SENIORS GUESTS OF REV. AND MRS. YOST

Informal Reception Pronounced "Best Yet"

The members of the senior class laid aside their proverbial dignity last Monday evening and enjoyed a pleasant informal gathering as the guests of our librarian and his wife. It was with much misgiving that many of our members came to the "shine" for we wondered how our stern librarian could make an affair informal. A few minutes after entering the house of our hosts all thoughts of formality were lost in the cordial hand shake and make-yourself-at-home feeling that pervaded the gathering.

The rooms were tastefully decorated and the 1915 class pennants were conspicuous. The doors between the parlor and dining room were opened and we were all one crowd.

There were no moments of dullness for games had been arranged and the evening passed quickly in the enjoyment. The drawing and sewing contests afforded considerable amusement, and competition for the prizes was keen. "Bill" Fink created quite a sensation in his display of mystic powers and his hypnotic influences were felt by all present. Miss Schlichter's portrait sketch of Merrill Yost won the first prize. Misses Boorem and Wiest, Messrs. Fink and Singley won prizes in the sewing contest.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening were the refreshments. No prizes were given in this event but everybody competed.

Before leaving we gathered around the piano and sang a number of college and popular songs. We also sang our class song and added a stanza beginning, "They say the Yosts dot they aint got no shtyle."

Shortly after eleven o'clock we bid our hosts good-night and adjourned to our rooms agreed that we had never enjoyed so informal an informal reception. We are indeed delighted that Merrill Yost is a classmate of ours as no doubt this was a factor in the tendering of the reception. Every member of the class counts the Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Yost warmer personal friends since last Monday evening.

"OUR LEADER"

RALPH MITTERLING
Captain of the Varsity Team

There might have been a different tale on Saturday if "Jack" Mitterling had not played. Although there were no individual stars in the game, Captain Mitterling led his mates in every mix-up and his daring spirit kept every fellow "on his toes."

This is Jack's fourth year of service to his Alma Mater.

Senate Proceedings

At a meeting of the Student Senate last Monday evening the draft of an honor system which was returned by the faculty to the Senate with some suggestions was referred to a committee consisting of Glendenning, '15, Boyer, '15 and Kilmer, '15, who are to frame a new system and report to the Senate.

A resolution was passed that since the law of the Senate had been violated in the painting and pasting of posters on college and town property the Freshmen and Sophomores be given until October 15th to remove all paint and posters. If this is not done the Senate will employ someone to do it and the expense shall be equally divided between the two classes.

The clerk was instructed to notify the president of the freshman class regarding its care of the athletic field and the performance of various duties for the men who may be absent during athletic contests.

FIRST HOME GAME AN URSINUS VICTORY

Stain of Last Year's Defeat Wiped Out With a Vengeance.

Ursinus opened its home season by defeating the Wyoming Seminary football team 36 to 0. The up-state boys, under the capable tutelage of Quay, '11, came to us with the confidence of repeating their victory of last season. However, before the game had progressed far it was evident that the strength of our team had been underestimated by the visitors. Nevertheless, the Kingston lads must be commended for their plucky fight, for only by hard consistent playing were the collegians able to pile up so large a score.

Ursinus was held scoreless during the first period, although Mitterling's pass to Clark was grounded behind the goal line.

In the second period the Ursinus attack began to work effectively. 12 and 30-yard runs by Mitterling and Schaub put the ball on the 5-yard line and Kichline carried it over for our first score. Mitterling missed the goal. The second touchdown was made when Mitterling intercepted Dunn's pass and gains by Schaub, Kichline, Mitterling, and Gingrich pushed the ball over the goal line. Mitterling kicked the goal. During the same period Clark recovered a fumble. Gains by Gingrich, Schaub, and Kichline scored the third touchdown. Mitterling made the total 19 by kicking the goal. The first half ended with the ball in Ursinus' possession on Wyoming's 5-yard line.

