lowest track by night; and in midwinter when the sun by day skirts the horizon, the full moon in its nightly career shines high in the heavens. For this arrangement we may be thankful; for the longest nights are the brightest—when it happens to be full moon. On the other hand, the crescent moon is highest above the horizon in the long summer evenings when we are best able to appreciate its beauty.

One day each month the moon moves very nearly in the path of the spring sun, rising very nearly in the east and setting near the west, the next day she rises somewhat to the north of east and a little farther north each day for a week, moving at the end of the week nearly in the track of the midsummer sun. During this period the northerly motion of the moon results in her coming above the horizon earlier than she otherwise would and the retardation in the time of her rising, previously stated to be fifty minutes a day, is much reduced. In high northern latitudes the moon at this part of the month will even rise earlier on each of three or four successive nights. This speeding up of the rising time is of course made up for in the period during which the moon is rising farther south each night; at that time its retardation is more than fifty minutes a day. In September and October the moon happens to be full at the time when its rising is but little retarded from night to night; and the moon at these times is called the Harvest Moon and the Hunter's Moon. An observant person may find the same phenomenon in any month of the year, but it is most conspicuous when the moon is seen to rise fully illuminated by the sun soon after sunset on several successive evenings. (The Hunter's Moon this year is full on October 22 and should be seen on several evenings after that.)

Shelly asks the moon

"Art thou pale for weariness
Of climbing heaven, and gazing on the earth?"

A study of her complicated path shows that less of an athlete than Diana would have good cause to be wan and weary. But with unhurried and careful feet the

Among the Colleges

The following extract, taken from a recent issue of "The Gettysburgian," relative to fire protection for their dormitories, may be of interest to our readers: "The college has purchased a small chemical fire engine of the latest type from the American La France Fire Engine Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio. This engine is so designed that it can be run to a fire quickly by a few men and instantly put into operation, thus preventing the fire from spreading. It is small enough to run up stairways and through the door into a room and yet it has sufficient capacity to put out a fire before it has spread through the building. Even after a fire has progressed it will operate to control the conflagration until the fire apparatus of the town has had time to arrive on the scene. The chemical tank is carried on two wheels. The hose is always attached and is coiled in a wire basket on top of the tank. When it has reached the fire all that is necessary to do to put it in operation is to turn it upside down. This will automatically open a valve into the hose and then all that needs to be done is to direct the stream of chemicals on the fire."

President Hibben, of Princeton, not merely in his official capacity, but as an alumnus, has appealed to graduates of that institution to discontinue the free serving of beer in the reunion tents at commencement time. He is convinced that the fair name and honor of Princeton are at stake.

Lafayette inaugurated her ninth president on October 20, in the person of Dr. John Henry MacCracken, late syndic of New York University. Representatives of 200 colleges were in attendance. Of this number one-half of the institutions were represented by their presidents. The State of Pennsylvania was represented by Governor Brumbaugh and a number of his staff.

The faculty of Gettysburg college has passed a resolution that no class or group of students shall put up posters or proclamations against any other class or group of students.

The Chemical-Biological Group meeting, after two postponements, was held last Thursday evening in the Freeland Hall reception rooms. At the business meeting, the following were elected to fill unexpired terms: Vice-President, Mr. Schaub, '17; Secretary, Mr. G. A. Deitz, '18. The following interesting program was rendered: Piano Solo, Mr. Bell; Talk, "The Question of Increase," Mr. Stugart; Talk, "The History of the Red Cross Movement," Professor Crow. Refreshments were served and a good social time was enjoyed by all.

Editorial

The events of last week have awakened the thoughts of the Ursinus constituency along several lines. The necessity for more adequate fire protection was brought to us with overwhelming force. Perhaps we never quite realized before how much Ursinus meant to us. The common danger rallied everyone to the standard of the Red, Old Gold and Black as nothing ever did before. Even if we did not fully appreciate our Alma Mater previously, and at times spoke disparagingly of her, such cannot be the case again. All Ursinusites, whether student, faculty or supporter, have somehow been made conscious of their common ground and all have been more closely drawn together.

In the student body, to be specific, there was never a better spirit of friendliness and harmony than that exhibited at the "After-the-Fire Social" of last week. Perhaps this celebration came, as it were, at the psychological moment, but does it not show all the more that now is the time to foster and continue that spirit? Therefore, now that it seems to lie within our grasp should we not lay hold of it? By so doing we may increase the usefulness of Ursinus immeasurably. The aim of education is "to organize a man's resources and power of conduct that shall fit him to his social and physical world." Thus, one who cannot mingle with people with at least a moderate degree of ease has his usefulness greatly impaired. Many people are graduated from college hampered by constraint and reserve which they have never been given sufficient opportunity to overcome. The aim of education is not adequately realized. With a spirit of loyalty and good comradeship, fostered in some definite way, our college life would be greatly enriched. Friction, which naturally occurs in a community such as ours where the social pressure is so great, would be reduced to a minimum and so we would have better work in the class-room, more enthusiasm on the athletic field, more loyal support from alumni and friends and, hence, increased recognition for the institution.

