Things were different when we came back to school last fall. The Campus has changed: the old ‘‘Supply’’ was gone and the two new buildings had been completed, there were a lot of new faces among the faculty and the freshmen embarked upon the new Ursinus Plan. But the thing that really made it different was that the Class of 1967 had become Seniors. Somehow we had gotten through three years at Ursinus without things really getting to us. Suddenly it seemed we were faced with the necessity of doing something concrete about the future, for tomorrow was almost here. Soon we would have to be adults all the time and not just when we wanted. This year became a kind of race to live today, to experience, before we had to face the REAL WORLD. This year it was important just to BE. Even the little things became important because this would be the last time we would have to worry about a date for Homecoming or complain about two hourlies on the same day or be part of the college generation. Even the most cynical of us could not help feeling a little nostalgia because we were appreciating things for the first and last times. 1966-1967 was really kind of a Be-ing year for us, and we were running all year just to be part of it.
It's been a good year as years go. A golden autumn that lingered until the first snow a week before Christmas spoiled us. One would think after four years here we'd be used to the distractions of the seasons, but we're not. It was much more appealing to build a snow sculpture of Venus in front of the Library than to study inside. On the other hand the really rotten, soggy, grey days of winter are no help either. We just couldn't help feeling sorry for ourselves knowing that somewhere OUT THERE a sunny beach was waiting. Finally after a cold May we got a few days of Spring at Ursinus accompanied by the sounds of the Supremes coming from a second story Derr window, the sudden urge to hike to Walebe's for a rum-raisin cone or taking that last cut in Pol. Sci. just to lie in the sun.
One of the nicest things about Ursinus is Ursinus People. Like it or not after four years we've begun to feel like Ursinus People. For the most part we're a normal middle class, middle-of-the-road group of students. We are not intellectuals, yet each for his own reasons is dedicated to intellectual pursuits. Ours is a friendly campus and we enjoy a good time. Also . . . at Ursinus "boys look like boys and girls look like girls."
Professors are funny. They do take up a lot of time. For either we are in class taking notes or studying the notes or worrying when we are not doing either. We respect them very much for their academic achievements, yet our warm personal relationships with the faculty is the main reason most of us chose to come to a small liberal arts college like Ursinus. We enjoy being able to have a discussion on birth control over a cup of coffee in the Supply or being able to go to a professor’s home for a evening of Whitehead or communism or a sorority party. Where else could you joke about a certain professor’s preference for bow ties? We like this sort of thing.
One problem we all have is to find a quiet place to study. Library squint after long hours in the stacks is popular during exams. The drug used to have tables where we could go during a lull in business, but the tables were replaced by rows of greeting cards. Reception rooms are fine except after meals and before 10:30 P.M. How 'bout the basement of the girl's dorms? Great! Until a washing machine overflows and wipes out your notes that were on the floor, or someone turns on the T.V. or stereo or decides to play shuffleboard. Sometimes we try to kill two birds with one stone—during the Spring term we soak up the sun, getting tan while studying. This works fine until the sun goes down. Then there's the supply. If you hold your hands over your ears you might only hear a few strains of rock 'n' roll music. If you close your eyes you won't see the foursomes playing bridge or talking. If you close your mouth you won't be tempted to eat, taking time away from your books. For a last resort there is always your room. With your doors and windows closed no sounds permeate from the outside or from the hall. Good lighting pours from your desk lamp. Quiet surrounds you. No one disturbs you. You are in your own private study world. At last you have found a place to study quietly. Soon you are asleep.
Not all the learning goes on in the classroom. Sometimes we learn more in those quiet moments of conversation with another person. It is in the dorm bull sessions or the walks around campus that we learned what makes another person tick.

Then there is that special kind of couple. It holds hands, shares dreams, laughs together, looks at the world, cries at disappointments and failures. It does not necessarily mean love, but sharing a quiet moment with a person who is willing to listen to the quiet with you. Sometimes they help each other with school work or unironed shirts. A couple means sharing.
There is the active side of life at Ursinus, too. It is those special days like IF and Campus Chest that are BIG DAYS for everyone. It is having fun, dancing the frug until you are ready to drop, dropping everything because someone wants a fourth for bridge, playing the game with enthusiasm and vigor, or laughing over a joke. This side of life means just plain enjoying and this year this was especially important to us in our here-today gone-tomorrow kind of world.
Within this institution there is an institution known, for lack of a better term as The Supply. Completed only last summer, the Supply Store has quickly become the center of student activity and after only a short time the mores for accepted behavior in the Supply had grown up. As the source of textbooks, history maps, hamburgers, and coffee you can find companionship in the Supply at almost any hour of the day or night willing to help you procrastinate by practicing the fine art of the significant conversation.

