Someone Old
Someone New

Barndum, Caussebre, Glenson—familiar names like these have been showing up on the Ursinus campus from time to time. As a matter of fact, seven younger brothers or sisters of present Ursinus students have been accepted for admission, according to Geoffrey Dolman, Dean of Admissions.

They include: Stephen, brother of Ted Caussebre, junior major in chemistry; Wendy, sister of Margaret Caussebre, senior major in history; David, brother of Fred Ferrari, freshman major in biology; Craig, brother of Carl Glenson, senior major in political science; Rhonda, sister of Rod Kratz, senior major in mathematics; William, brother of Harry Padden, freshman major in undeclared scientific disciplines; Michael, brother of George Randolph, senior major in political science.

In addition, 30 successful candidates and the sons, daughters, brothers or sisters of Ursinus alumni have been accepted.

Over the years about 10% of the student body has been made up of family members of persons who attended Ursinus.

Newman Club

On April 6, 1975, Ursinus College will experience an event on campus which has not taken place in many years. A Roman Catholic Mass will be said in Harbourer Chapel by Father James McLaughlin of St. Eileen's Church at 4:30 in the afternoon. Choir and altar servers will be provided by members of the Ursinus Newman Society—several of whom are not Catholic but are interested in celebrating Mass together on campus in the interest of love and peace. It is an event that Catholic students at Ursinus have long been looking forward to and which should help unify and enlarge an already enthusiastic but small Newman Club.

One way in which the group hopes to bolster this situation is the initiation of a discussion group which will meet Monday, April 7, in Harbourer Hall. The Newman Society hopes that members of all denominations will feel free to attend.

Come to Ursinus—Land of the Pennsylvania Dutch

By JUDIE JAMES

Try the new F-A-U. Department and "get to know what good live!"

This year during the summer session Ursinus offers a first time offering to become acquainted with Pennsylvania Dutch history, art, language and folklore. Dr. William Parsons and Dr. Evan Snyder will introduce the new Pa. Dutch Studies Program with four three-credit courses and a number of one-credit seminars. According to Dr. Parsons, Director of the Institute on Pennsylvania Dutch Affairs, Ursinus is the only and first institution to offer a program of this type focusing on the German settlers in Pennsylvania who became known as the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Courses Offered

Pennsylvania Dutch 401 (Pa. Dutch Culture and History to 1899) will be offered during summer session A, June 16 through July 16. The course will be a study of the history of language, culture and folklore of the Pennsylvania Dutch, and of their influence upon American Life. Dr. Parsons will teach cultural and artistic topics and the background of which Dr. Snyder will be responsible for language and linguistic elements. An additional feature of the course will be tours and demonstrations by visiting speakers who are specialists in some aspect of the Pennsylvania Dutch Culture. Topic covered in the course will include the Amish and Mennonites, farming, folk music, Dutch cheese, apple and fern art.

Not only will Pa. Dutch speakers be brought into the classroom as part of PDS 401, but the students will be travelling to see Pa. Dutch history and handcrafts for themselves. Field trips will be made on June 26, July 11 and July 14 to the Kutztown Folk Festival to see the arts and crafts of the Pa. Dutch displayed by Amish craftsmen and to sample the famous Dutch cooking. The group will also visit historic parts of the past in the present, the buildings of the German founders of Bethlehem, Pa. and will visit the German part of the Dutch country.

Pennsylvania Dutch History since 1860, PDS 402, will be taught in summer session C from July 17 through August 6. This course will be a continuation of PDS 401 with a similar format and will include such topics as home crafts, literature, folk music, costume and literature. Another project of the summer will be the Pennsylvania Dutch Art, taught by Lester Breinlinger, PDS 423, The Country School, with Earl Moyer; PDS 433, Powwow and Enseret, led by Richardson and PDS 434. Native, with Karl and Adi ROodkik. Other seminars will be offered at the Ursinus campus. During the week of July 7 through July 13, PDS 421, Local Sources of Folk Culture—Dr. Wm. Parsons and PDS 422, The Schwenkfelders, Prof. Boris E. Schultz. The week of July 14-17, PDS 423, The Poor People of the Pa. Dutch. Among the field trips will be a visit to the Berks Museum in Reading, the Amish community in the Berks County and an all-day tour of rural areas of Berks County including the Landis Valley Farm Museum, and a visit to the Herrick-Stukenberg Homestead near Montgomery County and the Berks County West--Dr. Wm. Parsons.

