VALUABLE LECTURE BY JAPAN EDUCATOR

Dr. Schneider, President of North Japan College Lectures to Students

The series of monthly sermons for the school year of 1915-16 was fittingly brought to a close Tuesday morning when Dr. David B. Schneider spoke before the students. Dr. Schneider has spent the greater part of his life in Japan and is, at this time, president of North Japan College. He showed deep interest in the missionary work in Japan and presented convincing arguments that thorough education is the best and most efficient way to accomplish the best results. The familiarity with which he related the conditions throughout his field and especially within the sphere of education bespoke him an authority in this work and commanded for him the interest and attention of his audience.

His chief theme was the moral benefit which Christianity renders to the Japanese people through the channel of education. In the treatment of his subject, he referred to the time when Japan had a very complete school system and still a low and lowering state of morality. Then he traced the history up to the present time and showed the moral impetus which Christianity has introduced.

He outlined Japan's educational system as a system of layers. The first layer is the elementary school which every Japanese youth must attend. The second is the secondary schools which include high schools, normal and commercial schools, and the numerous vocational schools. Next are the governmental schools and higher normal schools and vocational schools and at the top are the great imperial universities of which there are four throughout the empire.

With such a system at her command, Japan tried to reform her morals. College presidents regularly devoted one hour weekly directly to instructions in this subject and many other methods were likewise tried. But all failed and morality continued to decline until a governmental representative to this country discovered and took back the simple truth that our religion was the secret of our success in this respect. This was the incentive for bringing

'VARSITY BREAKS EVEN ON TRIP

Gettysburg Wins in Eighth, Ziegler Easily Defeats Dickinson

A timely eighth inning rally and Hoar's superb pitching for Gettysburg sufficed to nose out Ursinus in a spirited contest last Friday afternoon at Gettysburg, Pa. Score 4-3.

The game was a pitcher's duel throughout with Hoar having a slight advantage. Ursinus led by two runs until the eighth inning when on Hoar's double, Williams' triple and singles by Matter and Mahaffee, Gettysburg scored three runs. The home team opened the game with a rush by sending two tallies across home plate in the second frame. Barkley reached first base on an error. Ziegler followed with a crashing single to left field when Barkley circled the bases for the first tally. Then on successive singles by Stugart and Johnson, Ziegler crossed the rubber with the second run. The third run was scored in the fifth inning.

Ziegler's "stickwork" was especially noteworthy. He connected for two singles and scored one of the runs. His long drive in the second frame was mainly responsible for the first tally.

On Saturday afternoon the Dickinson college baseball nine was easily defeated in a loosely played game at Carlisle, Pa. Score 6-3. For Ursinus Diemer, Johnson and Ziegler featured. Diemer drove out three hits and crossed the rubber with two runs during the game. "Jing" Johnson thrilled the crowd with a circuit clout in the third frame.

Coach Griffith started Ziegler on the mound and during the nine innings that he worked he allowed his opponents but seven hits. He hurled in masterful style and was especially strong in pinches. Both teams played good ball with the exception of the seventh inning when three hits and an error let Ursinus score three runs.

On Thursday afternoon the home team crossed bats with Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster, Pa., but the game was called off at the end of the third inning on account of rain. The score was 3-0 with Ursinus in the lead when the weather man compelled the teams to

The Tower Window

THIS week I must set aside topics pressing for discussion, in order that I may make note here of the passing of two devoted friends, one a graduate, the other a former professor. Ere we pass on into the rush of the commencement season, we do well to linger with the impressions which crowd in upon us as we contemplate the leave-taking of these two beloved members of our Ursinus household.

John Edward Stone, dear friend and not infrequent companion of my student days—can it be that no more his quiet but cordial greeting shall be had about these halls, that never again we shall enjoy those pleasant helpful talks—all now a precious memory? Here was a man whose conversations were a joy. Whenever I met John Stone, as we familiarly called him, the two of us seemed to constitute a sufficient company, and his companionship was of most value when not too much hurried or abbreviated. In college days, I used to seek him out on rainy afternoons. Many who mourn his loss will think of him as their preacher and pastor. I shall think of him as a companion.

