ANOTHER DAY

Another day of beauty rare With blessings we may freely share, the wakening of the gentle Spring With happy birds upon the wing.

Another day with earth aglow and beauty everywhere we go. It is a privilege to live With all that nature has to give. Another day to do our part With willing hands and hopeful heart, in fertile fields to sow the seed That Autumn may our harvest yelld.

Domestic Highlights

The fast developing war continues to cloud domestic events in the headlines. That must cause considerable anguish among the many presidential aspirants, who see space given to all kinds of bloody events which under happier circumstances would be devoted have attained fifth honor. Betty to political murmurings. For, war or no war, the two great parties will meet as usual to nominate candidates for the presidential and vice-presidential chairs. And, also as usual, the two parties will get out the vote next November to choose a man to guide the ship of and manager of the hockey team. state for the next four years — a four years which may be as hectic Evelyn White has the distinction Puhl's eighth birthday in Sana- had been found in a chum's home, as any which the Republic has ever seen.

Washington observers seem to feel that President Roosevelt of the A.A.A. Drill team, sports edidoes not really expect to run for the third term—he is remaining tor of the Lanco News, and a memsilent in order to control the delegates as much as possible. Without the President to head the Democratic ticket, Secretary Hull seems to loom as a great favorite. He is popular with the rank and file. The Farley-for-President boom is not being taken very seriously-best guess being that the Postmaster General is cementing his hold on the Democratic organization. Secretly, according to observers, Farley would be pleased to have the vice-presidential nomination with Mr. Hull at the head of the ticket.

Within the Republican organization, the Vandenberg candidacy has been hitting snags so far as the voters are concerned. Apparently Dewey is the Republican choice. But at the same time, Vandenberg has the support of leaders of the party—a valuable asset for any candidate. When Taft started in the race he was accorded pretty good chances although he has not proven to be a very good vote getter in the primaries to date. Dewey leads the field although standing in the dental contest becommentators discount his chance for the nomination by 90 percentthe Republican leaders with the exception of Mr. Landon are cool toward him, they feel that he is too young, too inexperienced.

One of the interesting developments has been the steady growing, political stature of Wendell Wilkie. Friends and foes alike believe that he would put up quite a fight if he were accorded the nomination. He has stated that he is not interested in the nomination although a stalemate at the Republican convention would certainly bring him to the limelight as a possible dark horse candidate.

With the nominating conventions in the immediate future both parties have been spurred to greater activity. From returns to date it looks like a close election in which every state will count.

JEALOUS YOUTH CONFESSES SLAYING ABINGTON GIRL

A 16-year-old high school boy on Friday confessed that he was the murderer who crept onto the darkened porch of an Abington home last Thursday evening, and killed Edith Snyder, 16, as she sat at her lessons.

The murder, he said, was the tragic outcome of a "puppy love" affair in which he believed himself jilted. After he shot the girl, he said, he tried to end his own life, but his gun jammed.

The boy, Robert Heineman, of Glenside, a classmate of Edith's at Abington high school, blurted out his confession to Montgomery county authorities after intensive questioning

"I was jealous", he was quoted by police. "I was in love with her and she had dates with other boys. On Sunday she told me she had met the most wonderful boy in the world.'

The Heineman boy, son of Gustav Heineman, a physical education instructor at Temple University, was held without bail on a murder charge at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Howard Nice, Mr. Horace Heffelfinger is re- in Abington, and then taken to

Assistant District Attorney David. and that the latter said young Heineman had given it to him for concealment

It was partly through the gun, and partly through two love notes igned "Bob" found in the slain girl's handbag, that young Heineman was brought into the investigation, Groshens disclosed. Several high school students revealed that the boy had brought a gun to classes with him and had exhibited THOMAS HALLMAN t, furtively but proudly.

One of the notes read: imperative that I see you at the end of the 5th period. If I don't see you-someone will die."

• The way I figure, every car owner is "manufacturing" a used car. His product will be good or bad, depending on how well he drives and what he started with.

