PILLARS OF HERCULES

(Washington and Lincoln)

BY WALTER F. LONGACRE

Two massive rocks, tradition-flung,
Gibraltar and the Afric hill,
Outlast their mythic builder's tongue
And guard the Eastern gateway still,
Whence freedom sprang when states were young.

Two giant men, of crises born,
The country's sire and sole compeer,
Loom mighty in the New-World morn:
The one impregnable, austere;
The other vibrant, like a horn.

Behold them as they tower high,
The landmarks of our civic pride;
They buttress, nerve and fortify
The yearning millions at their side,
Strong bulwarks toward the western sky.
From The New York Independent.

Walter Force Longacre was a member of the class of '95. On account of an affection of the eyes he was obliged to leave college without taking a degree. Two brothers, however, are graduates of Ursinus.

SEMINARY NOTES

Dr. D. A. Souders, of Irwin, Pa., District Home Missionary Superintendent for the Ohio and Pittsburg Synods, delivered a series of lectures on mission work and methods last Thursday and Friday.

The Chorus sang several selections at a musical given under the auspices of the German Reformed Missions.

Beck, '12, spent the week-end and Sunday at his home in Bloomville, Ohio, where he occupied the pulpit in place of his father, Rev. E. M. Beck.

The Y. M. C. A. has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, W. S. Kerschner, '12; Vice-President, R. S. Beaver, '13; Secretary, J. K. Stoudt, '12; Treasurer, 'E. R. Hamme, '12.

VIRGINIUS

Rehearsals were held nightly during the past week and at the present time the cast is fast approaching a state of perfection which is seldom seen in amateur theatricals. With the dress rehearsals of Saturday and Monday nights the preparations will cease, and by that time it is expected that the cast will be fully prepared for the very difficult production of this most excellent representation of ancient Roman life and methods. Mr. J. Edward Lane is at present engaged in putting the finishing touches on the scenery, and everything will be in readiness when the time comes for the presentation. A crowded house is looked for and expected and anyone who has not secured a seat should do so at once as some choice seats are still to be had.

CLASS HONORS

At a meeting of the Faculty held on Tuesday afternoon, action was taken regarding the awarding of the class honors for 1911. First honors were awarded to M. Irene Dunn, of Steelton, Pa., and the salutatory oration was assigned to Wesley R. Gerges, Royersford, Pa.

DR. OMWAKE ILL

Dr. Omwake's condition has become worse during the past week and at the present time the Vice-President is confined to his bed at his home on Sixth Ave. What at first was considered merely a slight attack of rheumatism has developed into a serious nervous breakdown and an extended rest will be necessary for a complete recovery. The sympathy of the student-body is extended to Dr. Omwake in his present affliction and all join in wishing for him a speedy recovery.

One thousand loyal sons of the University of Pennsylvania did honor to the present provost and ex-provost on University Day, February 22. Degrees of LL. D. were conferred on Chas. C. Harrison and Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The latter delivered the oration of the day.

President Warfield of Lafayette in a late speech made the remark that he blushed to know that a football coach receives more compensation than a college professor and intimated that athletics are rapidly taking the place of that fine old spirit of academic scholarship.

BASEBALL OUTLOOK

With the near approach of spring the baseball bug is beginning to hum around at Ursinus. The prospects for a winning team are very encouraging, and every indication points to a combination that will be able to measure up to the standard of last year's team. Although the team will suffer to some extent by the loss of Bunting, who has left college to join the Washington Americans, and Mumpher, who had made a good preparatory school record and who was expected to materially strengthen the team, the men at present in college are expected to more than make good. With the exception of Palmer, a pitcher and outfielder on last year's team, all the old men are still in college and will be on hand to fight for their respective positions.

Captain Horten will again be the mainstay in the pitcher's box and will have his old battery mate, Pownall, on the receiving end. Boyer, a freshman who made a reputation for himself at Slippery Rock Normal School, will likely share the pitching honors with Horten. In the infield, Gay, Starr, West and ex-Captain Isenberg, last year's successful combination, will again be found contesting for positions. Mitterling, a freshman from Bloomsburg Normal, will make a strong bid for one of the infield positions.

For the outfield, Kichline and K. Thompson are the regulars from last year, while Captain Horten will occupy a position in the outfield when he is not performing the pitching honors. Several members of last year's scrub team give promise of developing into Varsity material and will make some of the old men hustle for their positions.

Although no formal call has been issued for candidates, the warm weather of the last week has brought the ball tossers out in full force and the work of conditioning the throwing arms has been started. Light batting practice was also indulged in on several days.