In the death of Professor Reichenbach a fine career came to a becoming close, the very manner of his death, at three score and ten, being typical of his life—unruffled, unostentatious, serene. That no student ever sought to take mean advantage of Professor Reichenbach is indicative of his noble character. He came up to his professorship in college from the secondary school. He approached the work of his classroom from the side of methods rather than from that of extensive learning or highly specialized scholarship, although his qualifications in these respects were not to be despised. His type of character, his interest in pupils, his methods of instruction, as well as the land of his birth, call to mind the great Pestalozzi.

These deaths, one at life's meridian, the other at its setting sun, alike magnify the things that endure. They point to another world and greatly confirm our faith in immortality, in the continuity of personal life, in heavenly reunion and in the communion of saints.

THE PASSING OF PROF. REICHENBACH

A Much-loved, Former Instructor of Ursinus Summoned by Death

Prof. Alcide Reichenbach, who was well and favorably known to all the students of the college between 1880 and 1901, died at his home in Skippack on Monday, May 22, and was buried in the cemetery of St. Luke's Church, Trappe, last Thursday. The burial was in charge of Dr. S. L. Messinger, who also preached the sermon, basing his discourse on Genesis 5: 24: — 'Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him.' Every one who knew Prof. Reichenbach intimately will at once be impressed with the singular appropriateness of this text, and the sermon set forth in a fitting manner, without undue eulogy, the splendid qualities and the fine character of this unassuming disciple of his Lord and teacher of men. Dr. Messinger's sermon was followed by an address by Dr. H. T. Spangler. Dr. Spangler had also been most intimately associated with Prof. Reichenbach, both as pastor of St. Luke's Church, and as president of the college. He spoke from an intimate knowledge of his life and character and set him forth as all knew him to be, "a man without guile." The prayer at the funeral service was offered by President Omwake.

Prof. Reichenbach was born in Switzerland a little over seventy years ago. While still young he was brought to this country and was reared and nurtured on the farm. He was educated in the public schools and became a student in Western Reserve College in 1870, and later of the National Normal University from which he was graduated in 1872. This latter institution conferred on him the degree of Master of Arts in 1875, and the Mission House College conferred on him the same degree in 1894. While he was a student at the National Normal University, 1870-72, he was also Instructor in German and French in that institution. Desiring to qualify himself thoroughly for the work of teaching, he went abroad for the study of Pedagogy in the Swiss and German normal schools in 1872-73. Returning to this country, he was Principal of the Valley Normal School, Virginia, from 1873 to 1877. He was then, for one year, Principal of the Cumberland High School, in Maryland; after which he became Principal of the Allegheny County Normal School. He came to Ursinus College in 1880, and served as Principal of the Ursinus Academy and Instructor in Pedagogy for a period of eleven years. He was then called to the Professorship of Modern Languages in Ursinus College, which he filled in an able and efficient manner for a period of ten years. In 1901 failing health induced him to give up teaching as a regular occupation. He continued, however, to serve as Assistant Instructor in the College at intervals, and to give private instruction. About fourteen years ago he purchased a small farm near Skippack, where he continued to reside to the time of his death. During these years he gave his time chiefly to agriculture.

During a period of thirty-six years Prof. Reichenbach was a member of St. Luke's Church, and for a considerable part of that time he was the active and efficient superintendent of the Sunday School connected with that church. In whatever capacity one knew Prof. Reichenbach, whether as teacher, adviser, neighbor, or friend, he was always impressed with the genuine Christian character and the unselfish devotion to duty and high ideals. Many of his former students will devoutly say, Requiescat in pace.

Coming Musical

On Saturday evening, June 3, at 8 o'clock, the Ursinus Music Society will stage the biggest musical hit of the season in Bomberger Hall. In order to give everyone an opportunity to enjoy the program, it has been decided to charge only 25 cents for admission. The main feature of the evening will be a cantata entitled, "The Triumph of David," written by Dudley Buck, and this will be interspersed with various classical music numbers, such as the "Sextette from Lucia" and the "Quartette from Rigoletto." The cantata will be rendered entirely by local talent, who, under the painstaking direction of Prof. Jolls, have attained a high degree of perfection in their work. The soloists will be: Miss Hyde, '16, soprano; Miss Rhoads, '18, alto; Mr. Bomberger, '17, tenor; and Mr. Wilhelm, '18, and Mr. Friderici, '16, bass. Miss Fisher, '13, soprano, will assist in rendering the program.