That's one reason I know I've got some mighty good used cars to sell. Take the 1937 Ford V-8s. They were first-class automobiles when I first sold them as new cars. The people who bought them were better than average drivers (most Ford owners are). And because Ford builds long life into these V-8s, they've stood up well. Today, after a thorough going-over in my shop, they're ready to give you a lot of honest service.

Baby Otter, Badger and

Other Animals Like Play Most playful of all wild creatures are otters, for even when full grown they cannot resist anything in the shape of a ball that floats. Baby badgers romp together, puffing out their fur until they look like black and white balls, then bouncing round and round on their short stiffened legs. A favorite game is for one to mount a fallen tree, and its companions to try to pull it down, relates Oliver G. Pike, F. Z. S., in London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Young polecats play a similar game, but are far more graceful. As they prance around, their slender backs are arched, and they look most attractive in their rich dark brown glossy fur. Badgers, polecats, stoats, and weasels have very the organized games of the otter.

I doubt if anyone has ever detected play among fish, or seen lizards or snakes indulging in games. All these are cold blooded and are only active when the temperature is warm enough to give them an interest in life.

The play of foxes will often turn concerned, for if they get among number of WPA laborers. fowls they will kill one for food then, like puppies, chase everything that moves. If the birds had the birds had the pass them by, but he will slaughter them by the dozen while they con-

Priests as Firemen In 1705, King Louis XIV of France founded the Paris fire brigade. Forty firemen formed the first brigade, and they were recruited from workmen used to doing their jobs high above the ground. A number of years later, an auxiliary fire brigade was formed for the guarding of Paris. This was composed of four companies of priests.  great bell of the cathedral of Notre Dame was used as a fire warning. On one occasion, when there was a big fire at the famous hospital of the Hotel Dieu (which adjoins Notre Dame), 20 of these firemen-priests were burned to death in trying to rescue the patients.

> Deep and Shallow Water Provided there is sufficient water o float the body, the depth of waer makes no difference to the swimner, its buoyancy being the same n both cases. The popular belief that swimming is easier in deep water is incorrect, though perhaps the mental effect has some influence. A person swimming in shalow water knows that on the least fatigue he may stop swimming and stand on the bottom; in deep water he knows he cannot do this but must exert himself to swim well and under these circumstances it may seem easier to him.

SEEKING SPOT WHERE BOONE'S CABIN STOOD

Archeologists at the instance of the State Historical Commission, visited the Daniel Boone homestead, in Exeter township, Berks County, near Birdsboro, for the purpose of locating the exact spot on which the Boone cabin, (the site of his birthplace) stood.

State Archeologist D. A. Cadzow said considerable doubt exists as to exact site of the homestead, but that research experts being sent to little method in their play, unlike the 148-acre Berks County tract turned over to the commission for restoration probably would be successful in locating it.

Moles Do Much Damage

Farmers and gardeners generally consider the mole a pest of the first order. Its disturbance of plant growth oftentimes results in great losses in farms, fields and in vegetable and flower gardens. The tunnels it makes are also harmful to lawns. Undoubtedly the species is responsible for losses of these kinds totaling thousands of dollars each year. As the experienced well know, the mole is a difficult pest to contend with because of its no small ability to evade capture. Although the almost insignificant eyes concealed ears probably are very helpful, as is also the keen sense of touch. Even gentle footsteps on the ground where the animal is working usually convey sufficient warning, after which a retreat is made down its tunnel, and then all evidence of said to be able to crawl backwards with incredible speed.

Advice on Nose Blowing

Vigorous nose blowing is all wrong. The nose should be blown gently at all times, regardless of desire or provocation, according to the Journal of the American Medical association. It is immaterial, it declared, whether one nostril is held open at a time. The operation should be gentle, the Journal said, because if too much pressure is used the secretions carrying germs may be forced into the sinuses and establish sites of infec-

Growth of Cascara Tree

Cascara is a tree that grows up to 25 feet; sometimes called chittembark or bearwood. It has rather thin leaves, two to six inches long and about one to three inches wide. somewhat hairy on the lower suryoung trees the bark is relatively smooth, of green color and yellow

Eyes on Shrubs Simply

Hidden Buds and Leaves Eyes on shrubs are simply the concealed buds from which point a leaf or a branch will start; they are scattered on both sides of the branches, mere tiny bunches of thickened bark, more or less rounded. The term eye is also used to designate the center of a flowerthe brown or gold eye of a daisy, the center of the floret of a phlox, etc. points out a writer in the Portland Oregonian.