The opening contest with Princeton is only three weeks distant and the real work will soon be started.

The football games of the late season netted Lafayette a profit of $3,695.

After a service of twenty-two years to Dickinson, President G. E. Reed has tendered his resignation to take effect in the spring.

THE OLD CHURCH AT TRAPPE

To the stranger in the village of Trappe, there is but one building worthy of more than a casual glance. That is what is commonly known as the Old Church. The rest of the houses, hotels and churches are quite ordinary in appearance and very little different from those in many other Pennsylvania towns. From the historical associations which cluster about it, the Old Church draws hundreds of visitors to Trappe every summer.

I distinctly remember the afternoon on which I first saw it. It was near the middle of July. The day had been hot and sultry; clouds of dust hung in a white haze over the macadamized highway and deep down in the west dark thunder clouds were gathering.

The road was deserted, and acting upon some mistaken advice of a stranger, I got off the trolley car perhaps a quarter of a mile outside of Trappe—and that quarter consisting of an unusually long and steep hill. My state of mind and body upon reaching the top of the hill can better be imagined than described. The very recollection is painful, so I will pass over that and go on to my subject, the Old Church itself.

Hot and dusty as I was, when I looked to the left and saw an uninviting brick structure, with a high steeple that proclaimed to the world its nineteenth century origin, a wave of disappointment came over me. Was that blatantly new and prosperous edifice the oldest Lutheran church in America? It was ridiculous.

I overcame my disgust to some degree, however, and started to stroll up the long walk leading to the church door. The cooling shade of the stately maple trees had a soothing effect upon the irritation caused by my disappointment and I was beginning to regain my equanimity when I caught sight of a low white building glimmering through the trees, on my right. It took but a few seconds for me to realize that I had been mistaken in my first conclusion. This, my new discovery, was the real old church.

It lies slightly behind its successor, the red brick building in use today, and seems to have been relegated to a subordinate position. The two reminded me forcibly of an aged, white-haired grandmother

EDITORIAL

For a long time we have heard student government talked of at Ursinus. Its advocates have never seemed enough concerned, however, to do anything definite towards adopting it. That it is just the thing we need becomes more apparent every day. It has worked and is working with great success in other colleges. In certain schools it has been a failure, due not to the fact that student government itself was lacking, but that in those institutions where it failed the system of the government was in part or wholly wrong or the students were not in a fit condition to undertake ruling themselves.

The time of faculty intervention in student affairs is passing and in fact in some institutions has passed. The time of long faculty trials of student misdemeanors is on the wane. The faculty is at the institution for teaching, and not for wasting precious time punishing some malicious student for a thoughtless prank. If a student is undesirable in these days, he is quietly told that his presence is no longer desired and suddenly the undesirable one becomes sick and must leave for a more healthful climate, or some other excuse is patched up to serve the purpose of covering up his departure. Authorities of colleges at large have given up the idea of attaining large numbers of students and have rather undertaken the task of obtaining a better quality. A student-body of three hundred desirable students is better than one of four hundred, seventy-five of whom are totally undesirable.

This plan of sending away undesirable students is bound to be arbitrary. It places this power in the hands of one or two persons. No student-body wishes to be governed in an arbitrary manner, and there is but one way to prevent it. That way is the adoption of a system of student government.

During the past week an event took place which, although it was spontaneously and quietly done, if carefully nurtured and enlarged upon, would mean a thing of great importance to Ursinus. The first steps toward a system of student government were undertaken when, at a meeting of the group presidents on Wednesday, it was decided that each group should elect a committee of four which, with the group president, should be a part of a larger committee consisting of the committees and presidents of the other groups. The Modern Language and English-Historical groups were not included in this, since the members of these two groups are entirely young ladies, and for the attainment of the object for which the committee was formed it was not necessary that they be represented. Since four groups are represented, the committee would consist of twenty members, whose duty it shall be to keep watch for anything which might occur that is uncalled for and either report it to the faculty or punish it themselves as they see fit.

This, indeed, is student government in a crude state, but let us hope it will not stop here but become more highly organized and consequently gain in efficiency as time goes on.

SOCIETY NOTES

SCHAFF

The subject for debate last week, "Resolved, That reciprocity with Canada would be beneficial to the United States," was a timely one and proved to be quite interesting. Cassel, '13, and Elicker, '14, representing the affirmative side, won the debate by the following arguments:

1. Greater freedom of trade between Canada and the United States is absolutely necessary.

2. Reciprocity would be advantageous economically.

3. Reciprocity would be practical.

The negative side, upheld by Jacobs, '13, and Gebhard, '14, argued as follows:

1. Back of reciprocity is the idea of free trade.

It will ruin the most important industry in the United States, namely, farming.

