BASE BALL

URSINUS I. INDIANS 5.

A fast and interesting game was played on the home grounds with the Indian team from Carlisle. With the exception of one inning for Ursinus, both teams put up an excellent game, the home team showing a marked improvement in its field work. Both Roy and Mabry pitched steady ball, Roy having the better of the argument. A wild throw to third by Roy saved the home team from a shut-out. Twin at second played a star game, accepting everything that came near him.

Roy opened up for the Indians by singling to right. Youngdeer hit to Mabry who threw the runner out at first, Roy taking second on the play. Balenti hit to Kerschner who retired the runner at first. Archiquette doubled, scoring Roy. Twin went out, Colyer to Garcia.

For Ursinus, Paiste hit to third and was retired. Faringer struck out. Garcia hit to third. The ball was too hard to handle, but Garcia was thrown out trying to take second.

In the second Baird fouled to Faringer, and Porter knocked a fly to Paiste. Wahoo singled, stole second but was left there on Roy's out, Colyer to Garcia.

Colyer struck out. Kerschner knocked a fly to left and Koerper went out, Twin to Baird.

In the third round Youngdeer struck out, Balenti singled but was thrown out at second on Archiquette's grounder to Mabry. Hendricks was thrown out at first by Kerschner.

Crunkleton was safe on an error by Baird. He stole second. Roth flied to centre. Mabry hit to Roy who threw wild to third, Crunkleton scoring and Mabry reaching second. Paiste sacrificed Mabry to third, and Faringer was retired at first on his grounder to Twin.

Twin opened the fourth by flying

SCHAFF PRIZE DEBATE

The fifth annual prize debate of the Schaff Literary Society took place last Friday evening. The debate was interesting and both sides had their arguments well outlined. The question, "Resolved, that Municipal ownership and operation is a practical solution to the street railway problem in American cities," was debated affirmatively by Harmon, '06, Ellis, '07, and Danehower, '08; negatively, by Foltz, '06, Myers, '07, and Beck, '09. The judges, Dr. R. H. Spangler, '97, Rev. B. F. Paist, '99, and Rev. V. S. Rice, '01, decided in favor of the affirmative and awarded first prize to Mr. Harmon, second to Mr. Ellis, and third to Mr. Danehower.

The college quartette furnished the music for the occasion, and their songs were much enjoyed by the audience.

The chief arguments of the two sides are given as follows:

AFFIRMATIVE

The system of private ownership is objectionable because of the exorbitant rate of fare. Statistics prove that they are almost twice as high as necessary. The average fare in America is five cents, while in Milan it is 1.8 cents, Berlin 3.1, Budapest 2.7, London 2.5, and Glasgow 1.78.

Street railway service in America is poor. No attempt is made to meet the greater demand during rush hours. Dangerous crossings and overhead wires are a constant menace to public safety. Franchises are obtained through political influence and legitimate taxes are avoided.

Great wealth is centered in the hands of the few. A few syndicates and individuals control many lines. This is a tendency toward the congestion of wealth rather than the distribution of it.

Under municipal ownership and operation fares would be reduced, because the elimination of private gain would be accomplished. Expenses for lobbyists and attorneys for securing special legislation would be set aside. High-priced officials would no longer hold their positions.

Dividends on overcapitalization, which is a most pernicious evil, would be eliminated.

The treatment of the employees would be better because they would receive shorter hours and better wages.

The cities would be benefited financially and taxes reduced.

These railroads to-day are corrupting the civic life of the people. If we eliminate the cause, we will eradicate the disease.

This remedy has been found successful in both Europe and America.

NEGATIVE

The cost of taking over the street railways by the municipal government would be unconstitutional and would greatly exceed the constitutional limitation upon the power of the cities to incur indebtedness.

Private ownership and private operation with street government control, or municipal ownership and private operation would be more suitable at the present time.

The American people are not sufficiently educated for this new system, and conditions are different in Europe and America.

The present evils are only superficial and may be remedied by proper supervision and regulation.

The Street Railway Commission of Chicago, appointed to investigate the matter, said "We are confident that if the citizens of Chicago were given this opportunity through referendum, they would not." Their prophecy came true. The friends of Mayor Dunn regard his traction policy as a failure, utterly and absolutely; his opponents regard it as an unpleasant memory. Mayor Dabrymple of Glasgow said that he was convinced that the time was not yet for the municipalization of the Chicago railways.

One remedy for the existing evils is government supervision; not merely a declaration of the laws, but an effective administrative committee to see that the laws are not violated. Another remedy would be the public ownership of tracks and the private ownership of the rolling stock. This would put the cities in better position to deal with the private companies, give them a working basis, and do away with long franchises.

Under existing conditions municipal ownership and operation would create a fertile field for graft.

Private corporations are more ready to make improvements than municipalities.

Municipal ownership would be an economic waste. The gas works of Philadelphia and the Insurance Commission at Harrisburg are two good examples of how to waste public money.

It would demoralize politically. The greater the power and influence of political leaders, the more vivid the effects of bossism.

It would tend to crush individualism in that it lowers a large proportion of the working force from a position of public sovereignty to one of public servitude.