Quay's men came back with increased spirit in the second half and displayed a strong defense. Mulford blocked Dunn's punt, and Ursinus recovered. Short gains by Kichline, Gingrich, Mitterling and Schaub, and a pass from Mitterling to Light put the ball on the 20-yard line. Mitterling, standing on Wyoming's 25 yard line, kicked a goal from placement. Schaub intercepted one of Dunn's passes and ran 35 yards. Gains by Mitterling, Gingrich, Kichline, and Light placed the ball on the 20-yard line. On the next play Mitterling circled the opponent's right end for a touchdown. He

The Tower Window

When the Honorable John Wanamaker visited us more than a year ago at Commencement, he asked me a great many questions about the college. When he found that we were counting on the support of large numbers of people for the maintenance of our work he immediately advised that we organize our constituency. The suggestion occupied my thought thereafter with a good deal of persistence, but it was not until we had assembled in the fall meeting of the directors that a plan for carrying out the suggestion came to me. There had been the usual discussion of ways and means, but nothing definite was proposed. However, a remark was dropped by the tall and genial gentleman from Lancaster that served to crystallize all the indeterminate ideas of the hour into a simple scheme which provided a means of carrying out the advice of Mr. Wanamaker. Thus the Maintainers' League of Ursinus College was conceived.

An attractive booklet embodying the plan and providing a convenient means of enrollment was prepared and during the present year this has been telling its own story to friends of the college. It invites each one to donate ten dollars during the year toward the support of the institution. Since ten thousand dollars are needed, we must enroll one thousand persons. When a league of one thousand friends is formed whose interest is registered by a substantial contribution, the college will not only have the necessary funds to carry on its work without hindrance, but it will have around it an organized body of maintainers, the weight of whose personal influence will be of even more value than their contributions. It would require an endowment fund of $200,000 to yield the income needed. We want to endow our college with money, but in this instance we seek an endowment of human interest and endeavor.

The Maintainers' League has now been before the public for a sufficient length of time to have its merits pretty thoroughly tested, and it is gratifying that not an unfavorable comment has been heard about this movement. On the other hand, it has called forth expressions of enthusiastic commendation. It certainly provides a way for the smaller benefactors to unitedly do one big thing.

AUTUMN LEAVES

PROFESSOR H. E. CROW

At this season of the year when the many colors of leaves are the most brilliant there always arises the question: "What causes this change in colors?" To answer this question in a somewhat general manner is the object of this paper.

In the embryonic cells of the rapidly growing leaf there develop a large number of small, colorless, semi-fluid bodies, which are called plastids. These are of various shapes in different plants, but usually spherical or ellipsoidal. The plastids remain colorless as long as they are not exposed to the light, but as the leaf grows from its covering into the sunlight they become a bright yellowish-green. In this transformation the fundamental structure of the plastids is not changed, but the color is due to numerous droplets, or granules, in the plastids, containing yellow and green pigments. So numerous are these plastids that the leaf appears as a solid mass of green. These green plastids are the chemical laboratories in which are formed the sugars so abundant in all plants. Through the long summer days water and carbon-dioxide are being combined in these tiny laboratories, and the sugars thus formed are transported to other parts of the plant. But usually the sugars are made so rapidly that they cannot be carried away so the excess is stored in the plastids as starch. During the night this starch is reconverted into sugar and removed from the leaves to other parts of the plants. Now starch manufacture is favored by high temperatures, so on cooler days the transportation is equal, or nearly equal, to the manufacturing capacity; hence very little starch would be found in the leaves but a larger amount of sugar, proportionately. Should anything interfere with the rapid transporting of this sugar it may remain in the leaf and be changed to an acid. This is exactly what happens in the autumn. As the dry weather of late summer progresses the tree must make provision for the evaporation of less water from its body, consequently it begins to cut off some of the exposed surfaces—i. e., the leaves. To do this a little wedge of corky tissue is thrown between the twig and the leaf stalk. Slowly this closes upon the ducts, cutting off not only the conduction of water into the leaf, but also the transporting of sugar away from the leaf. With the decreased water supply, and the consequent formation of an acid sap in the leaves, the green plastids undergo disorganization. Usually the green color disappears first, leaving the yellow, which had been hidden by the green, very prominent; hence the yellow color of leaves in early autumn. Later in the same leaf the yellow pigment may be replaced by a bright red, which is due to the complete disorganization of the plastids and the mixing of their decomposed products with the sap of the cell.

In many plants the leaves have both the colored plastids and colored cell sap. This sap is a watery substance with certain pigments dissolved in it so it may be almost any color but usually scarlet, crimson, purple and sometimes blue. This colored sap may be present in small amounts and hidden by the green plastids, but if in large amounts as in the purple beech leaf, it may almost hide the green. So with the disorganization of the green and yellow the other colors become prominent, but it is the combination of the colors in the plastids and those in the sap which make the most beautiful tints. It must have been of these that Whittier was thinking when he wrote so beautifully:

"Autumn's earliest frost had given
To the woods below
Hues of beauty, such as heaven
Lendeth to its bow;
And the soft breeze from the west
Scarcely broke their dreamy rest."