I-F WEEKEND

in more ways than one!
It is a funny thing that one can easily identify a fraternity man at Ursinus. Either he is the well dressed gentleman (which is seldom) or he is dressed in faded sweatshirt, faded jeans, loafers without socks and is unbelievably gross. The sorority girl on the other hand can be recognized even at 50 paces by her neat appearance, her sorority blazer which she wears as long as the weather will allow, and the way she smiles at the freshmen class women.

The fraternities and sororities and in particular the Interfraternity and Intersorority Councils are, however, responsible for most of the social life on campus and provided the setting for many of the lasting friendships formed at Ursinus. The fraternities and sororities are all local and are not permitted houses or suites, (much to the dismay of many students), so that the members are free to have associations outside their group.

The fraternities hold innumerable dated parties and mixers with the sororities. The I-F Council sponsors the Homecoming, Winter Weekend and Spring I-F activities. The I-S Council concerns itself with regulating (at least to some extent) Sorority Rushing.
Another great year . . . a really Greek year with Homer as our leader . . . Homecoming at Campbell’s Oasis—scattered throughout . . . the beautiful and charming Miss Donna Albright reigns as Homecoming Queen—we go “ape” over Donna . . . mixers and dateds at Gary’s, Bob’s and Dave’s . . . the great “Barn Mixer Flop Caper” on Grange Avenue . . . backed to the old kind of stag—the only kind . . . Was he or was she? . . . rebellious pledge class, sore also . . . Spring Dinner Dance at Alden Park Inn . . . this year the Apes climbed higher.
Leadership, friendship, and service

'The "Double Standard" finally defied on the Ursinus campus as leaders of both sexes diligently dredged out a constitution of unity. Going into practice next year, merged Ursinus Student Government Association expected to give effective voice to students.'

Functioning as segregated bodies this year the Student Governments did a smash-up job of carrying on the same old, inert, traditional Ursinus festivities. BUT they also claimed their own "name to fame" in several exciting innovations.

Not since the days of Sherlock Holmes has such a horrendous case been broken with such skill and deftness as was done by the MSGA this year. Their breaking-up of the "Den Dynasty" will be applauded for years to come as THE great and meritorious service to the Ursinus College Community.

Not to be outdone, the WSGA went on to bigger and better things in the crucial controversy around curfews. Showing great courage in asking, some Ursinus women may now stay out until the wee hour of two o'clock.

Our thanks to the Student Governments for a job well done!
FRESHMEN ORIENTATION COMMITTEE

Thomas Dean, president of MSGA

Diana Van Dam, president of WSGA
If an assault on student apathy was the goal of this year's "Y" cabinet, it succeeded far beyond its wildest dreams. For this year the "Y," headed by John Swope and Barbara Gay strongly committed itself to the intellectual aspects of campus life by sponsoring nationally known controversial speakers. Sheriff James G. Clark from Selma, Alabama attracted over 600 people to Wismer Hall (and some from Arkansas, too!) The "Y" also initiated the attempts to bring Madalyn Murray O'Hair to the campus which resulted in her newsworthy address at Oaks Fire Hall. These headline events were supplemented by bi-weekly discussions on provocative films shown by Rev. Gilbert Horn.

The Y also was involved with community service at St. Gabriel's Hall, and on campus sponsored the highly successful Freshmen Camp and also a reception and square dance.
WEEKLY

FOCUS
Big changes came this year as the Ursinus Weekly assumed the role of a twice monthly (and sometimes less frequent) publication. Format changed to six larger pages under the pressure of finance. Many believed that quality was sacrificed as a result, and interest declined. The Weekly served as the official "mouthpiece" of college opinion, news, sports, and Fraternity-Sorority existence. However with the appointment of a new staff in April, a definite shift was noted as more liberal opinions were expressed on controversial issues. Control still remained in the hands of a devoted few and improvement is unavoidable.