Now to accomplish this end several methods may be used. The one thing essential is that the student body meet oftener as a whole. The plan of seating in the dining-room is a good start. Another move in the same direction has come through the recently projected music society one of whose aims is to foster the spirit of comradeship. These various plans might be brought into closer association and be managed by one supervisory committee whose duty should be to promote social life in general. Such a committee might be composed of representatives from the student body and from the faculty, particularly the faculty ladies. With these representatives working in conjunction a whole plan of social life could be worked out and successfully supervised. It might include a social hour in the evening, once a week, where everyone could mingle informally. At other schools, also co-educational, this plan has been very successful and there is no reason why it could not be developed here. Then, perhaps once a month or so, Saturday night socials might be held in the Field Cage. Is this not worth thinking about for everyone interested in the welfare and growth of Ursinus? The need has long been felt and now, when a period of larger growth seems to be setting in, is the time to fill it.

M. S. K., '16.

Rev. J. G. Kerschner, '98, and wife, of Palmerton, Pa., visited at the college on Monday. Their son, Rev. W. S. Kerschner, '09, of Pittsburgh, Pa., also renewed acquaintances on and about the campus, on Thursday. All were enroute to Philadelphia, where the Eastern Synod of the Reformed Church convened during the past week.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Seiz was in charge of the meeting this week and spoke on the topic "Christ's Hatred of Shams." An abstract of her talk follows: "God's detestation of shams is easy to understand when we consider the intensity of His desire to save men. A will completely surrendered to Him is demanded first of all. This allows the Holy Spirit to enter and so the man will be enabled to become possessed of a new life. Often insincerity is caused by some difference between us which must be mutually recognized and removed before any real friendship can exist between us. In like manner we may deceive people in doing kindnesses merely to give a good impression. Again, we may deceive ourselves, a thing which is far worse. Though we may deceive ourselves, we can never deceive God. We may go to religious meetings and listen passively but with our thoughts on vastly different matters. Of such God says, 'Their heart is far from Me.' Nothing but absolute sincerity can He accept."

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. W. R. Gobrecht, '16, was the speaker at the meeting held last Wednesday evening in the chapel. He spoke on the subject "Crown Him Lord of All," building his thoughts around Romans 14: 9—"That He might be Lord." In his inspiring talk, Mr. Gobrecht admonished his hearers (1) to crown Christ Lord of their time, setting apart some time each day for communion with Him; (2) to crown Him Lord of their thoughts, thus uplifting their whole lives by pure ennobling thought and action; (3) to crown Him Lord of their bodies, keeping away all evil habits that would make a body unfit for Christ's indwelling; and (4) to crown Him Lord of their wills, completely surrendering the whole life to His guidance. "If Christ is Lord, we will live lives of service, without selfishness."

Mr. J. H. Ehlers, student secretary of the State Y. M. C. A., also addressed the association. Using as a key phrase this text, "We remember without ceasing your work of faith, labor of love, patience of hope," he encouraged each member to make this year be one full of the works of faith, the labors of love, and the patience of hope.

Rev. P. H. Hoover, '98, of Bloomsburg, Pa., and Rev. Charles H. Slinghoff, '90, of Tower City, Pa., were other ministers who were attracted to their Alma Mater by the above meeting.

Literary Societies

Zwinglian Society

The program, which was of a miscellaneous nature, was up to the usual Zwing standard on Friday evening. The first number was a violin and flute duet by Messrs. Jones and E. K. Wiest. Miss Rogers recited in her usual pleasing manner. Mr. Kerr discussed a very timely subject on "How Germany Does It?" Vocal solo, Mr. Hain; he sang "Anchored" with much taste and expression. Current events, Mr. R. E. Wilhelm, who briefly reviewed the current topics of the day. Orchestra, Mr. N. K. Wiest, leader. Special mention should be made of the excellent work of musicians. Mr. S. S. Gulick then read the Zwinglian Review. Under voluntary exercises, Miss Shepard delighted her hearers with a recitation of the first order; her encore was humorous and well adapted. Mr. W. R. Gerges, '11, was present and made encouraging remarks. Critic's report, Mr. Adams. Quotations were given at last roll call.