3. A former reciprocity treaty with Canada was disastrous to the

The remainder of the program consisted of the following numbers: Piano Solo, Miss Bartman, '13; Declamation, "Napoleon's Speech," Fisher, '14; Vocal Duet, Misses Moser, '13, and Detwiler, '14; Vocal Solo, Small, '14; Girls' Chorus, Miss Brooks, '12, leader. The Gazette, by Detwiler, '13, was an especially good one.

ZWINGLIAN
As a deviation from the general rule, a few entertaining features took the place of the usual more solid ones last Friday. That they met with approval was doubtless due to their diverting nature. Speaking of the program in general, special mention must be given to the soliloquy by Lockhart, '13, the illustrated songs of Behney, '12, and Kerschner, '12, the cornet solo of Alleva, '14, and the impromptu speeches of Godshall, '11, and Herson, '12, dealing respectively with "What a Literary Society Stands For," and "First Impressions of America." The other numbers that contributed to the success of the evening are as follows: Piano Solo, Fegely, '14; Reading, Ward, '14; German Quartet, Keener, '11, Strack, '11, Hess, '14, and Ward, '14; Girls' Chorus, Misses Austerberry, '11, Beach, '13, Fisher, '13, Wagner, '14; Vocal Duet, Quay, '11, Miss Fisher, '13; Oration, Keener, '11, and Zwinglian Review, Hess, '14.

Y. W. C. A.
The regular monthly missionary meeting was held by the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday evening. The leader, Miss Miller, took as her subject, "The Remarkable Spiritual Movement in Russia." The following points were brought out by the leader:
A great spiritual movement has been in progress for the last few months in St. Petersburg and Moscow through the evangelistic efforts of the pastor of the newly-formed Baptist Church, Mr. Fetler. Mr. Fetler is peculiarly fitted by birth, mental endowments and spiritual qualifications to be the instrument in God's hands for the spread of evangelistic truth in Russia. He has given himself up to the evangelization of this great nation.

commodate the crowds who come to hear the simple exposition of Scriptural truth from his lips. It is only within the last five years that Russia has had any liberty to worship God according to conscience. Among the converts in the missions are some of the worst characters in the city, so that the benefit to the government is evident and the rulers should perceive that the unfettered preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ does produce righteousness in a nation.

Y. M. C. A.
The regular weekly meeting of the association was devoted to the reports of Herber and Matlack who attended the Forty-third Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian Association at West Chester last week. Both gentlemen gave very enthusiastic and inspiring reports of this gathering. The central theme of the reports was "Practicability." At the convention were representatives from college, railroad, manufactory, coal mine and various other associations. Wonders are being worked among the workingmen of the country as well as the college men. The Y. M. C. A. is studying their problems and giving them what they need, which is, first of all, Jesus Christ. The importance of Y. M. C. A. work in college cannot be overestimated. When we leave college we will be either of great good or great harm to the moral and religious standards of the communities in which we may live, for a college man is expected to set a standard worthy of being followed. It will be our duty in whatever walk of life we are found to hold up the standards of Christian manhood. We should begin in college if we have not done so before.

accompanied by her towering son. The latter attracts the first attention of the spectator, but the former receives real care and consideration. The Old church is constructed of gray plaster and roofed with shingle. Over the low arched doorway there is a tablet with a Latin inscription and the date of erection, "1743." 1743, thirty-two years before our revolution, when Washington was chopping down the cherry tree and Franklin was munching his rolls through the streets of Philadelphia.

Notwithstanding its great age the building has been well kept. Its doors and windows look down upon us in the same condition as they did upon the congregations of so many years ago. Its walls are strong and will withstand the buffets of the north wind in future winters just as firmly as in the days of old. Stout hearts had those early settlers of the Perkiomen Valley, and they built them stout churches as well.

Overcome by the spell of the past that hung about the place, I sat down upon the bench before the church and gazed at it until I closed my eyes and imagined that I would hear and see the congregation of a hundred and sixty years before. The laughing children, their officious elders, the venerable pastor, all passed before me in review—into that church and through the church door. How many generations had that old building seen pass in that same way! How many of our forefathers has it seen pass from childhood to old age—to that churchyard? That barnlike, crude, plaster covered church has not about it the glamour of the marble cathedrals of abroad. No delicate traceries of ivory or majestic columns adorn it; no magnificent dome tops it with splendor. It is a simple, plain meeting-house, built for the use for which a church ought to be built—to give the people a place where they can worship God. R. A. A., '13.