The Lantern is Ursinus' literary publication. Suffering this year from lack of support and material, interest wavered. But the issues were a substantial indication of the discerning and sensitive students among us. An appeal was made again for some writing and it was found that creativity was indeed ALIVE. Style is contemporary but each piece hints of originality with evident sincerity.

Ursinus finally plagues the airwaves with its own station—WRUC AM-FM. The brainchild of a half-dozen adventurers last spring, WRUC has provided a new and integral facet of college life by catering to the musical fancies of the student population. An added feature was the scheduling and airing of the more important sporting events of the year. With Headquarters in Derr Hall, WRUC’s staff also ran a repair service. The immediate problem—geniuses to replace those who will graduate.

In its second year Focus, too, suffers from student apathy. Focus provides an outlet for the dissemination of political opinion and comment. Its goal is monthly publication with a standard magazine format but it is hampered by financial problems. Topics range from the locally pertinent items to those of international importance.

Long range plans may include the merger of this publication with the others to provide a diverse and culturally active base of academic stimulation.
CURTAIN CLUB

Row 1: J. Windle, J. Biore, J. Stahl, J. Mills, S. Spohn
The Curtain Club’s welcome to the class of 1970 may have been its traditional one: a one act play, Aria Da Capo, but this year a tradition died. The 1967-68 Ursinus playbill was like nothing the campus had seen before and was only a hint of what it would see in the future. “Holy Mel” Ehrlich can be justly proud of the Club’s first season under his advisorship. The first production, Arthur Miller’s The Crucible, left all critics both surprised and pleased at the cast’s interpretation of a difficult play. In the spirit of changing theatre, the winter production Look Back In Anger was hailed as “one of the best acting jobs ever seen on this campus.” In May the touch was lighter as a cast of thirty-five scored a triumph with The Skin of Our Teeth by Thornton Wilder, concluding a most successful season.

Minor production met with equal success. These included Dylan Thomas’s A Child’s Christmas in Wales, a high point in the chapel programs of the fall semester. In the spring Curtain Club made its first contribution to Campus Chest with Edward Albee’s Zoo Story and The Sandbox. In February the Pumpernickel Players returned to render a beautiful reading of Dylan Thomas’ Under Milk Wood.

Other theatre related activities included the sale of tickets for performances at the Theatre of Living Arts.

The Delta Tau chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, the national honorary collegiate drama fraternity chooses its pledges from those members of Curtain Club who have been an asset to the organization both under the lights and back stage, exemplifying the spirit of “the show must go on!”

■ BAND and MAJORETTES

■ PI NU EPSILON
Despite the efforts of the symphonic orchestra from F & M to mock our band before the football fans, Ursinus' dedicated musicians make up with excellent sound and color what they lack in numbers. Last fall the addition of the majorettes' floor show added a new dimension to our reaction to the band's half-time performance.

A member of the Color Guard is a U.C. lady complete with white gloves, a mini-skirt, and very cold knees. She is also patriotic, strong and packs a mean rifle.

Have you noticed how hard it is to turn off a Meistersinger tourist once he starts talking about hysterical high points of his travels? Could it be that Do-re-mi is fun as well as hard work?

One of the few national honorary organizations on the U.C. campus, Pi Nu Epsilon maintains the dual role of performing various musical functions such as the organization of Song Fest, and being relatively unsung.
Once a month in the Skinner Box of S12, various speakers try to convince U. C.'s psych majors that they may be able to find jobs after graduation. Films, field trips, and Dr. Fletcher complete this specialized picture. The outstanding psychology majors are honored by elections to Psi Chi, the national honorary fraternity.

The transcendental functions of the U. C. Math Club form an integral part of the college's differentiated society. But no treasury means no picnic, so instead it was up to probability games to provide the fun.

Making a good impression on professors while hearing about the current medical world, are both possible at Brownback-Anders meetings. Someday when these doctors overcharge you, you'll know they got their start here.

Led by Miss Schultz through a year of programs by specialized guest speakers and of demonstrations, the Beardwood Chemical Society culminated its activities with an annual barbeque at Staiger's, even though Pfahler is where they do most of their cooking.
PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

BEARDWOOD CHEMICAL SOCIETY
Whitians is the honorary women's scholastic society. Membership is determined by scholastic achievement and extracurricular activities. Representing the female intellectual contingent around the campus. The Whitians honor women who have attained high averages the preceding semester with smart teas complete with musical entertainments.