This musical will take the place of the recital usually given by members of the School of Music on the Saturday evening preceding commencement and will far surpass the latter. The Recital will be held on the afternoon of the same day at 2.30 and there will be no admission. We invite every one to come and enjoy these musical treats. You cannot afford to miss the evening performance.

Among the Colleges

Dissolution will be the fate of the University of Missouri at the end of this scholastic year unless a source of financial support can be located. The university is now running on money advanced by local banks in Columbia and the shortage in state funds makes it exceedingly improbable that that factor will be able to ward off the impending bankruptcy.

In addition to the punishment customarily given freshmen who do not wear freshman caps, Purdue University publishes their names in the Purdue Exponent under the fitting caption "The Dishonest Roll."

A bill now before Congress provides for a national stadium to be built at Washington for future Olympic games and other international and inter-sectional games.

Seniors, Look!

The Alumni Athletic Club will tender a reception to the members of the Senior Class on the evening of Wednesday, June 7, at 8 o'clock. The reception will be held at Glenwood Hall. All Alumni and Seniors are cordially invited to be present to enjoy the occasion. This will be a grand farewell party for the Seniors, one that will be remembered by them all for many years to come. The A. A. C. intends to make this an annual affair, and one that will be looked forward to by each Senior class. All members of the Women's Graduate Club are urged to be present, as this will be a wonderful opportunity to become acquainted with these new members of the Alumni Association.

Editorial Comment

There has recently been taking place among the students of Ursinus a very noticeable decline in enthusiastic support of our baseball team. This change must be especially obvious to those students who have had the opportunity of witnessing the games which our teams played during former years. Whether the cause for this undesirable condition is the fault of the players, or the authorities in charge, or the students themselves, is a matter of comparatively slight importance, but the painful truth is that it exists and something should be done to effect a remedy.

This apparent lack of enthusiasm came to a climax in the most interesting game which was waged against Swarthmore a few weeks ago. During that game one of our own college professors was heard to remark that never before in all his life had he witnessed an intercollegiate contest of any kind where so little interest was manifested on the part of the spectators. Had not the grandstand been so prominently situated before the eyes of the players, neither side would have known that a large body of local students were witnesses to an exceedingly closely contested game between two rival college team. Perfect silence prevailed until about the ninth inning when the players of both sides were surprised by a feeble yell elicited by a spectacular play by one of the home team. It is really remarkable that our team came off victorious under such adverse circumstances.

To-morrow our team will cross bats with our old rival, Franklin & Marshall, on Patterson Field. Let every Ursinus student be in his place on the grandstand, not to be entertained and thrilled by action of the players, but to prove that we are ever mindful of their efforts in representing our College in this capacity.

The encouraging results that have attended the efforts of the Alumni Athletic Club of Ursinus College is something that is generally partly if not entirely overlooked by the casual observer. To those, however, who are truly interested in the welfare of the College, the work that has been accomplished by this organization of loyal alumni holds a place of paramount importance. This Club has been directly responsible for numerous improvements in our athletic equipment which fact should not be passed over lightly, but on the other hand, should be generously applauded and encouraged to still greater accomplishments by the loyal support of all alumni.

The next improvement that this organization hopes to accomplish is the installation of a new heating system in our recently built field house and field cage. The value of such an improvement cannot be overestimated. It will add much to the comfort and convenience of these already useful adjuncts to the College.

It is a regrettable fact that so few of our alumni have become members of this Club. If all of the alumni would attach themselves to this project by paying the small annual fee of $5, in a short time Ursinus could be as well equipped as any college.

The regular spring meeting of the Club will be held during commencement week at which time it is hoped many of the former alumni as well as the members of the present graduating class will become members and thus aid in the success of our College in this direction.

