Forum Will Host Jessica Savitch

Jessica Savitch, who co-anchorers the 11 p.m. Eyewitness News channel 6 with Scott Orange and Stu Moll, will be at Ursinus tomorrow night for the ninth annual "Midnight at the Oasis," one of this year's performances of the Spring Concert Series. In 1974 she began her 14-year association with Eyewitness News and continues to be the most outstanding among the Eyewitness News anchors.

Jessica Savitch began working in the field covering three colleges in the Philadelphia area while earning her degree at Haverford College. She began her professional career in broadcasting with WCHS Newsradio in New York City in 1967. She moved to Houston, Texas as a reporter and weekend anchorperson for a Houston, Texas television station. Ms. Savitch joined KYW-TV in Philadelphia in November 1971 to anchor the investigative reporter and New Jersey Bureau Chief of Eyewitness News. She currently anchors the evening news broadcast on KYW-TV.

The Ursinus community enjoyed a program of classical music by the Temple Big Band on February 11 as part of the spring semester performance series. In 1947 the orchestra consists of 56 student members who study the instruments and perform instrumental music majors in the Department of Music at Temple in Philadelphia.

The program opened with Paganini's "Caprice Op. 6, No. 5" by Felix Mendelssohn (1809-1847). In this movement the composer expressed his ability to paint a musical portrait of a landscape he had seen in Europe. Much of his music is marked by the use of virtuoso techniques and the ending contains a dialogue between the orchestra and the audience.

The orchestra performed under the direction of Jonathan Sternberg, the orchestra consists of 56 student members who study the instruments and perform instrumental music majors in the Department of Music at Temple in Philadelphia.

Following each presentation, Chaplain Max E. Niescher will lead the choir in worship services. Each service on Tuesday evening will be entitled: "Happiness Is . . ."

This is an opportunity for Christians to experience the impact of the Bible by dramatic presentation of excerpts from the Old Testament. The Temple undergraduates who make up the orchestra participate in a musical presentation of the Bible from the perspectives of the various societies in which they live.

The orchestra performs a concert each spring on campus. The next concert will be held on Friday evening, April 8, and will feature the choir for a preview of their spring concert.

PHALSH!

Photo Phidians of the world unite! Can we allow ourselves to be hidden by the pages of this paper? No! It is time we came out of hiding and let the world know that we too are Phidians. Ever since the time we were founded, our major strength lies in the fact that we are the only society of our kind.

We are the only society of our kind.

Music Groups Active

The music organizations are having another busy and successful year. Instrumentalists started it off by sponsoring their annual dinner for present and prospective members.

The Ursinus College Band, under the direction of James W. Rieck, is bigger than ever this year. It has been recently enlarged by the addition of Flute. It is now composed of 220 members, and you may see for yourself in upcoming concerts.

The Marching Band, which provided music at the recent Homecoming games, was again well received. The band performed at the annual Christmas show on campus with complete brass and jazz ensembles, and, in addition, participated in the Annual Student Assembly.

This spring the band will present a combined concert series with the Philadelphi orchestra. The Philadelphi orchestra will present a concert featuring the orchestra on April 11, and a second concert on April 12. The Ursinus College Band will perform a traditional concert for Spring Parents' Day on May 10 at 4:00 P.M.

The Ursinus Chamber Orchestra is growing in size, quality, and composition. The orchestra, which has been the "all-college-night" performer on March 17, and the "all-college-night" performer on March 14, is planning to participate in the Ursinus' second "pops" concert with the orchestra on May 8.

ANOTHER SMASH MEASLIS

The Ursinus College Choir climax ed the fall program on Dec. 10 with the 60th annual performance of Handel's Messiah. This year also featured Verdi's "Requiem." The Choral Society performed their traditional "Hallelujah Chorus," under the direction of Dr. Howard, Ursinus Director of Music.

Forum Review:

Morgenthau Delivers Informative Address On Complex Topic

By RICHARD WHALLY

If one could imagine the ideal or perfect forum, then one might say such a forum occurred last Friday afternoon at Wiemar auditorium. Dr. Morgenthau's speech was not only the ideal length of twenty minutes, but it was especially concise, informative, witty and insightful. Afterward the audience had many pertinent and sometimes "lovely" questions and everyone seemed keenly interested in the answers. Dr. Morgenthau answered them with wit and wisdom.

The German born Dr. Hans J. Morgenthau is Leonard B. establishing Professor of Political Science at the City University of New York and Professor Emeritus of Political Science and Modern History at the University of Chicago.

He spoke on the topic of 'The U. S. Foreign Policy. He started his speech stating that our Foreign Policy has changed in the past ten years. The basic change was from confrontation to movement.

After World War Two there were two super powers, political and ideologically different. They were viewed as either good or bad, there could be no settlement. Both powers had nuclear weapons but war was prevented by the fear of nuclear destruction. If this situation had not changed, there could be a nuclear war, Dr. Morgenthau said. But if the power's nuclear powers would have gone to war.

Former President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger had to make more conventional foreign relationships, for example, the U. S. recognized Red China. This is the basic change. Now America could play China off against Russia or Russia off against America. But the USSR is afraid of China and the U. S., China in fact is a hard target for the USSR and the U. S. This was a very good strategic move for American foreign policy.

Russia seems to fear China more than the U. S. Russia knows that it could not handle two fronts at once, against East China and in the west the United States and its allies. Thus Russia wishes to disavow NAPO and limit the power of the U. S. In Europe. Therefore Russia wants a détente with the United States . . . This détente also has technological advantages for the USSR. Their détente is not for any humanitarian reason but for hard handed material and strategic advantages. The U. S. must be aware of this fact. Also, it is a side deal, with no advantages for America.