The Cub and Key is the male counterpart of the Whitians and asserts male hyper-intellectuality at Ursinus. Members of the Cub and Key are chosen from Junior men who have attained high averages and are active in extra curricular activities. It's interesting that Cub and Key members never date Whitians . . .

The Stuics is an honorary society of Junior and Senior men who are trying to promote student-faculty relations by means of luncheon engagements. They derive their name from the "Society to Transform Ursinus Into a College."

Perhaps, considering this as their purpose, they should be called the Stoics.

This was the big year for the College Bowl Team. After years of practice and waiting, Ursinus was scheduled for an appearance on G. E.'s College Bowl Show on April 30. Mr. Davis, the team's coach, drilled the team into preparedness for the big match, and the entire student body journeyed to N. Y. or watched on television. Even though the team did not win, Ursinus received a great deal of coast-to-coast publicity.

SPANISH CLUB

ENGLISH CLUB

GERMAN CLUB

The practical students on campus belong to the Pennsylvania State Education Association. For students who plan to teach the P.S.E.A. affords an opportunity to ask questions, discuss problems, learn professional techniques . . . and earn brownie points.

The English, German, and Spanish Clubs provide an outside source for language majors to gain further insight into the culture of their "adopted homelands." An additional attraction for the English Club is Mrs. Yosts' famous brownies. Both German and Spanish Clubs highlighted the year's activities with their annual Christmas carolling. Under dynamic leadership the Spanish Club sponsored the sale of Unicef greeting cards and absorbed Spanish culture in New York.
The most exciting thing that happened to the Young Republicans this year was the landing of Governor Scranton in a helicopter to kick off the Shafer-Broderick campaign. The YR attended conventions in Harrisburg and at Princeton University and ended the year by jointly working with their arch-adversary, the Young Democrats in a bi-partisan campaign for State Constitutional Revision. While canvassing the mighty metropolis of Collegeville the Young Democrats unfortunately lost three members along the "river road." They accepted the defeat of Shapp graciously and began preparing for their next important task—the '68 Presidential campaign.

Extending the college political scene internationally was the International Relations Club. In the Fall the IRC attended a seminar on S. E. Asia in Washington where they heard Dean Rusk. New York and the National Model U. N. hosted the IRC in the Spring after the IRC survived the hazards of Dr. Howard’s driving and Bronson’s "Ever Presence."

The Debating Club enjoyed an active year matched against teams from N.Y.U., Dickinson, American and West Virginia. Despite Mr. Vannucci’s incessant stopping to read road signs and adventures in back street bars, the Club experienced a fruitful forensic year.

ECONOMICS CLUB

The Canterbury Club provides activities within the structure of the Church for Episcopalian students. The club meets twice monthly to hear speakers of interest to the students. Twice weekly transportation is provided to church services at the local parish.

The Christian Fellowship meets weekly at the home of Dr. Russell Sturgis for Bible study and discussions. This year they had several speakers and showed a film depicting the activities of Christian groups at Daytona Beach.

Pi Gamma Mu is the national honorary social science fraternity. Meeting the law of supply and demand Ursinus' Ec. majors get together to hear speakers from varied industries and to tentatively solve what world problems they can. The real question is the Club's financial policy—if its fringe benefits are found attractive, its membership suddenly may increase rapidly.

COLLEGEVILLE FIREMEN

CANTERBURY CLUB

PI GAMMA MU

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
The Outing Club sponsors outdoor activity not available on campus. Students plan the trips, carry out the arrangements, and share the enjoyment of the activities which are open to students and faculty. This year somewhat limited by capricious weather the club planned only five outings, a day trip to the shore, a spelunking expedition, a climb to the pinnacle, skiing, and camping at French Creek. Funny, that the members are always dirty after their good “clean” fun!

Like the Outing Club, The Agency seeks to fill the entertainment gap at Ursinus. This year it tried to discover just what it is the students will support. The first concerts a few years ago were in the folk idiom, but the craze passed and the remaining folkniks could not provide enough support.