Professor Rapp Takes Examination

At the close of last week's work Professor Rapp quietly slipped away from Collegeville, took a speedy trip to Chicago, where before a committee of the faculty of the University of Chicago he passed his final examination for the doctorate in philosophy. After a three-hour examination which covered the work done in the graduate school, as well as a defense of the thesis submitted in fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of doctor of philosophy, Mr. Rapp was informed by the committee that the examination was satisfactory and that the degree would be conferred cum laude. Professor Millikan has said of Mr. Rapp's thesis that it was one of the strongest experimental arguments in support of the kinetic theory of gasses that had been produced in the last few years. Every requirement has now been satisfied by Mr. Rapp and all that remains is the formal conferring of the degree.

All this was done so quickly and unostentatiously that Professor Rapp was back in time to meet his classes this week.

Among the Colleges

For a long time Bucknell has felt the need of some form of entertainment at the end of each week to hold the attention of the students. The suggestion was made that the students give a series of dances for the benefit of the Athletic Association. Accordingly, some of the students went to work to find what the sentiment of the student body was concerning this form of entertainment. The idea met with approval everywhere and arrangements have been made to give a dance every Saturday night.

Muhlenberg has been working hard to keep up the enthusiasm of the students in football. At a regular meeting of the student body it was decided to hold smokers on October 9th, October 23rd and November 6th. These dates fall just before the Susquehanna, Lehigh and Lafayette games respectively.

The cane rush at Lafayette was won by the Freshmen, the score being 15 to 11. It had been previously decided that the scrap should run the regulation time regardless of the number of "killed or wounded." According to "The Lafayette," the contest was no full-dress affair by any means.

Heidelberg University reports the following lecture course for the coming year: Enrico Aresoni and Martin Bruhl, musicians of fame; Richard P. Hobson, the orator; Hon. Frank J. Cannon, Utah lecturer; Montraville M. Wood, scientist; The University Oratorio Society and Soloists; Dr. Edward A. Steiner, lecturer and author; and The Zoelner String Quartette. The season tickets will be sold at $1.50.

Yale has developed an organization by which they hope to decrease the number of deaths among athletes. This end is to be accomplished by a system of training that will develop the man along many lines so that the training for football will not be so injurious to him.

Princeton has a new stadium, costing $300,000 and seating 41,000 persons. It is built in the shape of a horseshoe and of solid concrete.

Last week's issue of the WEEKLY stated that F. and M.'s football outlook was not so bright. That opinion was based on newspaper reports, which goes to show you cannot believe all you read. We extend our heartiest congratulations to F. and M. for their victory over Penn., and hope to show them a fine time on November 14th.

We appreciate "The Lafayette's" excellent write-up in the September 30th issue concerning our prospects in football.

Editorial

This is the time of the year when we hear considerable of the word "pep." Every student knows what it means, that it stands for that spirit of enthusiasm which finds expression in action. Athletics in college would be a mere routine if there was no injection of spirit, for one half of the effort of the man on the team is the result of the cheers from the side lines. Thus we count spirit an essential to real, live, red-blooded athletics.

There is another species of spirit which should receive the consideration of every student who is interested in a "bigger Ursinus." One of the advantages of a small college is the contact that comes in the intimate association of students. Nothing that we do, whether it be in the field of class-room, literary, athletic or religious action, is free from influence upon others. This influence is a spirit which works either to our advantage or to our disadvantage.

We should endeavor to cultivate a spirit of charity of thought, of freedom from the petty prejudices that belittle our companions and make our college the arena of conflicts rather than the gathering of kindred beings all intent upon the development of our institution. We may not all agree with our president that the place of honor should be given to the grind, but we believe the man or woman who holds the high ideal of the common good of a "bigger Ursinus" should take a seat among the honored.

We need bigger men and women in our student body, those who will make their influence count for the creation of an atmosphere which shall be more than "bookishly" intellectual, if we may coin such a term, which shall distinguish us as a student body working harmoniously for the betterment of ourselves and the advancement of the standard of our Alma Mater. C. F. D., '15.

kicked the goal. Dunn then kicked off to Enke on the 40-yard line. Kichline gained 12 yards and Wyoming was penalized half the distance to the goal. Gains by Kichline, Light, Gingrich, and Schaub gave Ursinus her last touchdown. Mitterling kicked the goal. Light received Dunn's kick-off on Ursinus' 15-yard line and ran the ball back 35 yards before being brought down by a Wyoming tackler. The whistle ended play at this time.