J. S. G., '17.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Ralph Stugart, '16, was the leader at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday. The topic, "Sowing and Reaping," was developed in an inspiring manner. A portion of Mr. Stugart's words follows:

"Life is a seed-ground in which we are continually scattering seeds in words and deeds. Sin, like weeds, easily springs up, but good seed must be planted and cared for, to make the good harvest sure. God helps him who sows good seed, but "be not deceived, God is not mocked" by evil sowing. Sin deceives with smiling falsehoods of pleasures, eventually bringing death. 'Wild oats' when sown, yield no harvest of wheat. Keep the heart clean, for from within are the issues of life. Don't try to mock God by seeking wealth, for while adversity has slain her thousands, prosperity has slain her tens of thousands.

"We expect to reap when we sow; then let us sow to the spirit, for the seed of selfishness yields corruption. We can get only what we sow; then do not sow to the flesh, and expect to reap the fruits of the spirit, nor sow to the spirit, and expect temporal harvests of blessings. We must reap more than we sow; then do not forget that a few seeds will produce a great harvest, and that the drunkard's family must reap with him the terrible harvest that sprung from a glass of liquor. Ignorance of the seed makes no difference in the harvest; then be careful what you sow. The harvest will not all be reaped here; the after-life depends upon your sowing. As college men, let us see the duty of sowing seeds of service."

Y. W. C. A.

"How Do You Pray?" was the subject for discussion at last week's meeting. The meeting was in charge of Miss Bickel who gave a splendid talk on this important question. A summary of her talk follows:

"The influence of prayer upon our lives lies wholly in the manner in which we pray. A prayer which expresses selfish desires does not bear with it a benefit. Prayers simply for ourselves are selfish. God always answers our prayers. Sometimes they are not answered according to our wishes or as soon as we expect. This is due to the nature of the request and leads to a self-examination to discover wherein the error lies. It may have been because of ingratitude for former answers or it may be that God wishes to test our faith, patience and sincerity.

It should not only be a duty but a pleasure to pray. In times of discouragement we find in Him an ever-present Comforter, more availing than the sympathy of our closest friend. Our joys also He is anxious to share. His spirit toward our prayers is expressed in the verse, 'If we ask anything according to His will, He heareth us.'"

Literary Societies

Zwinglian Society

The miscellaneous program in Zwinglian on Friday evening was opened by a pleasant reading of Whittier's "Maude Muller," by Miss Maurer. Miss Furman followed with a vocal solo, sung with her usual charm and expression. A humorous stump speech was then delivered by Mr. Griffin. An excellent review of the new book, "The Real Adventure," by Henry K. Webster, was read by Miss Jones; after which Mr. Bomberger sang an exceptionally beautiful vocal solo and a catchy encore. The orator for the evening was Mr. Shearer, who developed his subject, "The Greatest Tragedy in the World," in a remarkably keen and masterful manner. The editor, Mr. Savage, concluded the program with a very clever and entertaining Review. Miss Rogers made the critic's remarks.

As this was the evening for the election of officers, that order of business was turned to and the following are the results: President, Ziegler; Vice President, Schaub; Treasurer, H. Gulick; Attorney, Hain; Recording Secretary, Miss Rhoads; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Maurer; Critic, Grove; Musical Director, Miss Grater; Chaplain, Yaukey; Janitor, Leiphart; Editor No. 1, Griffin; Editor No. 2, Bomberger; Junior Member of the Board of Directors, Savage; Library Representative, Bomberger.

Schaff Society

The program rendered in Schaff last Friday evening was general literary in nature. The first number, a violin solo by Mr. Peterman, was very well rendered. Miss Reifsnieder read an excellent essay on the life of Richard Harding Davis. A declamation from Abraham Lincoln's "Second Inaugural Address" was given by Mr. Houck in good style. A reading from Mr. Davis by Mr. Kochel followed. The next number was a declamation by Mr. Peterman. Mr. Willauer read a selection entitled "Agriculture." Mr. G. A. Deitz then favored the society with a vocal solo. A very interesting selection from Irvin Cobb was read by Miss Schweigert. Miss Bickel's essay on the life of Winston Churchill followed. Mr. S. M. Yeatts read in a pleasing manner from "Richard Carvel" by Mr. Churchill. A humorous number was the performance of the Schaff Band, led by Mr. Kehm. The Gazette for the evening was read by Miss Shaner. Mr. H. F. Gingrich gave the Critic's Report.