LECTURE RECITAL

Mrs. Lilian Briggs Fitz-Maurice will give a Lecture Recital on Descriptive or Program and Dance Forms in Bomberger Memorial Hall Tuesday evening May 15 at eight o'clock. A REPLY

Last week there appeared in these columns an article on muckerism. It was stated that at the last few games played on the home grounds, some of the students did not show the true college spirit and that they made many personal remarks about the players of the visiting team. We will admit that this is not the way to treat the visiting players and should be stopped. But the editorial seemed to have been directed almost entirely against the Freshman class, and if you will permit a few words of explanation we will endeavor to show that the discredit should not fall entirely upon the Freshmen. It was also stated that the Freshmen were "excusable" because "they knew no better." This may be true, but what can be said of some of the intellectual upper classmen who really are guilty of the muckerism? Do you think it fair that the Freshmen should receive all the blame for the muckerism? It is true that they may have violated the rules of college etiquette, but they are not the only offenders. If they did make any ungentlemanly remarks they were simply following the example set by a few upper-classmen, who are supposed to be their superiors. We would like to suggest that a little admonition in that direction might help to remedy the evil and restore the "old Ursinus spirit."

A member of the class of '09.

EDITORIAL

"If you can't boast don't knock" is an old maxim which, although expressed in slang terms, is full of meaning and can be made applicable to many things. The URSINUS WEEKLY is a publication of the students of this institution. It is by no means a paper issued in the interests of a few. It is always necessary that the direct work of management devolve upon a half-dozen or more persons in order that responsibility be fixed and success be made.

The present editors feel the responsibility which has been placed upon them, and realize that there has been for years a demand of the student-body for a better paper. We are desirous of meeting this responsibility and eager to satisfy this demand. But there are various difficulties to overcome. We have a small number of students and alumni and a lesser number of college activities. Advertisers are hard to get and this necessarily restricts the size of the paper.

In spite of all these difficulties it is possible to make improvements, but it cannot be expected that the editor is able or willing to devote all his time to this matter. The students must render assistance. If they do, then it is proper and right that they expect an improvement; but if they do not, then they are over-stepping their bounds in offering any criticism.

Our Editorial Column is always open for the discussion of any proper subject; we are at all times ready to receive contributions of news; our Alumni Notes could be enlarged; our College News could be more copious. Many a student, in perusing the papers from day to day, may come across an item that may be of interest in the Collegiate World. Make a note of it or cut it out of the paper and hand it to one of the editors. Something of interest may occur around the College. Do not take for granted that the editor knows about it.

In brief, the WEEKLY is the students' paper and if it doesn't meet your approval, ask yourself the question, "What have I done to improve it?" The answer to that question ought to determine your right to "knock."

* * *

Last Wednesday, for the first time in several years a Rutgers athletic team visited Ursinus and the visitors showed that they can uphold the reputation of their college for sending out athletes who are gentlemen. The weather was unfavorable and the game was uninteresting, but the old friendly rivalry was in evidence throughout the contest. Rutgers and Ursinus are old rivals, and we hope that athletic relations between them may continue for many years without interruption.

* * * *

Our baseball diamond was in a bad condition last Saturday, and Manager Foltz asked the students to come out and help him get it in good shape for the Indian game. Two men responded to the call and both were upper classmen; the preps and Freshmen were not in evidence. The next time there is such a response to the manager's call, it might be advisable to use force. We do not do much hazing at Ursinus, but this remedy is said to be conducive to good college spirit.

The Temptation of Jesus.

Westward from Jericho, Jebel Karantal throws its forbidding height against the sky, overlooking the patch of greenery at its base, and the wide level wastes of the Dead Sea plains. Karantal has never been inhabited by civilized man but has simply been a wilderness and a place for wild beasts to prowl about. This then quite likely is the place where Jesus was taken to be tempted of the Devil. The place of temptation is made evident from the fact that the ground was strewn with round stones, resembling loaves of bread. Since the Devil says "If thou be the Son of God command that these stones be made bread."

Jesus was taken up into a high mountain and the Devil showed him all the beauties and the wonders of the world saying, "All these things will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me." So Satan does to-day, showing us all the pleasures and sins of the world; he holds out great promises to us if we but follow him and do his bidding. The material things are but as of to-day, tomorrow they shall be gone and we shall see them no more. The Devil drags man down to the lowest depths of sin, then leaves him in his helpless condition. Not so with God, who is always ready and willing to forgive us and take us into his fold when we have transgressed and broken his laws.

A chain is only as strong as the weakest link in it. Man is only as strong as the weakest point within him: Satan knows this and that is the first place he will make his attack. He is untiring and always ready to lead us astray. The same link does not appear in every man; one man may be tempted to steal, another to lie, and another to swear; thus there may be many weak links in our lives. But whatever our weak link may be, let us call upon a higher being, one who will stand by us through all the trials and temptations to help us to put the Devil and all his works to naught.

sinus in June, has resigned his position, with a view of accepting the chair of pedagogy at the West Chester State Normal School. He will terminate his labors in Cheltenham with the close of the present school year and will enter his new field next September.

Norristown High School surprised the second team last Saturday before the Indian game and at end of the ninth inning, the score was ten to ten. The game was then called because the Indians were ready to take the field for practice. Shunk pitched for the Scrubs and was hit hard, although he struck out sixteen men.

The young ladies of Olevian Hall informally entertained a number of the students Thursday evening. A very pleasant time was spent by all.

MARLIN
THE Marlin RIFLE, Model 1892, .32 calibre, is the best rifle made for exterminating pests and torments about a place, as rats, weazels, woodchucks, etc., also for a companion on your vacation trip, combining the good points of the old muzzle-loading squirrel rifle with the convenience and rapid fire of the most improved repeater. It is so constructed that the same rifle uses the following cartridges: .32 short and long rim-fire, .32 short and long center-fire, and is the only repeater made using rim-fire cartridges larger than .22 calibre.
The short cartridges are just the thing for small game while the long ones kill animals of fair size easily. On the first 2000 cartridges used you have saved the cost of a Marlin.
New Marlin Catalog—and our Experience Book that tells what Marlins are doing the world over—Free, for 6c. postage.