A node is more than an eye; it is that part of a stem on a shrub or a tree or a woody vine similar to a joint where leaves and buds have Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Orwig and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns of their origin. A node sometimes reaches around or through a branch; growth will start on either side—to form roots in the ground

> A cutting taken with a heel means that a small bit of wood from an older branch is left attached to the cutting. This "heel" may be only a thin slice of such wood (when the young stem grows out at an angle); or it may be a whole short section: even a small cutting with a heel looks like a little leaf-handled hammer with its head more or less askew.

> To "heel in" a plant simply covered with soil. This is only a unchecked until the plant can go into its permanent position.

The expression "heel in" is commonly used when bulb plants (narcissus, tulips, etc.,) are removed from beds where they flowered to to mature the bulbs. If taken up with plenty of earth so growth is not retarded it's a convenient and safe way to make room for other

The first recorded appearance of 5,060 ex-convits walking about the 17 year race of the cicada was in 1634 when the colonists at Plymouth noted large swarms of the insects. This has become known as brood 14. This brood extends westward to the Mississippi river, covering all or parts of 13 states.

Famous Sea Monster One of the most famous of sea monsters was the serpent sighted by her majesty's ship Daedalus in October, 1838, while cruising from the Cape of Good Hope to St. Helena. According to one witness, the creature "passed rapidly, but so close under our lee quarters that had it been a man of my acquaintance, I should easily have recognized his features with the naked eye; and it help it none in escaping capture, the did not, either in approaching the ship or after it had passed our wake, deviate in the slightest degree from its course, which it held on at the pace of from 12 to 15 miles per hour, apparently on some determined purpose. Its color was brown and yellowish-white about the the quarry is lost. The mole is throat. It had no fins, but something like the mane of a horse, or rather a bunch of seaweed, washed about its back.'

An Odd Fashion

A very odd fashion appeared in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries, of embroidering heraldic devices on the long gowns of the ladies of rank. A picture of those days shows a duchess in a corsage and train of ermine, with a very fierce looking lion rampant embroidered twice on her long gown. Another displays an heraldic dolphin of very sinister aspect upon one side of her corsage and on the skirt of her long gown.

Utah and Nevada in Union Utah was admitted as a state in 1896, the forty-fifth state in order of admission. Nevada was a part of the Western territory which was claimed first by Spain and later by Mexico before it was ceded to the United States in 1848. After it was divided from Utah it was admitted as a separate territory and became in order of admission.

Size of Stockings

In the manufacture of stockings the size is based on the distance ininches between a point on the toe and a point on the heel measured in a straight line. Size 8 is eight inches more or less from the tip of the toe to the end of the heel. Both men's and women's stockings are measured in this manner. According to the United States bureau of standards, women's stockings are measured as follows: After the hose has been pressed and is flat and unwrinkled, a ruler is placed along a line in which the tip of the toe and the bottom of the heel gore are connected. The hosiery size is the distance in inches along this line from tip of toe to the intersection of the ruler with the back of the heel. Only inches and halfinches are represented in size numbers. Preference is given to the lower number. For instance, if the exact measurement is 101/4 inches the stocking is called size 10 rather times seem to the dreamer to extend over long periods-hours or even days, according to a writer in the Detroit News. A few seconds may be the actual time of a dream that seemed to carry the dreamer through a long series of adventures. Dreams have no significance whatever in the foretelling of the future. They are merely impression pictures, often distorted, created by our senses in our relationship with existence.

Animals and the Weather In the old mythology cats were supposed to have a great influence on the weather. The stormy northwest wind was called the "cat's nose." The dog and the wolf were both attendants on Odin, the storm god. In old pictures, there was often shown the head of a dog or wolf with gusts of wind issuing from its open jaws. So we can take the cat as a symbol of heavy rain and the dog as representing the strong a state in 1864, the thirty-sixth state | wind usually accompanying a rainstorm.