Another summer seminar will have a chance to learn Pennsylvania Dutch farming and the Pennsylvania German dialect which will be taught in summer session C from July 17 through August 6. This course will be a continuation of PDS 401 with a similar format and will include such topics as home crafts, literature, folk music, costume and literature. Another project of the summer will be the Pennsylvania Dutch Art, taught by Lester Breinlinger, PDS 423, The Country School, with Earl Moyer; PDS 433, Powwow and Enseret, led by Richardson and PDS 434. CCC—Student Success Seen

By C. JOY KEENE

As was instilled early in the morning with the first meeting of the Central Coordinating Committee is the principle that makes the initial move to welcome and orient new students to the college. The CCC, headed by Gary Breslau, is a seven-member organization (six students and the ad-mirador) whose primary purpose is to help freshmen and sophomores find the way to class and to acquaint them with campus affairs and traditions of the college.

Gary Breslau, a junior Psychology major, was a squad leader in 1974 and was elected chairman, and successfully carried out the difficult job of introducing freshmen to the help and enthusiasm of the CCC. Breslau especially thanks Maryann Quar-tuico, whose "welcome booklet" gave many f thread and advice about Ursinus. Says Gary: "The CCC was extremely helpful last year. There were no power struggles—everyone gave in for the good of the department."

However, planning such an important function becomes a little more difficult this year. A new course will be started in every department, and there will be more members in each group than previous years.

Last year's orientation was a successful one, Breslau judges from feedback. Free time was given to a couple of time problems, and we found ourselves last minute that we couldn't have a dance on a Sunday night, but we had to be prepared for everything." Gary feels that the CCC has a lot to do to concern the planning of activities. "Of course, the admission staff meets twice a month for our programs such as faculty day, but that is only about eight hours total out of the entire semester."

The Birds

By RUTH VON KUMMER

Notions of a multitude of dead birds lying around campus for that matter? Some of us have, maybe we've been a little naive. Now the obvious assumption can be made that this issue is not the most alarming one occupying the Ursinus campus at the present time. But the fact remains that a certain portion of the community has expressed deep concern for the birds. And it has been proven to all of us many times in the past that any minority deserves recognition for its views. The remainder of us should hear this fact in mind until the conclusion of this article.

If you are one of the interested parties, let me assure you the matter is investigated. I know because I was one of the who attempted to solve that problem. I also know because I e was changed as the excuse after doing it. I was made to believe that I might be making some important contribution to great humanitarian concern. Nat-ural, birds are affected by the eating of some of the fungicides which were ad-ministered. Something had to be done,dilemma was never clarified; and a real investigation was never suggested.

The leader was extremely helpful in my efforts. He assisted me to the proper location where I was confused and referred to. Meanwhile, he explained-- (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)
Our to the would also prevent the wielding of what constitutes anti-social behavior. Most students will agree that the majority of the major offenses in the Ursinus College rules and customs do constitute anti-social behavior from the rest of the college community to remain as a livable atmosphere for the majority of the students; if arson, dishonesty, destruction of property, cheating, possession of firearms and explosives, hazing, graffiti, wilful obstruction of college activities, and violation of civil law were not against the rules.

It is only in three cases, where the majority of students differ sharply, that anti-social behavior from the rest of the college community would be impossible for the college community to remain as a livable atmosphere for the majority of the students; if arson, dishonesty, destruction of property, cheating, possession of firearms and explosives, hazing, graffiti, wilful obstruction of college activities, and violation of civil law were not against the rules.

The rule covering visitation is the area where the most sharply divided opinion exists.

Many students feel that the alumni trip to keep the rule. Indeed there is some justification for this. The current issue of the Alumni magazine contains an article by an alumna of the class of 1956, which begins by commenting in disbelieve on the abolition of the Alumni trip program. Perhaps if there was a trip in a sense what cutey way to comment on how scandalous it was when she had a male roommate her senior year. She was married.

This was nearly 20 years ago, yet from reading this article it is not hard to get the feeling that they feel Ursinus should always go on in the same way. I don't know about most of the students, but I don't particularly care to go to school in a museum.

I am writing the article seemingly jokes about having to be in the dorm 7:00 p.m. except for five 12:30 to be used on Saturday by saying "what was there to do in Collegeville after 12:30 that couldn't have been done before?"