The Ursinus line was a tower of strength on the defense and on the offense opened the opponent's line for consistent gains, while the backs especially distinguished themselves by circling the ends for long gains.

Wyoming gained most of its ground by the use of the forward pass. Brominski, Dunn, and Bible played the best game for the visitors.

The line-up:

| URSINUS | Positions | WYOMING |
|------------|-----------------|-----------|
| Bowman | Left End | Bible |
| Carter | Left Tackle | Black |
| Mulford | Left Guard | Adams |
| Kerr | Centre | Van Horn |
| Minich | Right Guard | Perkins |
| Gingrich | Right Tackle | Strunck |
| Clark | Right End | Brominski |
| Light | Quarter-back | Haston |
| Shaub | Right Half-back | Poad |
| Kichline | Full-back | Dunn |

Time of quarters—10 and 12 minutes. Substitutes—Harris for Poad, Walsh for Smythe, Brown for Bowman, Ott for Carter, Enke for Mulford, Evans for Kichline, Hartranft for Enke. Touchdowns—Kichline, 2; Gingrich, Mitterling, Schaub. Field goal—Mitterling. Goal from touchdowns—Mitterling, 3. Referee Thorn of Haverford. Umpire—Howell, of Princeton. Head linesman—Keyser, Ursinus.

Music and flowers are evangels of purity and faith, redolent of God, if we but unlock our hearts to their ministry; and the man or woman who is impervious to their subtle, spiritualizing influences may feel assured that there is something essentially wrong in his or her organization or habits of life.—Augusta Evans.

IMPORTANT!

To those who are not readers of the WEEKLY this copy comes with a special appeal. For something over a decade the WEEKLY has continued in the same shape and form. The college, however, has made, in the past few years, great strides forward. It became absolutely necessary that a paper be published to meet the growing demands of the Greater Ursinus. To almost double its size at any one time is a great change for any publication to make. This is fully realized by the WEEKLY, but it remembers two classes of friends to whom it comes in its new form, the alumni and friends of the institution. To the alumni we would say that not one-half of your number is now among the WEEKLY's subscribers. Of our friends we would ask, if, deep down in your heart there is not a desire to hear from the institution in which you have an interest, an interest which we hope is an abiding one. We believe that the ratio of alumni readers can be materially increased and that the many friends of the college will be very glad to hear from it every week. With this in mind, then, this copy is sent to you for your consideration. Can we not depend on your support in this the latest venture of the Greater Ursinus? Your hearty co-operation is hereby most respectfully solicited. D. F. S.

 Friday, October 16—7.40 p. m., Literary Societies.
 Saturday, October 17—Football, Varsity vs. Penn State at State College.

We call the attention of the students to the exchanges in the library. You will find weekly papers and monthly magazines from many colleges and high schools which are placed at your disposal. A full list of our exchanges will be published in the near future. There is only one regulation which we ask you to observe, and that is to place the paper or magazine back where it belongs after you have finished reading it.

Literary Societies

Schaff Society

A very pleasing program of a miscellaneous nature was rendered last Friday evening. The numbers were as follows: Violin Solo, Miss Shaner; Essay, "Monticello, the National Shrine," Miss Miller; Parody on a Speech of "Hamlet," Mr. Yeatts; Vocal Solo, Miss Hyde; Declamation, Mr. Johnson; Essay, "The New Forest Reserves in the Eastern Mountains," Mr. Kehm; Reading from Riley, Mr. Richards; Recitation from Riley, Miss Faulkner; Gazette, Mr. Light; Oration, "Compelled Men," Mr. Vogel.

Under voluntary exercises, Miss Shepard favored the society with several recitations and Mr. Hiwale rendered selections on the satar.

Zwinglian Society

The main feature of the program on Friday evening was a debate: "Resolved, that the United States should establish a system of shipping subsidies." The affirmative side was ably debated by Messrs. Stugart, Hain and Mulford; the negative side of the question was upheld by Messrs. Ziegler, Schnatz and Boyer. The judges, Messrs. Bahner and Kerchner, decided in favor of the affirmative. The musical numbers consisted of a vocal solo by Mr. Derr and a piano duet by Misses Butler and Rogers. Mr. Kerr read the Zwinglian Review and Miss Rahn gave the critic's report.