Today's most crucial lane is the control of nuclear weapons. The U. S. and the USSR will to maintain a balance of power, therefore they willfully limit some of their nuclear arms development. Yet, the nuclear arms race is fast and furious. Now both countries have nuclear weapons. Dr. Morgen thau said, if both sides could lead to terror, anxiety and eventual war then the next move Russia's new foreign policy is better, yet the crucial answer concerning nuclear weapons has not been answered.

The URSINUS WEEKLY

TO BE BETWEEN PAST AND PRESENT

To the student body of U.C.: On Wednesday, February 5, the Alumni-Undergraduate Relations Committee held its first formal meeting in order to increase awareness of the importance of the Alumni Association in relation to the student body. The meeting was chaired by Dr. John Coulter, Assistant to the Alumni Secretary, and was attended by representatives of all classes and major campus activities as well as a group of alumni. The meeting proved to be educational for both alumni and students.

One of the major topics of discussion was the Alumni Association meeting. Aetna Life Insurance Company, representing the alumni association, operates the Ursinus College Placement Bureau open to students and alumni. Located in Corson Hall, the Placement Bureau urges all students to utilize its resources and job placement services. Concluding the meeting with a question and answer session, the alumni became more aware of the problems of the campus as well as the students.

The meeting adjourned with the hope that both alumni and students with future plans for the near future.

Respectfully,

Officers of the Sophomore and Freshman Classes

TO THE STUDENTS OF U.C.: "We have met the enemy and he is us." This statement from a weekly P.T.O. newsletter received from the first student-Alumni meeting in Corson Hall, points to an obvious question: How can we get more people to come to the meeting? A large cross section of the campus was present to meet the alumni representatives and hear their concerns. Of the members present, one of the most important was the question of what the alumni expected from the meeting. The students were not prepared to meet the alumni, and were not ready to be prepared for the meeting. The students, on the other hand, were prepared to meet the alumni, and were ready to be prepared for the meeting. The students were interested in meeting the alumni, and were ready to be interested in the meeting.

The students' concerns of opinion at the meeting were that the students would be expected to meet the alumni, and that the alumni would be expected to meet the students. The alumni representatives expected to meet the students, and were in a similar position to react to our complaints because they had met the students. We were prepared to meet the students, and were ready to meet the alumni. The students were prepared to meet the alumni, and were ready to meet the students. The meeting was set up and hopefully these objectives will be accomplished.

To the student body: On Wednesday, February 5th, I attended the first meeting of the newly reformed Student-Alumni Committee. As was mentioned earlier this was the "learning situation" for all who attended and it seems natural that we are more concerned about our education with the rest of the College. A majority of the students at the meeting had no previous contact with Alumni. They pointed out that they had not been able to see the Alumni or had not had the opportunity to see them. They were interested in knowing what the Alumni had to say on the issues of the day however in-potential employers. The se get-are not always required, but are urged to see the Placement Office. This includes all majors.

While discussing the things which the Alumni had to say on the issues of the day, we found out that alumni are helping students all the time. They were writing, calling, or even coming to the College to help us. This is to say that the Alumni Association of Ursinus is alive and well, and that your campus area there are alumni who are recognized leaders in all walks of life. They are helping to keep up your morale, and are more than willing to help us as we should be helping ourselves.

During the meeting we talked about some of the things which were most important to us. One of the things which concerned us was the future. To the students of Ursinus College and that in a few short years we will be part of the all-powerful Alumni Association.

The Old Gold Remains

According to Dr. William S. Pettit, President, operations at Ursinus College remain stable, while many private colleges across the nation choke under the grip of the inflation spiral. Dr. Pettit cited careful financial planning and frugal management as the College’s most successful weapons against inflation.

"Tuition costs have not increased greatly despite rising prices because we use the greatest efficiency in college operations," Dr. Pettit said. "We offer no frills, the basic needs of a sound education.

With 341 freshmen enrolled, admissions for the 1974-75 academic year were greater than in any previous year. According to Geoffrey Delman, Dean of Admissions, applications for 1975-76 are somewhat slower.

"We’re confident we’ll see a good freshman class next year but we will have to work longer and harder to get it," he remarked. "Students are being more careful in selecting applications and are applying much later in the academic year. We continue to stress that a liberal arts program provides the student with more versatility in choosing and the placement office was above the student with more versatility in the field of study.

"It is very important to keep college enrollment balanced among the sciences, social sciences, and humanities divisions," Dr. Pettit said. The President also reported that the placement office was above the national average in placing a large student in the first place.

The ability of Ursinus-trained teachers is generally recognized," Dr. Pettit said. "High schools in the area prefer Ursinus graduates because they are carefully selected as students in the first place."

When asked later about Vietnam, Dr. Morgenthau stated he felt we should not be sending money to Vietnam to help an unpopular government on its facts. Our outside help will never be able to help it stand. He also said Vietnam, with its unbalanced and precarious economy, could not even pay the cost of the war.

Dr. Morgenthau's most interesting attribute was that in the light of our planet's political state, he who studies it constantly, was not depressed but maintained a sense of humor balanced with due respect to the magnitude of the world's plight.

Trailing at first, the heads will never be able to help it stand. He also said Vietnam, with its unbalanced and precarious economy, could not even pay the cost of the war.