Therefore this year the Agency presented other types of music which met with varying success: The Swingle Singers of Paris (“Who are they?”), Odetta, The Drifters at Winter Weekend, and Hy Lit at Spring I-F with assorted guest artists, among them Len Barry and DeeDee Sharp.

The Spirit Committee and Cheerleaders also had to contend with student apathy. It is significant that during football season there was only one Spirit Committee meeting. Perhaps the most remarkable thing about our peppy cheerleaders this year was that the Bear was a girl!
SPIRIT COMMITTEE & CHEERLEADERS

THE AGENCY
W.A.A.

VARSITY CLUB
The football team, captained by Rich Baker and Tony Motto, started the season with a tie against Muhlenberg and a victory over Johns Hopkins. Then the squad ran into the three toughest opponents on the schedule. First Wilkes downed the Bears. A fired-up Swarthmore team came to Ursinus’s Homecoming Day and handed us a setback. Alfred University completely outclassed the Bears in an away game. With those three losses behind them, the Team entertained Dickinson on Patterson Field and for three periods dominated the game. Leading 10-0 at the start of the fourth quarter, the Ursinus fans saw victory snatched from their grasp when Dickinson ran up a quick 13 points.
For the Ursinus hockey team victory is a tradition. This year the tradition again remained untarnished. Coached by Miss Snell the team ended its undefeated season with a tremendous win over West Chester. All eleven players placed on one of the All College teams. Brenda, Kim, Judy, Guesty, Janet, Joan, Macy, Nixon, and Gwen all journeyed to St. Louis to represent the Philadelphia area in the national tournament. Except for a few casualties and a shaky landing, Ursinus came back with a feather in its cap. Junior Joan Moser was chosen for the United States All-American Hockey Team, and freshman Kim Brown and senior Linda Nixon were selected for the U. S. Reserve Hockey Team.

The team wishes Joan “Auf Wiedersehen and gut Glück” in her travels to Germany and farewell to Brenda, Judy, Gale, Guesty, Ave, Else, Fran, Cindy, and Nixon.
J.V. HOCKEY
SOCCER

Sparked by Bill Megill and Buzz Cuthbert this year’s squad of Bear Booters, had high hopes of improving upon last year’s disappointing record. Coaching duties were again handled by Dr. Donald Baker, this year aided by Dr. Ferguson, who was an asset to the team. Before the season was more than half way complete it was evident that the 4-3 record gave the team its first opportunity for a winning season since 1954. Playing their last games for Ursinus were Seniors Bill Megill, Buzz Cuthbert, J. Fertig, and Robin Harshaw.
Anxious to improve upon last year's record which was one of the best at Ursinus in several years, the varsity basketballers began the season with one of the best games seen on this campus in a long time. The team then continued its winning ways, however its hopes for the MAC title were destroyed by Swarthmore. Winning three of their last four games gave them a second place finish in the Southern Division and an attempt against Drexel in the MAC playoff's. Although eliminated it was a season of which Ursinus could be proud. Bob Compton, not a regular started at the beginning of the season, led the MAC in scoring with a 22 point average.
J.V. BASKETBALL
WOMEN'S WINTER SPORTS

It is amazing that Ursinus can have a swimming team without a pool! Yet despite a combination of illness, lack of swimmers, and lack of practice the team managed to romp through their last three meets after losing their first three. The varsity was led by Linda Van Horn and Nancy Holland, while Harriet Metagar led the diving. Linda Nixon and Lindsey Kneas filled many of the gaps in the swimming events.

Headed by co-captains, Brenda "Problem Knee" Bedser and Diana "Apple Knees" vanDam, the varsity basketball team completed one of the most successful seasons in several years with a record of six wins and one loss. Despite only three returning varsity players, long practices and hard work shaped the team into a fearsome six. After a victory over East Stroudsburg by the unexpected score of 57-31 the team moved on to a season of hard fought victories, marked by the ability of the varsity to make a comeback in the second half.

The highlight of the season was a revenge victory over West Chester in the last minutes of the game.

This year the Badminton team was coached by Mrs. Sandra Famous, both a graduate of Ursinus and a former varsity player. With only two returning letter winners, the team was relatively inexperienced for intercollegiate competition. Throughout the season, however, the girls displayed the enthusiasm and spirit essential to a winning team which resulted in a 5-3 record.