The society was pleased to hear from Messrs. Quay and Gerges, both ex-members of Zwing.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting on Wednesday evening was led by Minich, '15, who spoke on "Our Goals for This Year."

The thoughts expressed were: A goal is the same as an ideal and each one sets for himself a goal regardless of whether or not he can ever attain it. Everyone who has good, red blood in his veins will place that goal high, and he who is unwilling to encounter a difficult task is a coward.

This year, the goal of the Y. M. C. A. is to get every student interested in its work. We must guard against that ever-present tendency to throw off home restraint, to the utter neglect of our spiritual life. The success of an organization depends upon its strength, and the Y. M. C. A. needs the individual as much as the latter needs the Y. M. C. A. An awakened conscience among the students should be aroused, and if the Y. M. C. A. can accomplish this, it will have performed its purpose.

Alumni Notes

W. R. "Paddles" Douthett, '12, in addition to his duties as instructor in History in the Bloomfield, N. J. High School, is pursuing a course of study at Columbia University, New York City, leading to an A. M. degree.

The Ministerial Association of the Reformed Church of Lancaster County met in the First Reformed church, Lancaster, Pa., last Monday. Rev. J. Hunter Watts, '94, read a well prepared and interesting paper on the subject, "In what sense does love, as a fruit of the spirit, differ from that which is common in man." Rev. H. S. Shelley, '97, read a sermon outline on 1 John 3: 24, on the theme, "Love, a fruit of the spirit."

Albert Long, '12, who is teaching physics and coaching football and track athletics in the Paterson, N. J. High School, is taking post-graduate work at Columbia, toward an A. M. degree.

In looking through the June copy of the Conwayan, a monthly publication edited by the students of Conway Hall, we find the name of Charles L. Mauer, '12, among the members of the faculty. He holds the position of Master of History and is the senior critic of one of the literary societies. He received the degree of A. M. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1913.

Rev. A. N. Stubblebine, '96, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, Newark, N. J., of which Deininger, '15, is a member, is conducting a campaign, to last fifty days, in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the church. The aim is to add 50 new members to the church, 50 to the Sunday school, and 50 to each of the organizations connected with the church. Rev. Stubblebine is entering upon his tenth year of service at Bethany.

Last Saturday evening at a party held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Applegate of Bridgeton, N. J., the engagement of Mr. Chester Robbins, '13, and Miss Grace S. Strock, both of Bridgeton, was announced. Mr. Robbins is a member of the faculty in the High School at that place, and is also the successful coach of the football team representing that institution, which last Saturday held our Scrubs to a 7-7 tie.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. was favored on Friday with a visit from Miss Richardson, our student secretary. She gave the girls many suggestions how to make the work more efficient.

Our ideal should be a poised womanhood. Here many elements are to be taken into account. To have a balanced life we must recognize, first, the debt we owe our bodies. Again, even questions of dress and personal expenditures should be considered. Most important is our friendship with Christ. We must give Him time just as to our earthly friends or our friendship will be a mere acquaintance.

The meeting was closed by repeating the motto of the Student Federation: "Not by might, not by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts."

On the Campus

We had a great time around here a week ago Saturday. It isn't every day in the week that we can make such an excellent showing against Lafayette and the score was worth making a fuss about. You folks who have been here can well imagine our feelings when the news was flashed over the wire—Ursinus 7, Lafayette 7. There could be but one result to such good tidings, so the boys began to gather material. In a few hours a huge pile of timber awaited the torch east of Bomberger.

About 10 o'clock a sturdy crew in "nighties" and pajamas manned the farm wagon and the parade began. Olevian and Shreiner Halls were visited and our loyal rooters, the co-eds., were placed in the wagon with Miss Lewis as chaperon. President Omwake responded to a cheer and gave us a short talk from his front porch. The program from his house to the Bridge Hotel consisted of songs, yells and noise.

When the car arrived with our warriors aboard the girls yielded their place of honor to the football men and the line retraced its steps. Yells were given at the home of every professor in town. Conway, the greatest rooter in town, accompanied all yells and cheers on an old brass horn with which he celebrates all Ursinus victories.