The officers elected for the ensuing term are as follows: President, Mr. Koons; Vice President, Mr. Kehm; Recording Secretary, Miss Boyd; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Wickersham; Chaplain, Mr. Truckess; First Editor, Mr. Sands; Second Editor, Mr. Houck; Third Editor, Miss Chandler; Pianist, Miss Slinghoff; Janitor, Mr. Peterman; Critic, Miss Miller.

On the Campus

The Classical Group held a special meeting last week and elected their officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Bomberger, '17; Vice-President, Putney, '18; Secretary, May, '19; and Treasurer, Yoch, '18.

At a recent meeting of the Freshman class, Messrs. May and Houck were elected as class representatives to the Student Council.

The members of the Senior class were very enjoyably entertained by Mrs. Ermold last Wednesday evening. Many of the old time games served as amusement. There was also ample opportunity to show one's artistic skill with the knife, needle or brush. The successful contestants received prizes. After refreshments had been served, a spirited bargain sale of the art productions with Mr. Kichline as auctioneer was held. Mrs. Ermold was assisted in entertaining by Misses Ermold, Hobson and Spangler of town.

The Brotherhood of Saint Paul banqueted in the College dining room last Thursday evening, as the guests of Dr. James I. Good. At a tastefully decorated table the members enjoyed all those delicacies of the season which Dr. Good, according to his annual custom, so kindly had set before them. After-dinner speeches were made by Pres. Omwake, Dean Kline and Rev. Messinger of Trappe.

The drawing for rooms for the year 1916-17 took place Wednesday morning immediately after chapel and as usual suites were greatly in demand.

This year the final examinations for underclassmen began Friday in order to make possible the observance of Decoration Day.

Last Thursday the Biology II class made a trip to Valley Forge to examine the interesting fauna and flora of that historic region. With the exception of a slight interruption by a shower in the afternoon the day was both pleasantly and profitably spent.

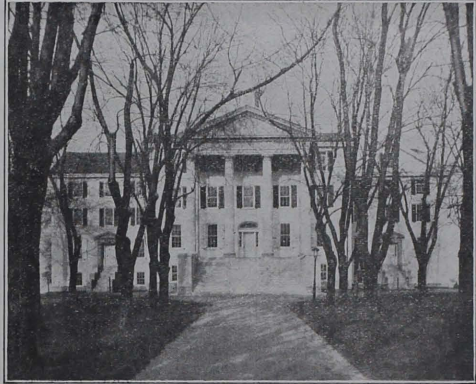

Swarthmore went down to defeat before Ursinus Saturday afternoon in a well-played tennis match to the tune of 4-2. E. Yeatts and H. Gulick excelled for Ursinus.

The Ursinus Reserves won another Saturday afternoon when they blanked Phoenixville High School by the score 4-0. The features of the game were the hitting of Wintyten and the pitching of Light who allowed only three singles and retired eighteen men on strikes.

about a transfer of the government Bureau of Religion from the Department of Home Affairs to the Department of Education and formed the happy union of religion and education which has since done so much for Japan. Since then mission schools have grown to great popularity and the need is constantly increasing for more facilities in this work.

Dr. Schneider closed with a masterful but gentle appeal to satisfy this need and showed how it involves our responsibility to furnish not only the religious but also the moral foundation for Japan.

Schaff Essay Contest

At a recent meeting of Schaff Literary Society, W. R. Gobrecht, '16, chairman of the Freshman-Sophomore Prize Essay Committee, awarded the prizes to the winners of the contest. Mr. Isaac Koehel, '18, received the first prize, $10 in gold; Mr. Wilbur McKee, '18, the second prize, $5 in gold; Miss Elsie Bickel, '18, the third prize, $2.50 in gold; and honorable mention was awarded to Mr. Robert Trucksess, '19. The titles of the prize essays in their order were: "The Social Effects of the Present War," "A Pound of Flesh," "The Sign of the Cross," and "Our Country's Greatest Need." As judge for the contest the committee was fortunate enough to secure the services of Prof. Chas. B. Heinely, '00, who is, at the present time, instructor in Biology and Physics in the York High School. That this feature of Schaff's work is becoming more popular each year is evinced by the fact that thirteen members competed this year. We feel sure that, if the alumni continue to lend their support by their kind suggestions and generous contributions, the contest will be even a greater success in the future.