I wonder if her attitude was always such. I'm sure if she honestly had looked back she chafed sharply divided opinion. It seems that most Ursinus students are not against the Alumni trip program. There is much to be said for the Alumni trip program. It can do much to strengthen the bond between the student and the college. It can do much to strengthen the bond between the student and the college. It is a way of showing appreciation for the work that the alumni have done for the college.

The first step is realistic visitation rules. The rules we have now are absolutely ridiculous. Who are they trying to kid? There shall be no "unauthorized visiting or entertainment; men in women's dormitories; women in men's dormitories. How can they truly even hope to legislate morality? Even the wording of the rule shows how outdated it is. "Entertaining?

The students of Ursinus are adults, recognized as such in almost all ways by Pennsylvania. I think it is time we extended the courtesy of being treated as such at Ursinus.

Our morals are already formed, it is not the school's place to give them to us for the reason that we choose to do will continue to be done regardless of school policy. The visitation rule is like Prohibition. First it is totally unenforceable. Second its only accomplishment is to make rule breakers out of people who would not normally be so.

I think the administration were to sit down and really listen to what the majority of the students have to say, they would find it is a very reasonable request from responsible adults of the Ursinus community.

For the time this action is now. To delay will only cause further unnecessary unhappiness.

Pennsylvania Dutch

In its first year of competition, the Pennsylvania Folklore Magazine was not without controversy. As reported by Supervisor Judy Butler in his continuing efforts at the Pennsylvania Folklore Festival Ursinus has excellent facilities for the study of the Pennsylvania Dutch. In the Pennsylvania Folklore Magazine for the Pennsylvania Dutch. The Pennsylvania Folklore Collection which contains many artifacts, tools, clothing and furniture which are displayed each year at the Ursinus College Festival. According to Dr. Parsons and Dr. T. Harry Oesterly, the Pennsylvania Dutch culture is a unique culture and a very important part of Pennsylvania's history. The faculty members interested in this collection have been approved by the Pennsylvania Folklore Commission.

The team opened their season at Raymond Temple in Fort Collins on February 14th with a team score of 81.20, followed by Ursinus with 81.40. Ursinus' top individual scores were as follows: vaulting, Jean Ron Santo with a 4.5; beam, Pam Ricketts with a 2.45 and floor exercise, Shauna Pinkley with a score of 6.3.

Ursinus not only lost the first meet of the season but also the second. It is also lost two team members in the form of Tina Jones, who finished in the bottom of the balance beam, Jean Johnson then jammed both knees and was out of the event for the rest of the season.

The team lost both the first and second meets of the season against West Chester, all of the girls improved their individual scores, but scoring a team score of only six points to 47.60. High individual scores against West Chester were: Doreen Ribe with a 4.5; Jean Ron Santo with a 2.45 and floor exercise, Shauna Pinkley with a score of 5.76. The girls improved their team score almost 3 points to 49.40 in the third meet of the season against St. Vincent College in Pennsylvania. The University of Pennsylvania won with a team score of 71.60.

Natl League Preview

Chicago Cubs: What can one expect from a team that has Ron Santo, Billy Williams, Glenn Beckert, and Ernie Banks? The Cubs are one of the best teams in the Central Division. They have the pitching to win this year's National League pennant. The Cubs have a strong defense and a potent offense. They should be able to win the National League this year.

Los Angeles Dodgers: Will the Dodgers rule the West for at least the next five years? That is a question that a lot of people in Los Angeles Dodgerland are asking themselves. We are going to find out soon enough.

Atlanta Braves: The Braves had a great year last year. They finished third in the National League East. The team is led by an outstanding pitcher, Phil Niekro. With Niekro, the Braves have a chance to win the World Series this year.

San Francisco Giants: The Giants had a great year last year. They finished second in the National League West. The team is led by an outstanding pitcher, Juan Marichal. With Marichal, the Giants have a chance to win the World Series this year.

Computer Career Seminar

Letter To The Editor

As a member of the Ursinus Weekly staff, I would like to comment on Ms. Lin A. Brown's letter to the editor of March 9. Her letter concerned an editorial which was published in the Feb. 27 edition of the Weekly. It was presented in a growing animosity between science and humanities students which was being aggravated by controversy in the computer terminal. Although I am not entirely in agreement with her editor's opinion on this matter, I can find many weaknesses in Ms. Brown's attack of this editorial position. As a non-science major who has never had an opportunity to make use of our computer system, I would like to say to Ms. Brown that I think her suggestion of incorporating the use of the computer into more courses would not be realized by humanities majors. It is an excellent idea, however, I am of the opinion that few students would object to having a program similar to the one used in Dr. Byrge's "Great Courses." In addition, I would like to ask Ms. Brown forget that there are many non-science majors who are also carrying heavy course loads. I don't feel that a mere 15 hours per week spent in class by a humanities major is insufficient. I also have the responsibility of my studies and facility be utilized to its fullest capacity.