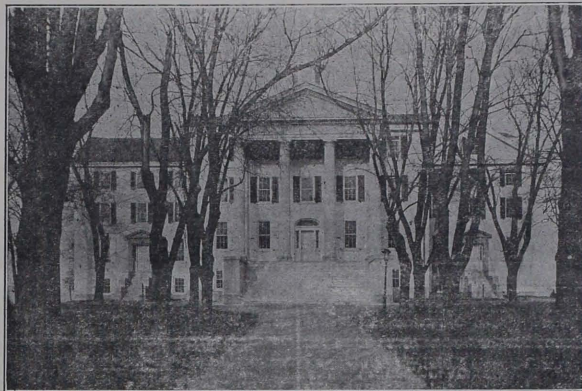

When the parade reached the campus the bon pile broke into flames and soon was a roaring mass. The coach and many of the varsity responded to calls for speeches, while everybody yelled and whooped.

We're proud of our fellows, and will give them the same display of enthusiasm when fortune hides her smiling face from them. As Doc. Kerr would say, "Let it be so."

In recognition of the excellence of the music department of Ursinus a scholarship of $300 has been offered by the college through the generosity of a friend who wishes his name withheld for the benefit of a student who desires to specialize in music.

The Freshman class organized on Monday by electing the following officers: President, John R. Bowman; Vice President, Harry Carter; Secretary, Anna Willever; Treasurer, Charles R. Will; Football Manager, Adam E. Schellhase.

Jacob Hartranft, '15, is the new captain of the Reserve football team. "Jake" has been an earnest, hard worker during the three years that he has been a member of the squad, and we predict a successful season for the Scrubs under his able leadership.

THE CURRICULUM

embraces four years of work in the arts and sciences leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science, and includes

SEVEN GROUPS OF COURSES

I. THE CLASSICAL GROUP

This is a course in the liberal arts with special emphasis upon the Latin and Greek languages. It is specially adapted to fit students for the theological schools and for general work in the teaching profession.

II. THE LATIN-MATHEMATICAL GROUP

This group has exceptional disciplinary value and provides a broad general culture. It constitutes an excellent group for students expecting to make teaching their life work.

III. THE MATHEMATICAL-PHYSICAL GROUP

This group includes advanced courses in mathematics and the sciences. It is designed for students who wish to teach these subjects, or who wish to pursue courses in high grade technical schools.

IV. THE CHEMICAL-BIOLOGICAL GROUP

This group is designed primarily for students who expect to enter the medical profession and for persons who wish to become specialists in chemistry and in the biological sciences.

V. THE HISTORICAL-POLITICAL GROUP

This group furnishes thorough preparation for the study of the law, and enables students who expect to teach to become specialists in history, economics, political economy and public finance.

VI. THE ENGLISH-HISTORICAL GROUP

This group fits the student for a life of letters in general and offers exceptional advantages for persons expecting to enter the educational profession.

VII. THE MODERN LANGUAGE GROUP

This group affords special advantages to students who expect to enter the field of literature, or who desire to become specialists in teaching the modern languages.

Smoker a Success

At 7.30 o'clock on Wednesday evening the boys of Ursinus together with many members of the Faculty and numerous townspeople, assembled in the dining hall in East Wing and held an "Ursinus Smoker." J. T. Ebert, the treasurer of the college, presented to each person a special pipe and a can of good smoking tobacco.

Evidently, the boys had been posted as to the use of these implements for in a few minutes clouds of smoke could be seen rising from each pipe.

The assembly was called to order by Minich, president of the Athletic Association; and R. Miller, the newly elected cheer-leader, led the boys in a rousing "E-yoh" yell for the varsity.

Coach Gerges then gave a splendid talk full of encouragement and enthusiasm. He made a special plea to the student body for enthusiastic support of the teams. Captain Mitterling followed with a few remarks which were heartily received.

Dr. Omwake was greeted with a resounding cheer and his address, which gave much of the athletic history of Ursinus, showed clearly the unbounded possibilities of the "Greater Ursinus."

J. T. Ebert was then called upon and gave a very encouraging talk. He appealed to the team to give Coach Quay, one of our own graduates and the present coach of Wyoming Seminary eleven, whom we will meet on Saturday, a warm reception.

Dr Smith then spoke of the value of athletics in different institutions with which he has been connected. He spoke for the encouragement of the student-athlete but for the discouragement of the athlete-student.

Many others spoke including Clarence Place, '05, Professor Rapp, and several of the varsity men.

Following the many talks, college songs and yells were given and the assembly adjourned filled with "pep" and determined to do the utmost for the success of the football team.