VARSITY BASKETBALL
• BADMINTON

• SWIMMING

WRESTLING

Prospects for a bright wrestling season were greatly dimmed by injuries. Even before the season had begun captain Eric Ruoss dislocated a shoulder and consequently did not see action at all. Jim Hoffmaster took over the helm and he posted one of the better records. Also 123 pounder Steve Weiss and 152 pounder Mills Eure had winning records in their respective classes. However the wrestling picture for next year appears brighter with four freshmen and four sophomores on the squad who will bring plenty of experience to the team.
BASEBALL

Hopes for a successful season were sparked by the return of five lettermen including outfielder and captain Bill Henry and Vic Tacconelli, last year selected as an all-league player. The season began with the team winning an impressive three of its first four games, and there were hopes that the team might be a title contender. However, as the season wore on the combination of bad weather and bad defense combined to eliminate the Bears despite the fine pitching efforts of Dave Campbell and freshman Pete Shuman, who carried a heavy load all season.

The girls softball team posted a 3 and 2 season this year, beating Penn twice and splitting with West Chester, and losing to Trenton. The highlight of the season was, without a doubt, the second game with West Chester. In this game Ursinus tripped its traditional rivals in the bottom of the eighth inning by a score of 4-3. Miss Snell will be looking forward to the 1968 season for only senior Gale Fellenser will be leaving and the many remaining underclasswomen have gained valuable experience during this season.
This year’s track team made a remarkable and astonishing showing considering that it had to depend upon freshmen and was without the superstars which have marked U.C. track history. The team also received extra training as track became an all year sport when cross country was added as a new event in the fall.

The season began with five straight wins, and many marks falling during the course of these meets. However the team was routed by the PMC cadets.

Balance and spirit carried the team led by co-captains Rich Baker and Steve Crawford to a fourth place in the MAC although Ursinus was unable to win a single event.
GOLF
The observer on the scene predicted at the outset of the season that for the men's tennis team 1967 would be the year that should have been but never was. Yet the team saw steady improvement until the time of the MAC competition resulting in three wins and four losses. Several of the remaining matches were cancelled because of a wet spring. The standout of the team was senior captain Pete Wills, the perennial MAC star.
WOMEN’S TENNIS

Rainy days, flooded courts, strong winds, practice today? eating out, warm weather, twins and sisters, the trip to G-burg and the victory over Bryn Mawr are a few of the things the members of the women’s tennis team will remember.

The season began in a slow fashion with two very close defeats. However team enthusiasm and ripened potential helped to produce a winning record of five wins and three losses for this year’s varsity team. Jean Bonkoski, with a record of 7-1 held the best individual record on the team, while three freshmen, Joan Storer, Margie Allen and Mary McBath easily claimed positions on the team. Co-captains Elsa and Nixon and senior Jane Tillotson leave behind for the 1968 tennis team the hope for a successful season and . . . better weather.
LACROSSE
The strange tactics employed by the "grenade-throwing" defense as well as a 6-1 season were two of the Lacrosse team's "explosions" that shocked the U.C. campus. Led by defense wing Carol Guest and point Brenda Bedser, the team will have many memories of the 1967 season.

Freshman year means a year of rebellion and learning and being new to everything all at once. It is a year when great importance is placed upon being cool and sophisticated, and the freshman's success is measured by how greatly he shocks his mother on Parents' Day. Freshman Camp is a pre-orientation orientation, and everyone is nervous and anxious to impress everyone else, despite his own feelings of inadequacy and incompetency.

This Freshman feeling is increased by the return of the upperclassmen and the C.C.C (Campus Cruelty Corps). Freshmen feel even more out of place in their newly purchased “in” fashions when they see the upperclassmen in their cut-offs and sweatshirts. Wearing signs and dinks and singing “Up in the Air Junior Birdsmen” does not help their situation.

Freshmen usually live in an offcampus dorm. They get to know its residents very well and take refuge in them for they know hardly anyone else. They spend hours together in discussions which somehow always lead from religion to sex. If they have not before, sometime during the year they take up smoking. The girls find themselves gaining weight, much as they hate the food, and smoking becomes a method of dieting for them.
FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

Eventually the Freshman is faced with his first hourly and consequently his first all-nighter. With hours of history or CMP notes to read, he smokes, drinks coffee, or if he is really desperate, resorts to No-Doz. He may stay awake, but by morning, feeling like the morning after, he resolves never again to allow studying to go until the last minute.