The Birds

The birds in "Earth Below" are very much logical. Ms. Brown forgets that there are many non-science majors who are science majors and science students study unrelated subjects and the means for absorbing the interpreting these two different disciplines differs also. I don't feel that a mere 15 hours per week spent in class by a humanities major is sufficient. I also have the responsibility of my studies and facility be utilized to its fullest capacity.

The BIRDS

in one in his usual cooperative manner that the pigeons especially are very belligerent to those in Phabull Hall merely by their presence and are definitely not subdued by the application of their natural functions.

I wish to note here that some students who are agreed as we all would; at the same time, he assured me that he had taken no part in estimating the correlation coefficient which was equally confusing of his analysis because of his examination at that, there might be no cause for such a statement.

Instead, being extremely conscientious, a trait which I have cultivated over many years, I went on to question the professor who had been the object of my original research. This person was apparently unaware of my feelings, nor indifferent to the somewhat difficult and embarrassing question which I felt I was not very pleasant to inquire of the birds who frequented the Ursinus campus have expired. Neither was I pleased to ask that question and have this person laugh in my face regarding his superior status or the reason prompting such a response.

I will not make any direct connection, but in the course of many years as an Ursinus student, I have never been as completely ignored or felt my attempts were not noticed. This was a personal manner as in these short moments, I feel the incident is quite pitiful. The information I sought to gain was only to inform, not to destroy. The importance of any of this relations or others in the Weekly, and in its application to the information to one another between any two people.

Of course, this may not have an effect on many people. In fact, I doubt if it will because those who are not inclined to such a complaint rarely do. They probably didn't reach this paragraph. However, should issues like this one—despite the nature—be an issue, we cannot be ignored at will, eventually we may be impressed in the apathy that we claim disesteem. For those who will suffer are those the injustice is committed against. And they have no say in anything.

Record Review
For Earth Below
— Robin Trower
By BOB SEARLES
Robin Trower, re-rated guitarist of Procol Harum and hair apparent to the crown of acid rock formerly held by Jimi Hendrix, has achieved his highest level of musicianship on For Earth Below. In fact, it is impossible to compare Trower to Hendrix, for Robin has matched Hendrix's technical expertise and proceeded to form his own individual, stylistic, Trower uses a variety of techniques (most of which can be reproduced live) including controlled feedback and the wah-wah pedal while his fingers race up and down weaving piercing mournful notes from the strings.

Bridge of Sighs, Trower's second LP, was a good album, a very good album. Trower's attributes which were first visible on Bridges have come into full bloom on For Earth Below. His most notable accomplishment is his masterful rock album which is an amazing success. In fact, I would pick a favorite or possible single from the eight songs on the disc: "Alethes," "Confessin' Midnight," and "Shame the Devil." It might be considered, nevertheless, For Earth Below is one of the best albums to come out this year.
Since early March the Bears have been in full training in preparation for their Florida spring training program and a game Middle Atlantic League schedule. The team and Coach Harvey (continued) are a picture of how well they left off last season when they played their last two games of the year.

This year's strengths could be an improved defense in center field and some consistent pitching.

Pitching, as with any team, holds the key to victory. The number one key will be Coach Gary Burdick (Soph.) for the fourth time in a row, veteran and mainstay of outstanding freshmen prospects, who is also on the 1975 Foul Year Veteran and good hitter, Rick Gagliano (Jr.) behind the plate and also a newcomer, Gary Burdick (Jr.).

Three-fourths of the infield could be the key for the Bears. Second and first base will be a battle between veteran, Matt Lange (Jr.), who was a sophomore, and another newcomer, Pat Ide (Fr.). Third Ed. Fortman (Soph.) has taken over as the third baseman, and the other newcomer, Gary Burdick (Soph.) has taken over as the catcher. Ed. Turrill (Jr.) is another veteran who is pushing for the starting centerfield and looking forward to the opening games of the year. and good hitter, Hunter, Dick Allen, Bobby Bonds, and also a newcomer, Gary Burdick (Soph.).