Zwing was pleased to receive into active membership, Mr. Dana F. Griffin of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mr. Elmer E. Leiphart of Hellam, Pa.

On next Friday evening the society will render a special Hallowe'en program. The hall will be prettily decorated and refreshments will be served. A special invitation is extended to the alumni of old Zwing to be present.

Schaff Society

The program given in Schaff last Friday night was general literary in nature. The main portion of the numbers were concerning Irving, Dickens, and Byron. After a pleasing vocal solo by Miss Hyde, Miss Rosen read her interesting essay on Washington Irving. The "Swan Song," as declaimed by Miss Shaner, held the audience spell bound. Miss Slinghoff then read a humorous selection from Irving's "Sleepy Hollow," after which Mr. Hoover delighted all with a cornet solo. Mr. Sands read an essay on Charles Dickens, and Mr. Kehm recited "Jim's Kids," Miss Borneman then gave a reading from Dickens' "Carol," Mr. Richards' essay on "Lord Byron" was well read. As a declamation, Mr. Kochel gave Byron's "Lines to Augusta." Miss Reifsneder read an exceptionally clever "Gazette" written by Miss Paul. The society was pleased to listen to two splendid talks by former Schaffites, Rev. John A. Koons of Rockwell, North Carolina, and Rev. Dr. Mesinger, of Trappe, Pa. Mr. Smith then presented his Critic's Report.

Mr. Robert Trucksess, of Fairview, Pa., was welcomed into active membership in the Society.

Alumni Notes

Miss Christine E. Tegtmeir, '12, of Conshohocken, Pa., who taught for several years in the schools of that place, is now attending the University of Pennsylvania, preparatory to taking the degree of Master of Arts.

Miss Rebecca Ellis, '13, who is on the teaching staff of the Phoenixville High School, spent a very pleasant week end with Miss Edna M. Wagner, '14, of Wilmington, Del.

The meeting of the Eastern Synod of the Reformed Church was held last week in Trinity Reformed Church, Philadelphia. Rev. J. M. S. Isenberg, D. D., '93, is the pastor. Rev. A. C. Thompson, '96, of Tamaqua, Pa., and President George Leslie Omwake, of the college, were among those who delivered addresses.

Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, '06, Superintendent of Chester City Schools, was one of the instructors at the Schuylkill County Teachers' Institute. Dr. Eisenberg's thoroughly practical addresses were very much appreciated by the large group of teachers.

Sunday, October 17, marked the fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. O. R. Frantz, '95, of Minersville, Pa. Appropriate services were held in connection with this anniversary. The whole interior of the church has been renovated and now presents a neat appearance.

Home Coming Day was observed in St. Mark's Church and Sunday School, Lebanon, Pa., Rev. I. Calvin Fisher, '89, pastor. Many of the older members were present.

Rev. J. G. Kerschner, '98, was installed pastor of First Church, Palmeton, Pa., on Tuesday evening, October 12. Rev. A. P. Frantz, '96, assisted at the installation, delivering the charge to the newly installed pastor.

Mr. Albert Vogel, ex-'15, who was moved from the Mont Alto Sanitarium to his home in Philadelphia during the summer, remains in an unchanged condition.

Rev. Oscar D. Brownback, '04, of Honeoye Falls, N. Y., has returned to his home, after spending some time with his parents at Parkerford, Pa.

On the Campus

The front campus is receiving a great amount of attention at this season of the year. The trees are fast losing their verdure and this necessitates much work in the disposal of the dried leaves. But dead leaves is not the only thing which the trees are yielding, for we notice suitcases and bags being carried to and from the numerous apple trees growing here.

The Sophomore class hats made their appearance last week. They are of heavy black felt with a turquoise '18 embroidered on the front. The combination is very attractive.

Mr. J. H. Ehlers, student secretary for the State Y. M. C. A., spent several days last week as the guest of the local Y. M. C. A.

The new Music Society organized last Monday evening with about fifty members. The purpose of this organization is to cultivate the aesthetic tastes of its members and to make them more familiar with music. The officers elected were: President, Mr. Kerschner, '16; Vice-President, Mr. Yeatts, '16; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Gobrecht, '16.

The glee clubs, both women's and men's, have been organized and are beginning active work in preparation for their winter concerts.

The English-Historical Group held its first monthly meeting in the Freeland Hall reception rooms last Wednesday evening. The program consisted of a piano solo by Miss Slinghoff, vocal solo by Miss Hyde, and talks, embodying reminiscences of the summer by Dr. Smith, Miss Kern and Miss Craft. Following the conclusion of the program, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Rev. Calvin D. Yost, of the college, supplied the pulpit of St. Mark's Church, Lebanon, on Sunday, October 17.