Freshman year also means the first fraternity party and its quota of inebriated students. It means being away from home for the first time, going through the bewilderment of registration, of buying books, learning to live with a roommate, accepting responsibility for one's own work, writing a term paper, being forced to cheer for the football team, pledging a fraternity, and just watching the squirrels scurry across campus. For some of the Freshmen, this becomes their first experience with adulthood.

Freshman year is experiencing new feelings and practicing new ideas. It is a year of work and procrastination. Most of all it is a year of self discovery. When Freshman year ends, so does the last opportunity to be a child.
The world looks golden for Sophomores returning in the fall. They are determined to improve their grades, and the Dean’s List appears an easily attainable goal. Moreover they are going to be well rounded. Like the last of the great joiners, they participate in extra-curricular activities. This year, they are resolved, their social life is going to be glorious. Sophomores are rarely big shots, but they know their way around campus. Their professors know them by name, and no longer do they hesitate to argue a point after class. They receive added prestige by helping to orient the freshmen and serving as advisors.

The girls’ good intentions about studying are soon ruined by two weeks of mass hysteria known as fall rush. Never again will Sophomore women receive so much attention. With girls from the sorority in their room all day and most of the night it becomes impossible for them to keep up with their work.

E. Mihaly, R. Johnson, R. Basco, B. Jackson.
Finally after much soul-searching they pledge their favorite colors, amid songs and tears on Freeland steps. However they are not yet free to study for immediately pledging begins. For several weeks they cringe inwardly, but suffer the humiliation which the sorority asks.

Soon afterward the mid-term hourlies begin. All good intentions to study have evaporated. Sophomores find themselves totally unprepared and unorganized. A kind of fatalism results. Why bother to study, it is impossible to get a good grade anyway... The Sophomore Slump has begun. They fall into a great depression. Their grades suffer, but they can find little reason for studying. It is more appealing to waste an afternoon playing bridge in the Supply. They become terribly introspective, enjoy poems about death, and question the value of a college education. At the same time their social life declines. This leads inevitably to the universal Sophomore disease— I-want-to-transfer-itis.

Somehow Sophomores make it through the year and form plans for the next year. Dorm life is a satisfying experience, for room drawing allows friends to be neighbors. They enjoy their second Spring at Ursinus in a more mature way. Bridge and Hearts fill the spare moments, along with touch football and Perk parties.

Sophomore year is an awful year, which in January seems endless, but in June appears to have sped by. In some respects it is a year of satisfaction. At home they have broken the ties, and they enjoy their new adult status. Sophomore year is a time for self understanding and deciding what one wants to do with the future.
JUNIORS

Junior year begins with a feeling of confidence, and just plain being in the know, for Introduction to Ursinus I, II has been completed. Juniors know what they have to do, but even more important they know what they do not have to do. They know how to talk themselves out of overcuts in Chapel, how to pick their British Lit. professor by room number and pattern, how to study for just about anybody’s test, and how to get in or out of the Chairmanship of the Junior Prom. They know the system and whom to see to get around it.

Juniors are just there . . . waiting. No fuss is made over them anymore. They are expected to know the thou-shalt-nots of campus. No longer can they plead ignorance about on-campus regulations to Mrs. Pearson nor to Dean Whatley about having to register refrigerators. Juniors have made the big switch: Chapel is on Tuesday and Thursday now, but this still does not stop their complaints.

Juniors know that they are not going to transfer. As a result they have become resigned to the situation and are basically well adjusted to their Ursinus existence. Juniors usually are apathetic; they have only one more year and, as a result, are subject to the "why bother" attitude. Yet they still can get excited about the Lorelei and the fun of sorority and fraternity rush.

Usually Juniors have completed their required courses and have more advanced courses in their major. But the inspiration and determination to improve they may have felt at the beginning of the year evaporates as the work becomes more impossible than inspirational. Juniors expect their professors to know them by name, but along with their new prestige on campus, they have worries about their future. They listen to Senior plans concerning jobs, marriage, and The Draft, and sometimes wonder if after three years, they know anything at all. The end is in sight; they are over half way through. Junior year is a year with so much to learn—so little time—and grades forever in the way.

SENIORS

Senior year begins with a feeling of climax. Finally after three years we have reached the giddy heights. Only we find that closer examination reveals that senior year is not all it is cracked up to be. We know we have learned something since freshman year, yet we have a hard time proving it to ourselves. We do not feel like what-the-seniors-acted-like when we were freshmen. There is a new urgency about things this year. This is the last time we will be together as a group and we want to enjoy things while we may.

However before we can get too nostalgic we get caught up in a hectic whirl. A portion of the class gets involved in student teaching. For three months they arise early, wear heels or ties daily and stumble to Wismer for breakfast while it is still dark. In return they receive the compensation of a semester of free chapel cuts and the knowledge that they can do SOMETHING next year.

After Christmas there is a sudden increase in the number of diamonds as a portion of the class makes its post-graduation plans, while those girls without start protesting how much graduate school or their career means to them. The boys start scanning career interview lists with one eye while apprehensively reading the news about Vietnam and The DRAFT with the other.
Seniors are in an enviable position academically. They take advanced courses in their major as well as courses they want to, either because of interest or because they seem to require little work. Some members also take Senior Symposium, an interdepartmental seminar, and they enjoy discussing many aspects of some contemporary issues with the faculty in a relaxed atmosphere. Others go through the months of research and several all-nighters of typing which give them honors at graduation. Almost before we know it the end of the year is upon us. This year it is harder than ever to get oneself organized to study for finals. Graduation Week is a haze of rushing around trying to get everything packed and saying good-by to everyone. When it is all over we go forward much as we were when we began Freshman year, eager for tomorrow yet slightly apprehensive about what it will bring.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Row 1: Jeanne Reid, treasurer. Row 2: Lawrence Romane, vice president, John Bauerle, president, Donna Albright, secretary.
The 1966 Ruby was troubled by the upsetting discovery that it lacked a publisher. This year's book however has been plagued with the lack of one editor. However in our administratively disorganized fashion, we bumbled along and somehow things at least got done, if not on time.

As with all yearbook editors it has been our purpose to depict this year at our school. However we have tried to some extent to break from the usual manner in which this has been done in the past at Ursinus. It has been our goal to look at this past year as it was, as honestly as we could. It has not been our intent to offend any person, or any organization. However in order to portray this year as accurately as we could it was necessary to express opinions and attitudes which we feel reflect the majority opinion on campus. It is the editorial opinion that despite our eagerness to complete our education most U. C. students genuinely like Ursinus and value the associations made here among the faculty and students. However we do have a basis for some good natured gripes. In the 1967 Ruby we have tried to show both sides. Finally we wish to thank all the people who have aided in the production of this book in great and small ways; especially Rita and Bob who have worked very hard to keep us solvent; Mr. Carl Peterson of Wm. J. Keller Inc. and Mr. Robert Johnson of Merin Studios. Well, here it is. We hope it meets with your approval.

It is largely because of President Helfferich's vision that Ursinus has vigorously begun a plan of academic and physical advancements toward improving the quality of education at Ursinus. His interest in the students as individuals is evidenced by his traditional generous support of Campus Chest. Furthermore until finally outbid by Forum's Buy-the-Tie Fund he was the owner of perhaps the most expensive tie in the county. Hidden over in Zwingli Hall is the Vice-President, Dr. Wagner. However he knows all about us because of the publicity releases he sends out whenever we do something noteworthy. Wise and understanding, Dr. Wagner is a good man to know whenever the student needs a friend.

A good deal of credit is owed to Dean Whatley. For not only is he Dean of Men, a position not known for its pacific qualities, but he also has the frustrating job of football coach. Need we say more!

JAMES E. WAGNER

Vice-President
If there ever was a man who looked like what a college dean is supposed to look like it is Dean Pettit. He is always the well dressed gentleman, always the capable administrator, and he ALWAYS carries a pocket handkerchief.

On the other hand Assistant Dean Vorrath (faintly) reminds us of the Jolly Green Giant . . . at least until he starts speaking Spanish. It really is too bad Ursinus doesn’t have a faculty basketball team.

The female representative on the best dressed list of the faculty is Dean Rothenberger. While serving as official college hostess, she is also in charge of student activities and the one to see about problems ranging from room drawing to obtaining a forum speaker and just about everything in between.