THE CURRICULUM

embraces four years of work in the arts and sciences leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science, and includes

SEVEN GROUPS OF COURSES

I. THE CLASSICAL GROUP

This is a course in the liberal arts with special emphasis upon the Latin and Greek languages. It is specially adapted to fit students for the theological schools and for general work in the teaching profession.

II. THE LATIN-MATHEMATICAL GROUP

This group has exceptional disciplinary value and provides a broad general culture. It constitutes an excellent group for students expecting to make teaching their life work.

III. THE MATHEMATICAL-PHYSICAL GROUP

This group includes advanced courses in mathematics and the sciences. It is designed for students who wish to teach these subjects, or who wish to pursue courses in high grade technical schools.

IV. THE CHEMICAL-BIOLOGICAL GROUP

This group is designed primarily for students who expect to enter the medical profession and for persons who wish to become specialists in chemistry and in the biological sciences.

V. THE HISTORICAL-POLITICAL GROUP

This group furnishes thorough preparation for the study of the law, and enables students who expect to teach to become specialists in history, economics, political science and public finance.

VI. THE ENGLISH-HISTORICAL GROUP

This group fits the student for a life of letters in general and offers exceptional advantages for persons expecting to enter the educational profession.

VII. THE MODERN LANGUAGE GROUP

This group affords special advantages to students who expect to enter the field of literature, or who desire to become specialists in teaching the modern languages.

standing shall constitute a quorum.

ARTICLE V.Officers.

The officers of the Society shall be a President, a Vice President, a Secretary-Treasurer and an Executive Committee, consisting of the officers, the Instructor in Voice Culture and Choral Singing, the Instructor in Piano and the Theory of Music, and two other members chosen from the Society by ballot at the spring meeting, at which time also, all the officers shall be elected, a plurality of votes cast in each case being sufficient to elect.

ARTICLE VI.Musical Director.

The Director having charge of the work of the Society shall be the person who is Instructor in Voice Culture and Choral Singing in Ursinus College. He shall decide who shall participate in the concerts.

ARTICLE VII.Committees.

The Committees of the Society shall be: A Social Committee, a Committee on Music, and an Executive Committee as above constituted having general supervision of the work of the other committees. These committees, except the last named, shall be appointed by the President. The Committee on Music shall include the Instructor in Voice Culture and Choral Singing and the Instructor in Piano and the Theory of Music.

ARTICLE VIII.Amendments.

Any amendments to this Constitution may be made by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting, notice of such amendment having been presented at the previous regular meeting.

BY-LAWS.

1. Regular rehearsals, under the auspices of the Society, shall be held on Monday evening of each week, between the hours of seven and nine o'clock, except when this evening is preëempted for public meetings by the college authorities. Any member of the Society who fails to be present at three-fourths of the rehearsals of the particular work for which he is enrolled, shall forfeit the right to participate in public renditions.

Professor Crow took the Biology II class on a profitable field trip last Thursday afternoon. The route lay through a glen not far from the college. A number of interesting things were brought to the attention of the class.

Queen of the Night picks out her intricate path; and if she seems to be changeful and inconstant — now showing a "paly circlet," in the western sky at sunset, now in full glory

"With delight

Looking about her when the heavens are bare," — it is our changing point of view that is at fault.

"Queen and huntress, chaste and fair,

Now the sun is laid to sleep,

Seated in thy silver chair

State in wonted manner keep;

Hesperus entreats thy light,

Goddess excellently bright."

Fatal Automobile Accident

THE WEEKLY notes with more than ordinary regret the misfortune which occurred to Rev. Charles D. Lerch, '95, of Ringtown, Pa. Mr. Lerch, who is pastor of the Reformed church at that place, and his wife were returning from an automobile trip in their machine when, about two miles from Berwick, Pa., Mr. Lerch lost control of the machine and it crashed down a fifty-foot embankment.

In the fall both were pinned beneath the wreckage of the car. Although seriously injured, Mr. Lerch managed to extricate himself and fought frantically to release his wife from her perilous position. Reeling in semiconsciousness, he tugged in vain at the heavy machine and finally fell over unconscious.

Following the accident the gasoline tank exploded, enveloping Mrs. Lerch in a wall of flame which slowly burned her to death. Mr. Lerch, when found, was in a critical condition and serious internal injuries are feared by his physicians. At the time of the going to press of the WEEKLY nothing definite was known regarding his condition.
